Seven pitted in race for school board

Candidates' comments, 3A

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

One of the most heated election campaigns in the history of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will culminate at the polls June 12.

Challenging school board president David Artley in his re-election bid are Citizens for Better Education candidate Robert Anderson and five others.

Citizens for Better Education is a group of Christian conservatives opposed to the classroom use of R-rated films and other teaching materials.

CBE, which is committed to electing a new school board, elected Barbara Graham last year.

One four-year term is open. Trustees Marilyn Schwinn and Jeanette Wines are up for re-election in 1990. The terms of Dean Swartzwelder and Roland Thomas expire in 1991. Barbara Graham and Dr. E.J. McClelland are up for re-election in 1992.

Voters also will decide two millage questions. One proposal would impose a property tax increase of 4 mills for two years. The other seeks an 8-mill renewal, also for two years.

school officials say will be necessary if the 4-mill increase fails, citizens' groups have sprung up. Assisted by school employees and board members, the groups are calling and writing voters, speaking to community groups and staging rallies.

Several community leaders have approached the six non-CBE candidates, asking them to get together, choose the most electable candidate, and to back him or her in order to defeat Anderson. See related story.

WHILE EACH of the candidates has an individual agenda for the schools, the challengers cite a lack of board leadership as a reason for running.

Candidate Ronald Turner says the board needs a more positive image.

"I've observed board meetings, and I think board members are kind of arrogant in the way they do business. It seems they either don't care, or don't have time to listen to people's problems," said Turner.

"When the board does not respond to 15-20 CBE members who voice their concerns, I see that as political," said candidate Mary Buti. "I feel that board members haven't communicated well, otherwise they wouldn't be in the situation they're in now."

"There are a lot of unhappy people out there," said Anderson. "I sympathize with them not being able to get a response from those in charge. If there is that segment in our community with more conservative values, and they want to elect me, I'll serve," he said.

Candidate Joan Kotcher said she's a better choice than Artley because "I have a better background in education, and more leadership than the incumbent. He is failing to lead at times when it's crucial," Kotcher said.

"I sense a lack of leadership and direction, both with board communication with employees and with the community at large," said Carl Battishill.

"I cite CBE as an example. The Residents in the Highland area of Oakland County are trying to have the Dow Chemical Co. train that also goes through Plymouth and Canton rerouted to the western side of the state.

But even if it were routed to a different set of tracks, it would still travel through Plymouth and Canton because there's no alternative, officials say.

Residents in the Highland area, where the Dow train derailed in April, are starting a petition drive to force the rerouting.

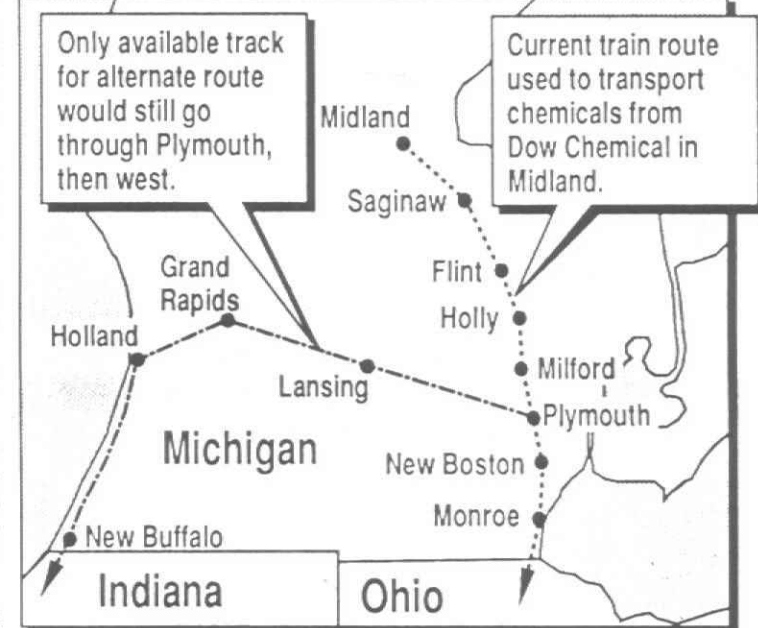

However, no such opposition has surfaced in either Plymouth or Canton.

Meanwhile, Charles VanVleck, Plymouth Township deputy emergency services director, said that the Dow train is only one that carries hazardous material in tanker cars and that they don't pose a special risk.

"This train gets a lot of notoriety,

Anti-CBE movement begins

Six of the seven candidates running for the Plymouth-Canton school board June 12 have been asked by a group of community leaders to help ensure that Robert Anderson, the candidate supported by Citizens for Better Education, loses the election.

The non-CBE candidates are being urged to choose the most electable candidate among them, and to back that person so that the non-CBE vote isn't split.

School board president David Artley, Mary Buti, Joan Kotcher, Brian Kidston, Ronald Turner and Carl Battishill are running for one four-year term.

"I believe that unless drastic action is taken by several candidates for this school board position, the result will be a very easy win for the CBE candidate," former Plymouth city commissioner George Hudson said in a letter to Turner.

"I believe the aim of the CBE is to destroy the 'inquiring mind' through censorship. I realize the ballots have gone to print, but strong statements from each of the withdrawn candidates would result in the defeat of the CBE candidate," Hudson wrote.

The same sentiments were echoed by former school board member Joanne Hulce; retired Hulsing principal Kate Otto; Plymouth landowners George and Mary Elizabeth Smith; Jack and Jo Wilson; Richard and Wilma Newton; David and Janet Campbell; and Robert and Nancy Cooper. All wrote letters to the candidates.

REACTION TO the idea varied. "I find myself more concerned with your request to alter the democratic process now in motion than I am with the agenda of the CBE," Turner wrote in response.

"This is because they (CBE) at least are working within the framework of the system, whereas you attempt to bypass it.

"I will not resign the race, and strongly urge my opponents not to do so," he said. "If there are so many concerned people out there, you should all get together and pick the strongest candidate to defeat Robert Anderson."

Battishill said he met with Artley to discuss the idea.

"We both asked each other to withdraw," Battishill said. "When I asked if we are better off since he was elected, he skirted the issue, so I couldn't in good conscience withdraw."

"THESE CARING and concerned citizens must not be aware of the oath that each school board member takes after they are elected to office," Buti said. "They pledge to consider the opinions and concerns of all citizens with favoritism towards none and with the best interests of the school district and the children at heart."

"These well-intentioned residents must not be aware that, as publicly elected officials in a democratic society, any board member can be removed from that board by a recall election," Buti said.

Kotcher was receptive to the idea. "I approached David Artley when I got the letters. I told him if it came to this, I would be very willing to support him, because the welfare of the community is more important

Taxes will go up without millages

Cuts identified, 2A

By Doug Funke

Homeowners in the Plymouth/Canton school district would see their school tax bills jump at least 10 percent this year even if a proposal for a 4-mill tax increase were to go down to defeat at the polls Monday, June 12.

That assumes approval of the 8-mill renewal and Wayne County finalizing preliminary assessment figures.

If the increase and the renewal were to be approved, homeowners in Plymouth Township would pay 25 percent more for school operations and debt retirement than they did last year.

Corresponding figures for homeowners in the city of Plymouth and Canton are 24 and 22 percent, respectively, because property values didn't rise as much in those two municipalities.

WHY SHOULD voters support the millage increase even though they're going to be hit with an increase of at least 10 percent anyway?

"Our total revenue has been based on dual funding sources — state support and local taxes," said Diane Barnes, finance director for the schools.

"As the local tax base increases, state support decreases. The state funds are decreasing disproportionately from local tax increases," she said.

The district netted $4 million more in local revenue this year than last but received $5 million less in state aid, Barnes said.

The district expects to lose an additional $3.3 million in state aid next year, she said. The district expects to realize about $5.8 million in additional local revenue next year assuming approval of the 8-mill renewal.

The 4-mill increase would generate an additional $6 million, Barnes said.

A SUBSTANTIAL tax burden would arise even with rejection of the millage increase because property must be looked at in total rather than by class when dealing with the Headlee tax limitation amendment and truth in taxation.

"If you can't collect more from industrial and commercial because they didn't go up, it gets shifted to residential," said John McLenaghan, an appraiser whose company does work in Canton and Plymouth townships.

lems in the last year and half. When we have a problem we muster the resources to get to the bottom of it."

THE TOWNSHIP had similar problems with the telephone system last year during construction of a sanitary sewer for the library next to the administration building.

"I believe it was damage to a cable during construction," he said. Santomauro has identified problems with the telephone system since 1986 when he sent memos to the township supervisor.

"My concerns were that people may call on the 397-3000 line for emergency service and not realizing there was an emergency number," Santomauro said.

$3.2 million in cuts set if millage fails

The school board has identified $3.2 million in potential cuts if the 4-mill increase fails at the polls.

- Laying off 75 teachers and cutting the school day from six to five hours throughout the district.
- Cutting 16½ custodial positions districtwide.
- Slashing funding for high school sports by a third.
- Eliminating all middle school sports.
- Closing the student-operated radio station at the high schools.

$1.8 million in potential restorations should the 4-mill increase win approval.

- Hiring 24 teachers.
- Re-roofing Hulsting, Erickson and Hulsting elementary schools.
- Restoring the textbook purchase budget by $225,000.
- Increasing the discretionary spending allowance to individual schools by a total of $140,000.
- Rehiring of custodians on elementary schools can remain open for community use after 5 p.m.
- Eliminating extracurricular participation fees.

Petition wins stop sign

A petition with 80 signatures won Salem Manor subdivision residents a stop sign at the corner of Sutten and Stonehenge.

"At that intersection people are speeding down the street and there have been several near misses," said Carey Peters, Salem Manor Homeowners Association president.

"Also with children riding bicycles we needed people to stop and look," Peters said.

The Canton Township board of trustees approved the stop sign at a recent board meeting.

School board hopefuls speak on issues

Robert E. Anderson Jr.
Age: 32
Employed: Self employed financial planner
Residence: Canton Township
Comments

• He is against the 4 mill property tax increase and "not in favor or opposed to the 8 mill renewal. That's my decision to make. It's for the voters."

• Anderson is the lone candidate

David P. Arley
Age: 44
Employed: Spectrum Human Services development officer
Residence: Canton Township
Comments

• He supports the 4 mill property tax increase and the 8 mill renewal. "We haven't gotten into dialogue on what would happen if the 8 mills were to fail, but it would be absolutely horrendous. You could operate schools but it sure wouldn't be as we know them."

• "I've spent time in school building and in parents' homes making sure the channels of information work for them," said Arley, a six year board member and board president.

• Arley plans to spend between $4,000 and $5,000 on his re-election campaign.

• "I would dedicate myself to attempt to facilitate a school finance reform."

• "The perception is that CBE (Citizens for Better Education) represents all Christians and I think in fact they don't."

• Citizen involvement is important to deciding teaching materials. "You've got to get them involved and see what's important to them."

• "Good schools are important to everybody. Good schools are good for business and the community."

• "In terms of disinformation, with regards to CBE, I still ask the same question I've asked for four years. They say the board is unresponsive, but in fact every complaint they filed, a committee was formed, reviewed it, looked at it and made a recommendation. The superintendent reviewed it."

• "Leadership. I see this particular area needy of my assistance."

• "I think the biggest concern is the financial situation. I'd like to see that reviewed by an independent staff of accountants to see where excess is, if any."

• "Three volumes (of policy and procedures manuals) is redundant. That needs to be consolidated, updated and revised."

• "I think they have not achieved their goal if it was to communicate better with the community. You're seeing a split in the community. I see the board being in the middle and not being able to bail out."

• "The role (on teaching materials) should be setting standards of education and leaving it up to individual schools and administration to set the pace, do research and evaluation."

• "I'm for the renewal. I'm against the millage increase. I think more effort should be put getting money back from the state. Kind of coalesce with other school boards so you have a louder voice."

• "People don't want to be faced with another tax. It's always for a good purpose but the purpose doesn't always materialize."

• "There seems to be a general discontent on the direction the board is taking, how it stems to people and the community as if they don't care, don't have time. They isolate themselves too much."

• "I think the biggest problem, and it's just not facing our district, is general quality of educational expectations we have of students and teachers. We're accepting mediocrity and we can't continue to do that."

• "I would concentrate first and foremost in math and science, then gradually raise it across the board."

• "I'm against censoring. It doesn't work. If you have material in the classroom, it's up to students to decide on values what's good or what's bad. You can't protect them from themselves. Kids have access to everything anyway."

• "The board would not be there if there were 'good interpersonal relationships throughout the district, Kidston added."

• Arley said, "I defend people's right to dissent, but I have problems with disinformation. CBE says the board is unresponsive, yet every complaint filed has been reviewed."

• "Many of the problems now going

Candidate questions

The seven candidates for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education were asked the following questions.

1. Do you support the proposed 4-mill property tax increase? Do you support the 8-mill renewal?
2. Why are you running?
3. What is your agenda for the school district?
4. What is the biggest problem in the district and how would you solve it?
5. What do you think of the teaching materials used in the schools?

Comments

• "I support both the 4-mill increase and the 8-mill renewal. The district is running efficiently. There's little waste. The district needs the money because it's growing."

• "There's a lack of leadership in the district," he said, adding that the school board isn't communicating well. He said that when the board was responding to questions about a course being taught, "it didn't even talk to the teacher involved."

• "Teaching materials in the schools are outdated," he said, adding that computers aren't used enough. Also, video production should be taught. "There's job opportunities in that field."

• "Learning should be improved. Students learn best with enthusiastic teachers," he said, adding that teachers in the district are looking for other jobs. "The principals and administrators should be part of the situation. They should take a look at what's going on in the classroom."

• "The central administration is isolated from the staff," he said, adding that the CREW report said that. He also said that board members should know what's going on in the schools.

Student group supports millage requests

By LeAnne Rogers
staff writer

Calling themselves the Student Organization for Schools (SOS), a group of high school students are working for renewal of 8 mills and a 4-mill increase on June 12 to offset what they see as the deterioration of educational programs in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

"We formed because the schools have been deteriorating for the last three years," said SOS member Tara Wallenweber. "It is evident when you see the classes that aren't being offered. We are short of supplies and materials."

About 40 students from both high schools are active in SOS, Wallenweber said, with an immediate goal of getting the millage renewal and increase approved.

"Without the millage the taxpayers are condemning us and saying we won't get a decent education," she said. "I'm referring to citizens who don't vote or who haven't voted in favor of the millage."

ANOTHER SOS member Danielle Wahlquist said students are being punished by persons who vote against the millage because they aren't happy with the school administration or board of education.

SOS is working to get the millage approved, including leaflets and an informational rally in Kellogg Park on June 3, and endorsing incumbent board candidate David Artley.

However, the group won't form a political action committee, said Wahlquist, adding, "We don't need all the paper work."

She said SOS won't raise funds or financially support the millage or Artley's campaign.

Parents of SOS members will provide photocopying of leaflets, Wallenweber said, with any costs that might arise also subsidized by parents.

"We have support from teachers and administrators but we are not funded by the schools," Wallenweber said.

Some parents have warned the students that their efforts might be taken advantage of, according to Wahlquist, who added "we have been keeping our eyes open."

THE GROUP has long term goals beyond passage of the millage question next month, according to Wallenweber, including a representative to the board of education.

"Long term we would like more student participation in the schools," she said. "A lot of people in the surrounding areas decide our future and dictate what will happen to us. We want student participation at all levels and things affecting students."

Censorship of materials to which students have access was another concern raised by the SOS members.

"With the past censorship problems, there was not a single student representative," Wallenweber said. "We are opposed to education leaders who want to break the rules. It endangers our academic freedom and we want to protect our rights."

SOS members unanimously voted to support Artley's re-election to the school board, Wallenweber said.

"He has kept the procedures of the board," she added. "We don't want board members who look corrupt by breaking the rules and we are against censorship."

OTHER THAN Artley and another candidate, Robert Anderson, Wallenweber said the board candidates did not take strong positions on issues.

SOS has received approval for their meeting on Saturday, June 3, from 3 p.m. until 10 p.m. at Kellogg Park from the Plymouth city commission. The students will pass out millage leaflets, Wallenweber said, with presentations by students artists, singers, musicians and poets.

At the commission meeting, City Manager Henry Graper said that he did not favor granting the request for park use since the function was "a political use."

"Also this would be at cruising time. We don't want to invite people to the park when a couple blocks over we are asking people to move along," he added.

Commissioner Ronald Loiselle said it was his understanding that the city couldn't limit a group's use of the park based on politics.

Commissioner Mary Childs said she was also concerned about the student group using the park. "The students can pass a millage by their pride in their schools," she said. "That will do more than a meeting in the park."

Commissioner Robert Jones said if the commissioners couldn't turn down the request that perhaps the time for the event could be restricted to end by 7 p.m. not 10 p.m. as planned.

A concern raised by commissioner Ralph Kenyon was regarding the group's ability to provide an insurance waiver to indemnify the city. He said he would make approval of the park use contingent on providing an insurance certificate.

City attorney Ronald Lowe said the city does require groups using the park to provide a certificate of insurance.

Rerouting sought

but it's not the only one in the area," he said. "From an emergency standpoint, there is no reason to pinpoint this particular train for derailment."

The Dow Chemical cars have been referred to as the "Death Train" in accounts of its derailling in Highland Township.

However, Matt Davis, a Dow spokesman, said the name isn't accurate, since no one has ever been killed by the train or its contents.

"The materials in this train are classified as potentially hazardous," Davis said.

He said the cars usually carry styrene, vinylidene chloride and phenol, which are used primarily in making plastic products, according to Davis.

The risk posed to people by these chemicals would be irritation caused by direct skin contact or by breathing the fumes, according to Davis.

"You would need many different conditions for an explosion of these materials and it would be highly unlikely," he said. "Certainly the quantity is a concern but containers of the products you have at home do not have the sophisticated containers that the train does."

Evacuations of nearby residents is a precautionary measure when a train derails, Davis said, regardless of the train contents.

Other trains passing through the area on a daily basis have tanker cars containing chemicals or combustibles such as propane, according to VanVleck.

"That type of incident certainly has the possibility for occurring here," VanVleck said. "The key from the railroad standpoint is to keep the tracks and crossings in good repair. They have a pretty excellent record with this train, but you only hear about it when something goes wrong."

The derailment resulted from mechanical failure, according to Lindsay Leckie, a spokesman for the Jacksonville Florida-based CSX

Transportation, which owns the railroad tracks and provides the cars to Dow.

He said the derailment was caused by the freight car body becoming out of alignment with the car's running gear, and called it a rare occurrence.

Residents in the Highland-Milford area would like the train to use a former route along Lake Michigan on its Midland to Freeport, Texas, journey.

That route took the chemical train northwest through Clare, Ewart, Baldwin and south through the Grand Rapids area, before continuing south along the eastern shore of Lake Michigan.

"The original route for this train no longer exists. The track has been abandoned," Leckie said. "It is no secret that there is too much rail infrastructure for the amount of traffic and unprofitable lines are sold. The line between Claire and Ewart was a candidate for that."

In recent years, the chemical train has been routed through Saginaw, Flint, western Oakland County, New Hudson and on to Plymouth, according to Leckie. Currently, the train then heads south through Monroe, he said.

The only alternate routing possible based on existing CSX tracks would be to send the chemical train back north through Lansing after Plymouth, Leckie said, to Grand Rapids, Holland, over to Lake Michigan and south to Indiana.

"I don't want to get into a stone-throwing contest with another community, but as soon as you reroute any train, it's going to go by someone else's house," VanVleck said. "I guess its human nature not to want it by your house."

"Obviously, we are concerned that the train is operated safely and that we use the best possible route," Davis said. "We will look at any suggestions. We want the public to be confident about the way the train runs. We are going for the same goal, and that is safety."

than my being elected," Kotcher said.

"He said he'd never be party to something like that. The other candidates don't seem to feel they want to, so I'm leaving it open."

KIDSTON SAID he was "angry at first, because I didn't think it was appropriate. But anger doesn't last long."

"I have found over the years that I have been able to work effectively with persons of diverse backgrounds because I have taken the time to sincerely listen to their concerns and suggestions for solving perceived problems," Kidston wrote in reply.

"I have every confidence that this current crisis will resolve itself and that the community will be stronger because of the CBE's special contribution, and the fact that their challenge has encouraged other persons such as yourself to become actively involved in the political process."

"We need to take action to provide for a primary election" in school board races, Kidston said.

"I THINK if I were one of them (non-CBE candidates) I would be offended or insulted," Anderson said. "Those people are not clones of each other. Some of them acknowledge the right of CBE to exist, and will even acknowledge the legitimacy of the complaints CBE is filing.

"I think there's a lot of misunderstanding," he said. He said that the incident shows the community "certainly takes me seriously."

"I think a lot of people are speaking out against CBE without realizing what the work of CBE is. Up to this point, CBE has been uncovering and protesting unsuitable materials that are a waste of the district's time, money and personnel time."

"I THINK there are some people out there who are well-intended and share a concern," Artley said. "But the deadline is past. The process is in motion."

"I do agree with those who feel that the CBE must be beaten at the ballot box," he said. "The CBE's dissent is their right, but the CBE's campaign of disinformation has been very negative and detrimental to our kids."

Bradley Wittman, supervisor with the state Bureau of Elections, said while Hudson, Hulce and the others are "muddying the waters, they're not breaking any laws."

"They can write those letters. Obviously the candidates are under no obligation at all to observe or adhere to the request. People are free to communicate on these issues however they wish to communicate. There's a freedom of speech issue here."

Reading beyond the label

With today's shopper becoming increasingly more interested in reading labels, now is as good a time as any to clarify product definitions.

Translating the language on labels can be tricky. When it comes to purchasing meat and poultry alone, there are more than 30 assorted labels that could mean something totally different than what you had in mind.

The definitions posted below are a requirement by the U.S. Department of Agriculture when labeling all meat and poultry sold in the United States.

Extra Lean This product must contain 5 percent or less fat. The actual amount must be indicated on the label.

Lean and Low Fat This product must contain 10 percent or less fat. Again, the actual amount must be indicated on label.

Lite, Lighter, Leaner and Lower Fat These products must contain at least 25 percent less fat than similar products on the market. Be aware that "lite" can have various meanings, including a reduction in fat, calories, sodium or breading on a product. Read the label.

Natural These products are minimally processed and contain no artificial colors, flavors or preservatives.

Imitation This product is made to resemble or substitute for another product. "Imitation crab," for instance, must appear on products that look like crab but do not contain specific ingredients required by USDA standards.

Irradiation This newly approved process is a low-level dose of radiation used to kill insects or bacteria. Irradiated foods must be labeled "treated with radiation" or "treated by radiation" and an irradiation logo must be shown on the label. The 21st century will be bringing forth many products treated in this manner.

Sodium Free or Salt Free These products do not necessarily mean sodium is not present in the product but that the product contains 5 milligrams or less sodium per serving. Interesting, eh?

Very Low Sodium This product must contain 35 milligrams or less sodium per serving.

Low Sodium This product must contain 140 milligrams or less sodium per serving.

Unsalted or No Salt Added These products are processed strictly without salt. However, these products may contain other sources of sodium, such as monosodium glutamate. Always read the ingredient statement.

Reduced Sodium These products must contain 75 percent less sodium than the original product.

Lower Salt or Less Salt These products must contain 25 percent less sodium than the original product.

Although it has nothing to do with meat or poultry products, the package statement that real-

Garden to table with new flavors

By S. Marty Figley
special writer

You may be familiar with basil, tarragon, chives, parsley and the more common herbs, but may not have an acquaintance with some unusual herbs that will perk up a meal and also look pretty in the garden.

The question "Now that I have it, what will I do with it?" may deter a person from trying unfamiliar flavors. Let me introduce you to six annual herbs that may be new to you. Remember when we used to have fruits and vegetables only "in season?" Now, as with many foods, herbs can be purchased at any time of the year, but for peak flavor, fresh herbs right out of the garden cannot be beat.

Perhaps you will want to try a few of these special annuals and discover the pleasure of growing your own seasonings, with little effort, and much reward! I'll include suggestions as to how they should be grown, what part to use, when to harvest and what to do with the harvest. May your summer dishes shine with new flavor because of these wonderful plants!

First we'll begin with Borage (Borago officinalis). This pretty herb has large leaves that are grey-green, and the bright blue star-shaped flowers are edible.

When the plant is in flower the young leaves can be harvested. They should be finely chopped when used in salads such as

Home cooking anchored at Old Port

When you really feel the urge for a great home-cooked meal and really lack the urge to make it yourself, a trip to Old Port of Rochester may get you what you're tasting for.

Since opening in June 1985, Old Port has served up a friendly atmosphere and reasonably priced food to families and those less encumbered.

Owner Nich Andreopoulos started in the restaurant business in 1974 after coming to the U.S. from Greece. He began first with an Old Port Inn on 14 Mile Road in Clawson, then added the Rochester facility four years ago. Not seeking to be where the elite meet, Old Port caters to a clientele in search of good home cooking.

Here, children — even cranky ones — are welcome. Families are seated and served quickly, and requests for extra napkins and silverware settings without knives are instantly understood. Best is when Andreopoulos visits the table and promises child patrons a sucker "if you eat all your food and are good," a promise parents of finicky eaters appreciate and children heed, until they figure out that the sucker is theirs, clean plate or not.

ALTHOUGH THE child aspect is important to baby-producing baby boomers, the real draw at Old Port, of course, is the food.

Ask for roast turkey and you will get turkey sliced from a real bird — not one pressed into service. A heaping helping is served over an equally filling, safely spiced portion of stuffing, sided with mashed potatoes and a vegetable. We didn't care for the color of the gravy — too yellow — but it's flavor was close enough to home to reorder in the future.

The vegetables — carrots in this instance — were not all that great, cooked too much and overbuttered. The mashed potatoes, however, were real. Cranberry sauce, salad, bread basket and dessert enhanced the main course, which came at a bargain price of $3.95.

The turkey is usually one of the "specials," menu items that change daily. It is on this sheet that you will find things like stuffed cabbage, pork chops (three of them), sirloin tips on noodles — none that are fabulous but all that are quite tasty and probably better than what you could make at home.

Regular menu items range from Greek dishes, including a very passable stuffed grape leaves in lemon sauce at $4.15, to seafood selections that start with fried clams at $3.80 to scallops to a red snapper at $5.35. Meat and potato types will appreciate a good selection of steaks and chops ranging in price from $4.50 for chopped sirloin to $7.75 for a 12-ounce New York strip. Basic pasta dishes and barbeques are also on the menu.

THE CHILD'S menu is varied and reasonable, starting with spaghetti with meat sauce at $1.95 and staying under $2.15 for more substantial kid meals such as hot beef with potatoes and vegetable.

Although Old Port Inn could probably perfect the grape leaves and rectify the yellow gravy if it was more focused, it seems to be thriving on variety rather than specialty. Andreopoulos must be doing something right where others did not. Old Port is the sixth restaurant to be the anchor eatery at this location in the Rochester Hills Plaza on Walton, just west of Livernois. Machus, French Chateau and Western Stockade are among those who tried and then closed doors for one reason or another.

Maybe it's the addition of windows (a customer request to put daylight into a gloomy interior) or simply the result of a population increase in Rochester, but "business is going up" and Old Port is staying put, says Andreopoulos. Indeed, it has a loyal following. One senior citizen couple decided to have their wedding reception there — definitely a casual affair, needless to say.

Another thing we enjoyed about Old Port was the friendly atmosphere. It starts with Andreopoulos and filters down. The hostess, the waitresses, the bus boys are nice, pleasant. They make an effort to provide a comfortable setting in which to eat.

WITH ALL THIS in mind, we can live with an uninspired decor and an occasional menu miss out of a whole lot of hits. You get plenty of food that tastes good for not a lot of money. We'll be back.

Details: Old Port of Rochester, 1416 Walton Blvd., Rochester Hills, 651-1730. Hours: 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week. Prices: Breakfast specials begin at $1.49. Dinners top out at $7.75. All meals include salad, bread basket. Value: This is food like you might make at home, or better. Nothing fancy, or spectacular but you can feed a family of four for $15 and that's a bargain.

Joan Friel of Rochester Hills and her children, Jacquelyn, 3, and James Thomas, 4 months, typify the many families who eat at the Old Port in Rochester.

ly surprises me are the reduced-calorie, low-calorie, diet and sugarless labels.

Be aware that just because a product is labeled "diet" or "dietetic" doesn't necessarily mean it's lower in calories. These labels mean that just one ingredient is different, affecting calories or sodium. It is important to read the label to determine the difference.

"Reduced-calorie" products are products that are at least 1/3 lower in calories than "usual" for that food. The USDA doesn't specify what "usual" means, so many manufacturers get away with calling their products "reduced-calorie" when, in fact, they are not.

In order to be classified as "low-calorie," the product must contain 40 calories or less per serving. And finally, any product labeled "sugarless" cannot contain table sugar but could, in fact, contain other sweeteners such as honey, corn syrup, fructose or sorbitol.

Now for the clincher. While writing the story with a copy of the USDA Bulletin No. 238 on food labeling in front of me, I wanted to know how our readers like you can get their mitts on USDA brochures such as this one. I called the USDA office in Ann Arbor three times and all three times was told they had no information on food bulletins, they never heard of the Federal Information Agency in Pueblo, Colo., and I needed more information. I should contact my local County Cooperative Extension Office. So much for government bureaucrats.

But persistence prevails. After striking out with the USDA in Ann Arbor, the Wayne County Co-Operative Extension Service, (it handles county matters, not federal), I finally got through to Congressman Carl Purcell's Office. His very helpful liaison, Denise Radtke, steered me to an undisclosed USDA number in Detroit where I was very respectfully treated and told to contact the USDA 800 consumer hotline.

This hotline is a toll-free call that can be made Mondays-Fridays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. It will direct you to assorted governmental brochures on just about anything. I then contacted the GPO (Government Printing Office) in downtown Detroit where again I was told that numerous publications are available, some free, but most for a nominal charge.

Last but not least, I tracked down the address to the Federal Information Agency where you can write and request governmental brochures on just about any subject. Write FIA at its Consumer Information Center, Department AP, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

It's easy to switch to vegetarian diet

Being a vegetarian can be fun, inexpensive and just as nutritious as eating meat.

With a variety of everyday food items and no change in basic cooking techniques you can easily prepare vegetarian meals. One of the main reasons people choose a vegetarian diet is the increasing evidence of its healthful effect on weight, blood pressure and lower cholesterol levels.

Don't rush into deciding to change eating habits overnight. Try vegetarian meals once a week or every other day before you stop buying meat altogether. Make any decision a family affair.

Before you decide to change, talk to other vegetarians or look through ethnic or vegetarian cookbooks for ideas that you and your family can live with. Common ethnic foods such as Chinese rice and vegetables, Mexican refried beans and rice, Italian manicotti and Greek spinach and cheese pie are suitable vegetarian meals. Simple macaroni and cheese, bean salad, peanut butter sandwiches and pea soup with crackers are everyday dishes that make the change to being a vegetarian easy.

Vegetarians fall into the following categories depending on the protein source. Semi-vegetarians still consume some fish and chicken and maybe the occasional bit of red meat but have increased the amounts of fruits, vegetables and grains (many of us fall into this category).

Lacto-vegetarians eat a variety of grains, nuts, beans, fruits and vegetables, plus eggs and dairy products. Lacto-vegetarians consume a diet similar to the lacto animal type but avoid eggs. Vegans are the most strict of all. They consume only fruit, vegetables and grains, avoiding all animal products.

MOST AMERICANS eat meat at least once a day. The only change vegetarians have to make is planning a main dish for the primary meal of the day, a dish that contains complementary proteins. A combination of grains, seeds, legumes, nuts, milk, eggs, dried peas and beans and vegetables should be chosen.

Any of those food items, when eaten together, contain protein. Complementary proteins is something we do every day when we pour milk over cereal, eat a cheese sandwich or eat peanut butter cookies with milk.

Your body doesn't care where it gets its protein, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins and minerals, so don't worry that it won't function properly if you revise your eating habits.

Depending on the amounts of non-meat products eaten, you can also save money and possibly keep your calorie intake low. American diets have long been low in fiber which is important to good nutrition. Vegetarians have this problem beat because they get plenty of fiber from grains, fruits and vegetables.

ANOTHER ADVANTAGE of vegetarian eating is the creativity it can bring into the kitchen when using a wide variety of substitutes for meat. Interesting, new, simple-to-prepare dishes can live on the lives of most cooks who are tired of preparing the same well-worn recipes.

Becoming a vegetarian will take extra time at first to change shopping habits and look for nutritious food combinations.

'Comfort foods' work with healthy lifestyle

At times, our moods can get the best of us and sabotage our good eating habits. Many of us find ourselves reaching for certain "comfort foods" when we are bored, upset, anxious or excited. Indeed our moods can influence what we choose to eat.

"Comfort foods," for example, remind us of childhood memories and of the special treats our mothers always seemed to make things better.

When you are feeling sad or lonely, do you ever find yourself with the desire to spoon into something creamy like ice cream or pudding? Or do you wish for a breakfast of french toast with butter, powdered sugar and loads of syrup - just like you remember from your childhood mornings?

These "comfort foods" are familiar to us. And in today's age of stress and anxiety, the foods we grew up with remind us of safer times.

Remember, eating certain foods will not eliminate or "take care of" strong moods. Try to accept your moods and recognize them as a normal state of feeling.

But when the going gets tough and you crave some babying, soothe yourself in a way that will benefit your health needs. You can comfort yourself without sacrificing healthy eating habits.

The next time you reach for something gooey or creamy to pick up your spirits, try one of the following recipes created to help comfort you without the added calories.

BUT THIS IS 1989 and we now know that many of these fondly remembered treats contain fat, sodium and calories. Fortunately, we can still enjoy eating "comfort foods" that have been updated for today's healthier lifestyle.

Shrimp recipe has Spanish flair

AP - Spear a shrimp with the fresh, zesty flavor of gazpacho, the Spanish first-course soup. Serve the shrimp on lettuce-lined plates as the first course for a sit-down dinner. Or arrange on a lettuce-lined platter and serve with pickles as a party appetizer.

GAZPACHO-STYLE SHRIMP
4 cups water
1 tablespoon salt
1 1/2 pounds fresh or frozen peeled and deveined shrimp
3 medium tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped

1 medium red onion, chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1/2 cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1 1/2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon fresh snipped parsley or 1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
1/4 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon bottled hot pepper sauce

In a large saucepan combine water and salt. Bring to boiling. Add shrimp, simmer 1-3 minutes or until shrimp turn pink. Drain.

In a 3-quart mixing bowl combine tomatoes, onion, green pepper, tomato juice, vinegar, oil, garlic, parsley, oregano and hot pepper sauce. Stir in shrimp. Cover and refrigerate several hours or until thoroughly chilled. Drain marinade. Serve shrimp and vegetables on lettuce-lined plates or lettuce-lined shallow bowl with cocktail picks. Makes 8-10 first-course servings or 16-20 appetizer servings.

New flavors in herbs go from garden to table

lettuce, cucumber or potato. The leaves are also good in sour cream or yogurt with baked potatoes or vegetables. The flowers can be added to soups and dips. They can also be candied by dipping them into one beaten egg white mixed with one tablespoon of water, then sprinkled with fine sugar and allowed to dry. Store them in an airtight container in single layers.

Borage can be started from seeds sown outside and prefers a sunny location with well-drained soil. The seeds germinate quickly — five to six weeks when the soil is kept moist. It self-sows to provide a crop for the following year. Bees also like the flowers.

For a fun experience, throw leaves in the barbecue fire and watch them pop. The fire releases the nitrate of potash found in the plant.

Chervil (Anthriscus cerefolium) is an aromatic, slightly sweet herb that is the gourmet's parsley, and used by the French more than regular parsley. It adds a nice decorative touch to any dish. One can hardly ever use too much.

The pale green, delicate, lacy leaves should be harvested before the white blossoms appear. Choose the outside leaves so the central crown will continue to grow. You will be able to harvest continually if the flower stems are removed.

THE FRESH LEAVES can be used in salads and salad dressings, to flavor chicken, or in soups. Try a bit in cottage or cream cheese, or make into an herb butter. Combine ½ sour cream or yogurt with one teaspoon dijon mustard, two teaspoons fresh minced chives and two teaspoons fresh minced chervil. Toss with cooked beets. Yumm.

Seeds should be sown in moist, slightly shady soil where it is to grow. Since it does not transplant well, it is best to grow in pots or containers. Keep the ground moist until it sprouts; it may need to be thinned. Chervil will self-sow.

Lemon Verbena (Aloysia triphylla) has long, thin, light green leaves with a lemon scent that remains for years. The white flowers are insignificant. Victorians used the leaves in finger bowls — a great idea.

Harvest the leaves any time and enjoy the lemon flavor in drinks, salads, sauces and mushroom dishes.

It can also be used in stuffing for chicken, pork and fish. Lemon Verbena is such a versatile herb. It can also be added to summer fruit dishes and drinks.

Fresh leaves are tough, so they should be removed before serving when used in marinades, beverages and salad dressings. Tea is enhanced by a bit of mint. The leaves can be put in the bottom of a container of home-made ice cream or a jar of jelly. Do not consume these leaves.

PURCHASE A small plant for your summer herb garden and plant it in well-drained soil. Poor soil with a bit of humus added suits it fine. I wouldn't put it in full sun. Partial shade is best.

I have included Rosemary (Rosemarinus officinalis) because it is fun to use fresh and, since it must be treated like an annual in our climate, many people haven't experienced the flavor of newly grown rosemary. It is very hardy in California and other Western states. The leaves are like dark green coniferous needles and the plant can grow quite large in ideal conditions.

Rosemary leaves can be harvested when the plant is small. Just be sure not to reduce the size of the plant more than ½ at a time. The flavor enhances apple dishes, baked fish, lamb, shellfish, veal and chicken. It is also a versatile herb that can be added to casseroles, vegetables, marinades, rice, biscuits, jellies, jams and even fruit salads.

For extra aromatics when grilling, add a handful to the coals during the last 10 minutes of cooking. The flavor is rather piquant, so use it sparingly at first, especially when dried.

For a unique and pretty taste treat, cut baking potatoes lengthwise, lay a sprig of two of fresh rosemary across the cut side, sprinkle with salt and lay the potatoes in a pan sprayed with a nonstick product. Rub the outside with vegetable oil and bake 45 minutes or so in a 400-degree oven.

WHEN PLANTING in a light, sandy soil in a sunny spot, remove the tip of the main shoot so that branching will be encouraged. If you sink pot and all into the ground, it is possible to successfully winter it over indoors, given proper care.

I believe when savory is mentioned most people automatically think of winter savory. Summer Savory (Satureja hortensis) is a great culinary herb. Harvest the slightly thick, small narrow leaves before use. Try butter, garlic, lemon juice and savory over freshly cooked green or yellow beans. It is also good in cucumber salads, pork, poultry, eggs and soup dishes and is especially appropriate for lentil soup and scalloped potatoes. If you are watching your intake of salt, summer savory is the herb for you.

Sow the seeds in a sheltered sunny place in full sun. Alkaline soil is preferred, and it does best with a summer mulch. It needs more frequent watering than many herbs. Cuttings root easily if you wish to increase your supply.

As you begin to experiment with these perhaps new-to-you plants, try a bit at a time, until you find the correct amount just right for your taste.

Most of them can be grown from seed, but many can be found growing at your favorite nursery, ready to be set in the garden. When cold weather arrives and you want to enjoy the flavor of a favorite, in the dried state, a rule of thumb is to use two thirds less dried herb than fresh. Experiment — there really is no "culinary secret" associated with herbs.

Following are a few recipes to get you started on a new savory adventure.

GLAZED BABY CARROTS WITH CHERVIL
2 pounds young carrots
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon chopped chervil
salt and pepper to taste

Cook carrots eight minutes in boiling salted water until still slightly firm. Drain, set aside. Clean pan and melt butter and sugar. Add carrots, turn and coat, cook gently another 10 minutes, turning constantly to coat well. Add salt and pepper, sprinkle with chervil.

SAVORY GREEN BEAN SALAD
1½ pounds fresh green beans, cut in half with ends trimmed
¼ cup white wine vinegar
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 teaspoon dried mustard

Steam beans with few sprigs of savory until crisp-tender (do not overcook). Plunge into ice water. Drain and pat dry. Mix next eight ingredients. Slowly drizzle in the olive oil.

Gently toss the beans in the vinaigrette, adding other ingredients. Sprinkle with freshly ground white pepper and salt if desired. An alternative presentation is to arrange the beans in a spoke fashion with artichoke hearts, red onion rings and feta cheese in the center.

CHICKEN WITH ROSEMARY
2 whole chicken breasts, skinned
¼ cup flour
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons fresh rosemary

Split chicken breast in half, trim neatly. Dredge chicken in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Heat oil and butter in heavy skillet large enough to hold chicken in one layer. Add chicken, rosemary and garlic. Cook about four minutes or until pieces nicely brown on one side. Turn and cook four-five minutes on other side. Do not cover. Pour off fat from skillet. Leave chicken, rosemary and garlic in skillet. Pour in wine and bring to boil. Add lemon juice and parsley. Cover closely and cook three minutes longer. Remove and discard garlic cloves and serve. Serves 4.

LEMON VERBENA
vanilla and lemon ice cream
¼ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
2 egg yolks, beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla

Partially beat cream. Make a custard with milk, sugar and beaten egg yolk, by heating milk and sugar, then pouring onto the egg yolk, stirring constantly. Return to pan. Heat very slowly, stirring constantly, until thick. Don't let it curdle. Strain, add vanilla, allow to cool. Fold in lemon verbena and partially whipped cream. Pour into ice cube tray and freeze.

new products

New from Uncle Ben's Inc. is a line of pasta salads inspired by country inns across America.

Uncle Ben's Country Recipe brand pasta salads feature pasta in a boil-in-bag, seasoned dressing mixes and chunks of crispy vegetables. Sweet red peppers, carrots, zucchini, olives and baby corn are among the vegetables, which retain natural bright colors.

Five varieties of pasta salad are available. Chicken Dijon and Tuna Salad Supreme are main dish salads, to which chicken or tuna are added during preparation. Creamy Italian, Zesty Italian and Ranch are side dish salads, to which only oil and vinegar or milk and mayonnaise are added during preparation.

The boil-in-bag of pasta requires 12 minutes of cooking, and no chilling time is required. Packets of dressing mix and vegetables speed preparation and keep clean-up at a minimum.

County warns pet owners about rabies

Warm weather means rabies season is approaching and Wayne County residents are warned to have their pets immunized.

The number of rabid animals found in Michigan has been rising. There were 35 rabid animals discovered last year, including 21 bats, eight skunks, two foxes, two cats and two dogs. The figure is a 20 percent increase over the number of rabid animals found in 1987. One case, a rabid bat, was reported in suburban Wayne County.

Four rabid animals have been discovered thus far this year, including a raccoon. The raccoon poses a special concern, health officials said, because Michigan has traditionally recorded a low incidence of rabies among raccoons and the animals are in routine contact with human beings and pets.

Immediate treatment is necessary because rabies is nearly always fatal in human beings once symptoms have begun, county health director Dr. Donald Lawrence said.

Though rabies is generally transmitted through an animal bite, it can also be transmitted through a scratch.

Symptoms include a sense of apprehension, followed by headache, fever, malaise and changes in nerve senses. Paralysis usually follows. Spasms in muscles used for swallowing, resulting in a fear of water. Delirium and convulsions follow, leading to death.

Symptoms usually occur within two weeks to two months after exposure.

County health department recommendations include:

- Having pets vaccinated
- Avoiding contact with wild animals
- Reporting all bites as quickly as possible so the animal can be quarantined and tested, if necessary.

Additional information is available by calling the Wayne County Health Department, 326-4900 or the county disease control division, 467-3325.

County buildings may be contaminated

Wayne County is warning trespassers to stay away from abandoned county-owned buildings near Sheldon, between Five and Six Mile roads, in Northville Township.

The buildings, formerly part of the county Child Development Center, are being investigated for potential PCB contamination.

County health officials suspect PCBs may have been released from building electrical transformers.

"It appears as though someone was trying to strip them to see if anything could be salvaged," county environmental health director Glenn Brown said. "The damage could have forced PCBs to be released."

PCB, or polychlorinated biphenyl, was used as insulation material in electrical equipment manufactured before the 1970s. Contact with PCBs has been linked to caused rashes, swelling and intestinal distress.

The potential contamination poses no threat to homeowners living near the property, Brown said.

"ALMOST ALL of it would have been released in the buildings themselves," he said. "Little would have escaped outside." Because of the nature of the material, he added, the chances for widespread soil contamination were remote.

Northville Township police discovered transformer damage during a routine check of the buildings, Brown said.

Thought no one currently occupies the buildings, they are frequently vandalized.

The property is being offered for sale by the county. Brown said it was likely a new owner would demolish the buildings.

HEEL PAIN

Heel pain is a common problem which in most cases has a likely cause: injury.

Between the thick skin of the bottom of the foot and the hard substance of the heel bone is a tough tissue that nevertheless is vulnerable to trauma. Following injury and when healing occurs, a small amount of calcium may form at the site of injury. This calcium acts like a splinter and irritates the surrounding tissue.

Often heel spurs are invoked as the culprits for heel pain, as their dagger like projections on x-ray imply something sharp and injurious. However, the spur follows the natural line of tissue insertion into the heel bone and is not usually the source of irritation.

Treatment of heel pain begins with heat, cessation of repetitive foot movements, and insertion of padding into the heel of the shoe. If these measures fail, then drug therapy is in order. My favorite medication is butazolidine. Injection into the site of pain is a popular treatment, but not the one I favor. I find it difficult to place a needle so that it will accurately penetrate the thick skin of the heel.

If all of the above fail, I feel that surgery is in order.

Canton comeback nets WLAA crown

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Christina Stansell attempts to control the ball for Plymouth Canton in the WLAA championship soccer game Friday night. All-American Jill Estey of Salem is ready to challenge on the play. Canton defeated the previously unbeaten and top-ranked Rocks 2-1.

Chiefs topple Salem

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

When Plymouth Canton soccer coach Don Smith left Centennial Education Park Friday, he was holding a ball bag in one hand and a medical kit in the other.

He didn't even have enough room for the Western Lakes Activities Association championship plaque.

The Chiefs had just come from behind to beat Plymouth Salem 2-1 in the league final, but Smith didn't care who walked away with the trophy.

He was congratulating his players and savoring the moment.

Canton, last week's No. 2-ranked team in Class A, scored twice in the second half to put away the No. 1-ranked Rocks, who suffered their first loss and have a 12-1-2 record. The Chiefs are 9-2 overall.

SALEM LED 1-0 at halftime.

"I told them they were whipping us to the ball in the first half and we were pulling up and ducking," Smith said.

"We played with more intensity in the second half than they did. If they would have scored again (and led 2-0 at halftime), they could have put us right out of the game. It gave us incentive to get thatascal, because two goals is hard to come back on."

Jenny Russell scored the game-winning goal with less than 20 minutes left when she blasted a shot out past Salem goalkeeper Jenny Emmett from 40 yards.

Russell's goal came only minutes after Ayana Nash had tied the game at 1-1, putting a header by Emmett. Russell got the assist on Nash's goal with a neat crossing pass.

Canton applied pressure the entire second half and, in fact, almost scored right before Nash's goal, but Emmett came out of the net to stop a chance by senior forward Shannon Meath.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Sara Hayes heads up field while Canton's Laurie McNamara gives chase.

"It was a game of two different halves," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "They were swarming and beating us to the ball and had a little extra oomph in the second half. Russell played really well for them. They could smell it."

THE TWO TEAMS will likely meet again Wednesday at CEP in a district semifinal. Canton opens district play at 4 p.m. today at Belleville, and Salem gets a bye.

The Chiefs, who lost the regular-season meeting between the two teams 2-0, always play more inspired against their rivals.

"I'm glad we were able to beat them," Meath said. "We're all friends off the field, but on the field we're not friends at all. That's the way you play soccer. We played a terrible first half but then we came back and played."

As always is the case, the two teams played aggressively.

Salem's leading scorer, Michelle Minton, returned to the lineup after missing three games because of a deep thigh bruise. Minton didn't shy away from any contact, and a first-half collision between her and Canton's Molly Menard proved that.

Falcons, Churchill in 0-0 tie

It's doubtful Livonia Churchill soccer coach Nick O'Shea has more ties in his closet.

The hard-luck Chargers played to their fourth scoreless tie of the season Friday against Farmington — a game that was supposed to decide third place in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Churchill, 6-2-5 overall, had several fine chances to score but was turned away every time by Farmington goalkeeper Debbie Westerkamp. The Falcons are 12-0-4.

"We're having loads of trouble," O'Shea said. "We missed two breakaways (Lori Place and Kristy Thurston). We put them wide or didn't get them off right at her."

Monia Keller, who started, and Dana Keller split the goalkeeping duties for Churchill. The Chargers had 10 shots and Farmington recorded nine.

Friday's game was the second against Farmington in three days for Churchill. Last Wednesday, Amy Trunk's goal with just more than 10 minutes left gave Farmington a 1-0 win over host Churchill to end the regular season.

FRANKLIN 7, W.L. CENTRAL 0: Livonia Franklin reached the 500 mark Friday, blanking host Walled Lake Central 7-0. The Patriots are 6-6-2 overall.

STEVENSON 1, NORTHVILLE 0: Sharlene Sudek's goal in the first half saved the day Friday for Livonia Stevenson and gave the Spartans a 1-0 win over host Northville.

The Mustangs played without a host of players who were attending Northville's senior prom.

Alicia Smith recorded the shutout for Stevenson. The Spartans finished the WLAA schedule at 5-3-3.

Salem finishes on top in Lakes

All is not lost for the Plymouth Salem baseball team. In fact, the Rocks are doing quite well for themselves.

Despite early elimination from the state tournament, Salem clinched the Lakes Division championship Friday and can add to that the Western Lakes Activities Association crown with a victory today.

The Rocks, who lost a pre-district qualifier to Plymouth Canton earlier last week, finished 8-2 in the division after beating Livonia Stevenson 6-4 Friday.

Salem, 11-4 in the league and 12-8 overall, travels to Walled Lake Western for the WLAA finale today. Farmington Hills Harrison has the same league record as the Rocks, but Salem won the head-to-head contest.

COACH JOHN Gravin's ballclub had twice as many hits (14-7) as the Spartans but needed two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning Friday to win the game.

The Rocks loaded the bases with one out and scored the winning run when John Brannan raced home on Jim O'Leary's sacrifice fly, beating a close play at the plate.

Tim Lake and Scott Niemiec led the Salem offense with three hits apiece in five trips, and Kevin Beals was 2-for-3. Lake also scored a pair of runs and had one RBI while Niemiec knocked in two runs.

O'Leary also drove in the tying run in the fifth, bringing in Lake from second with a base hit. Brian Piergentili was 3-for-3 and had a three-run homer for Stevenson.

Rob Kowalski was the winning pitcher in relief of starter Scott Rodgers. After the latter walked the bases full with no outs in the seventh, Kowalski came on to end the threat. He sandwiched a pair of strikeouts around a pitchout on a squeeze play that caught the lead runner in a rundown.

Kowalski didn't allow a hit in three innings and walked one. He struck out three. Rodgers gave up seven hits and seven walks in the first six innings.

In the Stevenson third, the Salem defense dropped the third out, and that kept the inning alive for Piergentili to hit his home run.

KOWALSKI WAS the winning pitcher Thursday, too, when the Rocks defeated Westland John Glenn 6-5 in the conclusion of a suspended game from May 12.

In that one, he entered in relief of Howie Blanchard with the Rocks losing 5-4 in the bottom of the fifth. Kowalski, a junior right-hander, allowed only one hit over the final three innings and walked one.

Dennis Hanson, who made three fine defensive plays at shortstop, had the game-winning hit, doubling to score Rodgers and J.P. LaRoche in the top of the sixth at Salem. Lake's RBI single scored Hanson and brought the Rocks within a run in the fifth.

Mark Johnston was the losing pitcher, going the distance and giving up five hits. He walked seven and struck out two.

Terry Koester, Jerry Shippe, Brian Stephenson and Bryant Satterlee had RBI singles for the Rockets, who finish 7-3 in the division and are 10-5 in the WLAA.

Salem also won the second game of the double-header 10-1. Dave Makowiec was the winning pitcher, going six innings and striking out seven. Stephenson was the loser.

One more hurdle Canton aspires to 5th division title

Plymouth Canton can win its fifth straight Western Division girls track championship Wednesday in its final dual meet.

The Chiefs clinched a share of the title by beating Livonia Franklin in the showdown between unbeaten teams last Wednesday. The meet was really no contest as Canton, 4-0 in the division and 5-1 overall, coasted to an 83-45 victory on the loser's track.

Coach George Przygodski's outfit must beat Farmington Hills Harrison when the teams meet Wednesday at Harrison to win the championship outright. Franklin and the Hawks, who could force a three-way tie by beating Canton, are 3-1.

"It was a big victory for us," said Przygodski of the Franklin meet. "They're a traditional rival for us, and we just performed to the best of our ability."

"It was the first meet when the weather has been warm, and that had a positive effect on everybody. It was a good overall performance, which we needed if we're going to achieve our goal."

Parry's triumphs vital to victory

Farmington won eight events Wednesday against visiting Plymouth Canton, so the Rocks dearly needed the four wins posted by their star, Roger Parry.

He carried Salem to a 77-60 win over the Falcons as he won the high jump (6-2), long jump (19-4 1/4), high hurdles (15.4) and intermediate hurdles (42.5).

Mike Albertson, who ran the 400 in 52.7, and Scott Stryker, who had a 4:38 time in the 1,600, had the other individual wins for Salem.

The Rocks also won the 800 relay, clocking 1:36.0, and the 1,600 relay team also took a first with a time of 3:40.7.

Members of the 800 outfit were Dave VanHoose, Albertson, Randy Fill and Steve Burlison. Todd Cimino, Bob Anzivino, Davang Disai and Mike Cygwin ran the 1,600.

Jason Gutting and Lamont Harge were double winners for Farmington.

girls track

ONE OF THOSE who performed well was Marlene Smith, who won the shot put with a throw of 30 feet, 1 inch and anchored the 3,200-meter relay, one of three relays won by the Chiefs. Smith also was third in the discus.

"The shot and discus are a change of events for her," Przygodski said. "She had been just a runner, but we needed someone to help in the throwing events this year, and she responded to the challenge."

Canton dominated the running events, sweeping the 800 and 3,200 contests. Adrienne Garrow won the 800 in 2:37.3 and was followed by Lori Penland and Erica Carson. Penland, Garrow and Carson preceded Smith in the 3,200 relay as the Chiefs finished in 10:35.7.

Cindy Spessard led the way in the 3,200 with a 12:44.8 time and was supported by teammates Lynda Schendel and Missy Jasnowski.

Kristy Brugar's 28.3 time was the best in the 200. Kim Gudeth's one-lap time of 1:04.1 gave her first place in the 400. Amy Smith had the day's top 1,600 run at 5:36.4.

Brugar was part of the 800 and 1,600 relays in which the Chiefs recorded 1:52.6 and 4:30.8 times. She led off the 800 and gave the baton to Amy Van Buhler, who was followed by Michelle Dean and Alicia King. The 1,600 unit consisted of Gudeth, Brugar, Van Buhler and Jennifer Hartke.

IN ADDITION to Smith's victory in the shot put, the Chiefs also won the high jump as Heather Spencer went 4-10.

Franklin's Sheryl Bayer was a double winner in the hurdles, being clocked at 16.4 in the 100 and 48.4 in the 300. Amy Lankford won the discus (104-4), Kelly Gustafson the long jump (14-5 1/4) and Christy Mulrine the straight-away sprint (12.9).

boys track

Gutting's wins came in the shot put (47-10 1/4) and the discus (138-7). Harge clocked the 100 dash crown at 11.3, and he also beat the 200 dash field with a time of 23.1.

Matt Langdon in the 800 run (2:06.5) and Ben Goba in the 3,200 run (10:19.6) were the Falcons' other individual winners.

Harge, Keith Shorter, Kevin Koshowsky and Dave Winey won the 400 relay for Farmington with a time of 48.4. Steve Walter, Don Sweeney, Gene Tokraks and Paul Brandt finished the 3,200 relay in 8:28.8 to take that title.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN edged Plymouth Canton 71-66 Wednesday, although the host Chiefs won nine events, including three relays.

The loss dropped Canton to 1-3 in the Western Division, 2-4 overall.

Franklin got help when Canton had to forfeit the top three places in the pole vault because the Chiefs do not have a pole vault pit.

Dave Piontek was Franklin's only dual winner, placing first in the high hurdles (15.7) and low hurdles (42.1). Canton's Jeff Prysniak broke a school record in placing second in the low hurdles at 42.2, eclipsing the 42.6 mark previously set by Greg MacArthur.

Greg Panzi and Rich Baisch each won a field event for Franklin, with Panzi's win coming in the discus (120-6) and Baisch winning the long jump (19-8 1/4).

The Patriots' Mike Patsch won the 100 meters (11.5), and Chris Johnson claimed the 200 dash (24.3).

Franklin's only relay win came in the 400 meters as Mark Little, Johnson, Dean Vandal and Steve Clemmons crossed the tape in 46.7.

Canton's individual wins came from five different performers, with Mike Ream winning two events. He was first in the 1,600 run (4:49.1) and 3,200 race (10:32.7).

The other victories belonged to Bill Jacobsen, shot put, 38-5 1/4; Mike DeJarnett, high jump, 6-0; Ron Staples, 400, 51.8; and Jason Napolitano, 800, 2:11.9.

Canton won the 800 relay in 1:37.2 as Jeremy Rheault, Don Green, Staples and Prysniak competed. Running the 1,600 relay and winning 3:51.1 were Mark Farris, Dave Waskiewicz, Craig Miller and Dennis Monticelli.

The group of Brian Beach, Jason Napolitano, Matt Boland and Chris Nelson won the 3,200 relay in 9:01.9.

Long campaign draws to close

APFTER IS LONG WEEKS of battle, the league bowling champions have been decided. From the bantams to the seniors, the broad spectrum of bowling competition all equates to the same result—the first-place team.

It's not unusual to see the fate of a team decided by someone missing an easy one-pin spare, or another bowler getting that extra strike in the 10th frame to win the championship. Some leagues bowl a "split" season with a winner for each half and a roll-off to determine the overall winner. This is an advantage to some because a team can have a bad first half and have a chance to come back and win it all in the second half.

In the Ward Invitational Youth Traveling League, the competition ended in a three-team deadlock so an extra three-game set had to be bowled to determine the champion. The winning team was the "Wes Jerne Sales" entry, with Tamika Glenn, Duane Henderson, Mike Woods, Robert Hibbit and Diane Pentkala as participants. The Cherry Hill North Spar was second and third went to the Cecil Ward five.

At Bel Aire Lanes in Farmington, the senior bowlers were tipped by Diggers Office Supply, led by Captain Bob Parker with Larry Baskam, Jack Craig, Gary Sachau and Frank Hurlig filling out the roster. In the Sunday alternate league, Team No. 1 recorded the best score with Sue Jacobson, Frank Jacobson, Shelly Jacobson and Mike Jacobson taking the big prizes. The Early Birds daytime ladies league had Team No. 8 in the top spot with Doris Edwards, Gladys Hart, Mary Elser and Marilyn Mansfield doing the honors. The Ladies Nite and was won by Team No. 5, comprised of B. Wilson, S. Longworth, S. Radatz, S. Miller and C. Cooper.

In the Keglers League, the Cadillac-Wood team was the champion with B. Starnski, J. Adams, C. Musina, Sr., C. Musina, Jr., D. Kalk and K. Walton taking home the trophies. In the Friday Nite Mixed Alternates, Team No. 8, "The Gamblers," won by its points with Gail and Al McDonald, along with Judy and Bill Ferguson coming through when it counted. Meanwhile, the Retirees League ended in a tie for first between team No. 10 with Grace Damos and Jim Deyle and Team No. 1 with Anne Jakubinski, Zofia Zann and Carl Dardmuth all sharing the top spot in the league.

At Country Lanes in Farmington Hills, the Greenfield Mixed League had the championship decided in a roll-off and the winning team was No. 9 with Katie and Phil Szonye, Judy and Mike Stefan taking the trophies.

Al Harrison

The Farmington Alley Kats League were led by the "Kats Move" team with Joan Brubaker, Nancy Putter, Karen Rychman, Diane Heider and Linda Haines. This team is holding first place in the Champion of Champions tournament with a 3,232 score. In the Tuesday Nite Men's League, Little Bill's trophies took the biggest trophies home with Carl Kandian, Bill Kandian, Jr., Tony Meyer, Mack Malory and Dale Moore.

The University Men's League was topped by "Strike Force" with Ray Cronin, Jack Jacob, Rick Guertin, Joe Galvan and Keith Guertin. In the Ever-Seven League, the Ann Arbor Fire protection team took the championship with Ron Nordstrom, Sr., Ron Nordstrom, Jr., Bill Stover, Doug Jones and Scott Jones.

The Countrymen Thursday Nite League featured LaBarons Team winning the championship with Ken Korri, Ken Glinski, Gordon Peans, Dick Wagner, Larry Boncher, Don McMillen and Al Bessonin.

The West Side Lutheran League, which takes place at Redford Lanes on Grand River, had the Emmanuel of Dearborn team take the first place slot with the super efforts of Jary Woelke, Larry Davis, Don Breuhan, Bob Peschke, John Heldt and Bill Erich all pitching strikes to come out on top. Mark Ratz took high series honors with a 748 while Bill Krummel took the top spot with 289 and Don Johnson had the high average in the league with a 193.

At Woodland Lanes, the Jacks and Jill Mixed League was taken by the No. 9 team of Pearl and Bob Diaz with Pat and Joe Monge in a very close race, right down to the last game against Linda Filian's team.

In the Ladies Nite Out League, the S.B. took first with a foursome of Cheryl Slipke, Annie Stokes, Lori Igrisen and Jane Portue. Meanwhile, the Wednesday Men's Tri League was led by the pomat team of Greg Wigrad, Ed Barnett and Mickey Sensoli, with support from Dave Norwick and Jim Knoll.

The Senior House League went right down to the wire on the final night to decide the winner — "Premium

Myrna Partrich

The physically fit always burn calories

Dear Myrna: I am very concerned with weight loss. Can you give me some information on "metabolic rate" — does it stay high after exercise? By the way, I exercise lots and love it.

There have been many studies made recently on metabolism and its ability to stay high after exercise. Studies show that the longer you exercise, the longer your metabolism stays high.

This means that you will continue to burn calories after you stop exercising. Yes — we know — weight control.

After testing young exercisers on an ergometer at 70 percent of their heart rate, the conclusions were obvious.

When the exerciser rode for 30 minutes, the net oxygen consumption averaged 63.2 liters oxygen consumption plus rate of metabolism plus rate of calorie burning.

Oxygen consumption did not immediately drop back to the pre-exercise level. Instead, it gradually slowed down, adding 6.8 liters of oxygen consumed before metabolic rate returned to normal — 130 minutes after exercising.

Now a 45-minute bike ride with the same exerciser — net oxygen consumption increased to 95.3 liters — increases recovery time to 205 minutes for burning off calories. If you increase this exercise time to 60 minutes, your recovery time will now increase to 455 minutes.

I'm trying not to get too technical in my explanation of this subject. But studies do show that energy consumption while exercising at a constant percentage of VO2 (volume of oxygen) max is proportional to the length of time you exercise.

This study does prove that if weight control is your goal — longer exercise sessions are what you need. By exercise, you know I am referring to aerobic activity. If you work out at your target heart rate, not only will you burn calories during that 60 minute period, but also you will burn calories an extra 7½ hours afterward.

For weight control, I would recommend aerobic activity five or six times a week. Vary your activity to your liking.

(Myrna Partrich, co-author of The Workout Company of Bloomfield Township, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send your letters to Sports Department, 802 E. Maple, Birmingham 48012.)

Menard was wearing an ice pack on her eye in the second half and her play was limited.

"MICHELLE WAS a little rusty," Johnson said. "She ran well but we just a little out of sync. It's tough to get back in the swing of things after missing three games."

Canton goalie Michelle Fortier played a splendid game, although she couldn't handle Amy Krajewski's throw-in early in the game as it went through her hands and into the net for Salem's only tally.

"Michelle did a good job," Smith said. "She felt bad about letting the first one in, because she had it in her hands."

Canton's defense baffled Salem playmaker Jill Estey the entire night. Smith said he didn't assign a player specifically to Estey — who had two goals and four assists in Wednesday's rout of Farmington Hills Harrison — but it sure seemed like it.

"When the ball did come into the middle of the field, she didn't have much time to do anything with it," Johnson said. "She was fighting for her life. It was what I'm trying to say. (Smith) kept subbing players in."

At Fellows Creek. Both sessions began at 10 a.m. Call 397-5110 for details.

award. He was also commissioned by the Audubon Society to do a painting of the Peregrine Falcon Return Project and is currently working on a sculpture of the Peregrine Falcon.

REMINDER: Anglers should keep in mind that there is a special health advisory regarding mercury in inland lakes.

Consumption of rock bass, perch, erpette over nine inches, largemouth bass, smallmouth bass, walleye, pike and muskie, should be limited to no more than one meal per week. Nursing mothers, pregnant women, women who intend to have children and children under 15 should not eat more than one meal per month of these fish.

It should also be noted that lifetime licenses are on sale now through February 28, 1990.

A lifetime license allows the holder, throughout his or her lifetime, the same privileges, responsibilities and duties as would the equivalent annual license or stamp. Special licenses for hunting antlerless deer, a second antlered deer, bear, turkey, elk, waterfowl, etc., will not be covered under the lifetime license.

Cost of a lifetime sportsman license is $1,000, a lifetime firearm deer or archery deer license, $285; a lifetime small game or fishing license, $220, and a combination fishing license (trout and salmon stamp, $440.

LAKESIDE FISHING SHOPS are doing their part to promote the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' Free Fishing Days, June 10-11. The two fishing shops, located on Grand River ¼-mile east of Drake in Farmington and at 10 Mile and Jefferson in St. Clair Shores, are holding a free fishing contest on those dates.

The contest features two age divisions, 15-and-under and 16-and-over. Anglers catching the three heaviest walleye and perch in each division will win a gift certificate redeemable at either Lakeside Fishing Shop. First-place winners will receive gift certificates for $30, $20 for second place and $10 for third.

"This is the first year for this store to participate, since we just opened this past December," explained Linda Solakian, manager of the Farmington store. "We just thought it would be fun and have a little east-west rivalry with the other store in conjunction with the Free Fishing Days."

Fish must be caught in Michigan waters and must be weighed in at either store. There is no entry fee and no preregistration.

HEINER HERTLING will be the featured artist at the upcoming Michigan Great Lakes Wildlife Festival May 27-28 in Clare.

The West Bloomfield artist, who works on automobile advertisements as a commercial artist, began painting wildlife in 1981.

In 1985, Hertling was the featured artist at the Michigan Wildlife Art Festival, held annually in Southfield. A limited number (325) of Hertling's specially commissioned "Rock 'N Roll" painting featuring a pair of Oldsquaw ducks, will be sold at the festival for $60 each. Proceeds from the sale of the painting, the major source of revenue for the festival, will be used to benefit Michigan conservation efforts.

In the last four years, the festival has generated better than $200,000. Some of the projects benefiting from the festival include the Trumpeter Swan restoration effort, the Hungarian Partridge introduction program, Ducks Unlimited and the Wildlife Recovery program.

LIVONIA DECOY CARVER Bob Parrish will also be participating in the festival and will be the featured carver at the 1990 festival.

Parrish has been involved in art most of his life. He began carving decoys five years ago and since then, carving has been a major influence on his creative alternative to painting.

Some of Parrish's more notable accomplishments include seven Best of Show awards and the 1986-87 Ducks Unlimited Carver of the Year

How you can get healthy

By Dave Varga
staff writer

How should somebody start walking for health?

As someone who walked 11,600 miles and through all 50 states during 1981, Rob Sweetgall knows how to get in step.

When he spoke at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, the author and walking guru issued his 14-point plan for getting in better shape.

Here's his method:

- DON'T DIET. Diets don't work, Sweetgall said. Instead, you should eat smart with less fat and change your metabolism by adding movement to your day.

- THINK THREE M'S. Those are mouth, mind and muscle. Your mouth is a gateway, your mind makes the decisions and your muscle burns energy, Sweetgall said.

- FOOD IS FUEL for your body's machinery. Don't think of eating as a reward, something to occupy your time or a social event. Your appetite comes from your head, but you must learn to react only to hunger in your stomach.

- CARBOHYDRATES ARE THE BEST FUEL. Things like spaghetti, potatoes and Jell-O are "high-octane" fuels that make your body work to digest them, making them instantly 24 percent better than the worst fuels, like fats or fat-soaked foods that are easily absorbed.

- THINK OXYGEN. Go ahead and get out of breath during the day by adding oxygen-consuming activities.

- EAT EARLY. Calories eaten before noon don't count because they're worked off during the day. At least 50 percent of your calories should be consumed before noon.

Think fuel. If you were going to Florida you wouldn't wait to buy gas until you got to Florida," Sweetgall said.

- WALK FOR TIME NOT FOR SPEED. A brisk pace of 3.5 miles per hour is the most comfortable for the human body. If you try to walk faster you may burn a few more calories, but you'll also tighten or possibly pull more muscles. You'll "look like a chicken," and you won't enjoy it as much over the long haul.

- BE AN ARM SWINGER. You burn 25 percent more calories by swinging your arms in a natural way to a point a little above your waist. And, you can burn that fat 15 percent faster if you "pretend you're pulling a rope across your stomach" while you walk, Sweetgall said.

Libby Heppler of Birmingham has been walking for exercise for about three years.

Walking away the pounds

By Dave Varga
staff writer

Walking has become the exercise of choice for millions of Americans joining the national fitness boom.

Why walk?
"I was getting fat. I had to burn off some calories," said Ron Eubanks of Rochester, who has walked three times a week for about half an hour at a time.

For Eubanks, walking was easy. "It was something I could do at lunchtime and I didn't have to shower afterward. And, I didn't have to have special shoes," he said, noting that he wore his "clods" or wing-tips. After a year though, he said, "I'm not gaining any, but it's not helping as much as I wanted."

Others do better.
Since she began walking about three years ago, Libby Heppler of Birmingham has lost about 110 pounds. That's right, like those ads in the back of health nut magazines, she really did drop from 240 pounds to a svelt "around 130." Walking was part of a major change in her life.

"I was a great deal overweight and I'm a recovering addict on several planes, people call it cross-addicted," Heppler said.

For her walking was part of a prescription — "I was told I had to walk."

"MY FIRST day, I ventured out in a dress and had a pair of tennis shoes I got on sale. Each few weeks I'd add more time to my workout and suddenly a dress didn't make it, I wanted sweats. Suddenly I needed tennis shoes that fit," she said.

Soon, Heppler became addicted to walking. She read books about it, joined race walks and even tried running. Of course, she changed her diet completely, cutting out nearly all fats.

"My whole life has changed," she said. "I carry my athletic clothes with me now."

Physicians nearly always prescribe exercise for recovering cardiac care patients or stroke victims, with aerobic walking almost always the workout of choice. Dr. Samson Kpadenon who practices in Rochester treats patients like Heppler and others struggling with obesity.

"We really, really push walking," said Sue Kennedy, program director for Dr. Kpadenon. "It's the most successful for long term health care and it's applicable to most people."

The doctor himself walks for health, Kennedy said.
"If there was a better way to stay fit, he would use it," she said.

Growing numbers of Americans aren't waiting until their doctor tells them they need to get exercise to improve their health. They're hitting the streets and sidewalks for cheap, easy and natural exercise that will burn calories and improve health.
Not all the walkers are fair weather enthusiasts either. Go to a local mall about 8:30 or 9 in the morning.

WESTLAND, Wonder(land) and Livonia Mall — all in western Wayne County — each have loyal "mall walker" programs, where the faithful can be found in all shapes, ages and sizes doing their laps before the mall opens.

The Wonder(land) Walkers are sponsored by the American Heart Association. They have 1,900 walkers signed up, with around 300 or more showing up on any given day.

One Wonder Walker is Bill Peterson, a physical education teacher at Thurston High School in Redford.

"I wanted to do some exercise and walking is much more beneficial for you than jogging," he said. "Jogging is tough on your joints."

Peterson does three to four laps — 1.3 miles per lap — within 30 minutes, he said, "so I can get the cardiovascular benefit."

Afterwards, he and other mall walkers get some social benefit, going for coffee in the Eaton Place.

Marvin Forth of Redford said he's been walking for exercise for about three years. "We used to walk outside in our neighborhood," he said. Now, he and friends walk regularly at Wonderland, spending about 40 minutes to travel 2.6 to 3 miles.

"It keeps your weight down and keeps your heart going," said Forth. At 66, he said, he plans to walk "as long as I can."

Indoor walkers have the benefit of smooth pavement and consistent weather. Outdoors, Heppler, said some drivers think they own the roadway, kids make fun of her and, Heppler said, "dogs, they want me."

"I'VE HAD birds s— on my head and I think, 'What do I do now — Oh, just keep going,'" she said.

She does keep going, striding in her brightly colored leotard on the streets of Birmingham nearly every day.

During the week, Heppler said she changes the intensity, frequency and duration of her workouts.

"I vary them so I don't lose interest. You can't burn yourself out every day. I'm looking for a lifetime program."

When in Georgia, stay in Columbus

By Iris Sanderson Jones
staff writer

Q: Here's a tough question for you. See and I want to spend a week in central Georgia before the schools get out in mid-June. I want to find my great-great grandfather's grave at the Civil War cemetery in Andersonville. Mary likes golf, flowers and craft shopping. Can you help us plan a trip where we can stay in one place the whole week?

S.H.
Livonia

A: That's not as tough as you think. Stay in or near Columbus, Georgia. Follow the Andersonville Trail south to the Andersonville National Historic Site and you'll find all of Mary's interests at Calloway Gardens, Warm Springs and in small towns along the way.

You won't have to drive for much more than an hour in any one direction for a great day trip. I will tell you about the Andersonville Civil War prison, now an easy-to-visit historic site, next week. This week, let's talk about how to get there, where to stay and what to do.

Drive down I-75 to Atlanta, then southwest on I-85 and I-185 to Columbus, the main city in the area. Or fly on discount fares to Atlanta, and rent a car from Atlanta Rent-a-Car, much cheaper than the better-known national agencies, if you stay within 300 miles of Atlanta. Call (404) 446-0475.

Accommodations depend on your budget. I love the Columbus Hilton, a century-old gristmill converted to a wonderful brick and glass hotel across the street from the Chattahoochee River and from a restored convention center/shopping mall called the Columbus Iron Works.

SUMMER SPECIAL rates for two, if you stay a Saturday night and at least one weekday, are $55 a night. Call toll-free (800) 445-8667.

MOVING PICTURES

'House': It suffers from case of excess

What's wrong with America? Violence and the great glee with which people watch others suffer. A packed preview for "Road House (Z, R, 110 minutes) Thursday lapped it up and, said to report, the film probably will find a wide audience and make money.

That producers make millions catering to base (inhuman instincts is a sad commentary on our society. "Road House" stars Patrick Swayze as Dalton, the king of the coolers — no, that's not wine and soda, but the chief bouncer in road houses and other joints. Here's a chance to see every western movie cliché in a modern rock setting as Dalton rides into town, cleans up on the bad guys and gets the girl, Dr. Elizabeth Clay (Kelly Lynch).

Mr Big is played by Ben Gazzara looking as if he desperately wanted to belch. The entire cast takes their cue from him and stands around suffering from terminal indignation — that is, everyone except the lady doctor who healed herself and smiles a lot. But I still think it was gas.

One shouldn't blame the actors, however, considering what scenarists David Lee Henry and Hillary Henkin gave them to work with: Imaginative dialogue like "My way or the highway," "Pain don't hurt," and "This town's big enough for both of us." It's gratifying to see Dalton sewing up his own wounds, plus enough gratuitous sex, nudity and dirty words to blow the minds of puerile perverts everywhere.

It is particularly criminal that "Road House" glorifies its regularly spaced, brutal fight scenes which are sufficiently well-staged to be physically stimulating. Terrific, just what we need. ...ers making millions inciting violence.

Can't you just see the entire production staff of "Road House" and its little children? No doubt they had a maniacal gleam in their eyes as they were wings from butterflies — well, the child is the father of the man.

"Signs of Life" (D, PG-13, 85 minutes) isn't much better and it were a TV program, I would have turned the set off right at the beginning. This choppy, episodic soap opera jumps from subplot to subplot abruptly — and with maddening regularity.

While that leaves plenty of natural slots for commercials, it doesn't allow interest to develop in Owen Coughlin (Arthur Kennedy) and the workers at his boat-building company, a New England institution which is going broke and shutting down.

The film is self-consciously arty with acute camera angles, intentional obscurity early on and a slow-paced blandness in acting and editing that you won't believe — if you stay awake. There is little passion or anger and very few "Signs of Life."

"How I Got into College" (*, no rating available) doesn't look much more promising as an uncensored cast of unknowns look at some of the strange and comic aspects of college recruiting.

Summer sequels are all the thing these days and "Fright Night II" (C, R) fits right in so sharpen your chopsticks and stock up on the garlic. Charlie Brewster (William Ragsdale) is back and this time he's becoming a vampire.

It's easy to imagine the pitch to the studio: "We'll have the sister come after Charlie to avenge her brother's death. She's a vampire, too, see and with a few special effects, maybe a love scene and a couple of laughs."

Colorful mavericks Tom Waits (from left), Keith Carradine and Sally Kirkland don't blend in with the Montana background in "Cold Feet," an outrageous comic fable about the nouveau West.

The main trouble with "Fright Night II" is that's all there is. No one bothered to flesh out the story. There's none of the wit, humor and horror that sustained the original and made it stand out among its genre.

The acting is mediocre with only Julie Carmen as Regine, the vampire sister, rising above the material to infuse her character with an allure that does not depend solely on her exotic beauty. On the whole, "Fright Night II" is clumsy and disappointing.

Denzel Washington is fascinating to watch in "For Queen and Country" (C+, R, 110 minutes), a portrait of racism and discontent in modern, working class London.

This 'Rocky' is some show

By Ann Sharp
Special writer

It's astounding Time is fleeting. Has it really been 14 years since "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" first appeared on the American scene?

I was one of the lucky ones who got to see "Rocky Horror" (at the Cabaret Cinema during its neo-porno incarnation) before it evolved into the vulgar megillah for insomniac mall rats it's since become.

I don't mean to be hypocritical — I've done my share of shouting, "Lips! Lips!" and hurling fetishistic objects, including water, toast, rice and all-beef frankfurters. But I'd give my best garter belt to be able to see that film, and hear it, as it deserves to be experienced, in silent, reverent communion.

For it is a great film — the greatest achievement of the musical cinema, I believe, since "Singin' in the Rain." Not that it's had much competition in that respect ("The Sound of Music," "The Umbrellas of Cherbourg," "Grease") Seldom is a film so beautifully realized. Cost, costumes, sets, choreography — every carefully chosen detail lures us into the weird, luscious, unforgettable world of Dr. Frank N. Furter and his hapless love slaves.

POOR KEN Russell has spent most of his career trying to make "Rocky Horror," but falling sadly short of the mark. Without "Rocky Horror's" phenomenal underground success, would there have ever been a "Heathers," a "Little Shop of Horrors," a "Reanimator," "Polyester," or even "Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown?"

Well, OK, maybe, but certainly it played a major role in making the world safe for camp, nihilism and the whole post-modern enchilada. Just as a sweet little time capsule of the glam-rock sensibility, it certainly earns its keep.

In the 1970s, a time when Burt Reynolds was being touted as a standard of male beauty, hundreds of young female film cultists found the man of their dreams in a thunder-lit alien, wearing fishnets and eyeliner.

Experts have told us that the majority of male cross-dressers are heterosexual, but Tim Curry's arching, sensual performance as the redoubtable Dr. Furter is unique in presenting a transvestite as a being capable of arousing female ardor. Susan Sarandon, to be precise.

The drawing power of "Rocky," I believe, is its power as social allegory. Furter, the madly erotic space slut who corrupts the youth of Belmont, thus is the sexual revolution itself.

BACK IN 1975 we were all dying to give yourself over to absolute pleasure — swim the warm waters of the flesh. Even then, though we knew it was just a fantasy that couldn't last. Riff Raff, with his anti-matter gun would charge in on us, snarling: "Your lifestyles too extreme."

Call it a metaphor for AIDS, unwanted pregnancy, a broken heart. Frank's tragic end is a warning to all would-be sex monsters. A rare opportunity to view "Rocky Horror" outside the plastic confines of your local complex is offered at Windsor's Park Theatre this Saturday evening at 7 and 9:30 p.m. and midnight.

Erotic nightmares beyond any measure and sensual daydreams to treasure forever — they're yours for a price.

Paladins: Finding their 'roots' IN CONCERT

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The Paladins latest album, "Years Since Yesterday," is rich with music borne out the Mississippi Delta, the Memphis road house and the smoky New York jazz club.

LP, but wasn't released until 1987. The band landed spots on tours with Los Lobos, Stevie Ray Vaughan and The Fabulous Thunderbirds.

"Years Since Yesterday" was the follow-up. The disc was produced by Steve Berlin (sax man with Los Lobos) and Martin Libert. The band will have a new album out in September on Alligator.

Without the hype generated by a major record label, the Paladins have earned their reputation the hard way: they played for it. The band performs more than 200 shows a year and logs 75,000 miles on the road.

The road the Paladins prefer to ride is usually made of dirt. By driving through the cotton field and farmland, Gonzales said he gets inspiration for his music.

THEIR FAVORITE spots on the tour are in the Midwest, according to Gonzales.

"Kansas City is the heart of everything," he said. "Our favorite place is Ruby's Soul Food and Kitchen. She's like a grandmother to us. The success of "Years Since Yesterday" has peaked in Europe, earning the group a whole new legion of fans. They plan to tour after the release of their next LP.

While others are pretending to be roots rockers, the Paladins are the genuine thing.

"There's always going to be bands who believe in the sound," Gonzales said. "The original rock n' roll sound will never go away."

The Paladins will open up for Little Charlie and the Nightcats at 10 p.m. Thursday, May 25, at Rick's Cafe in Ann Arbor. Tickets are $10. For information, call 996-8555.

Hyper Formance zeroes in on rock

Hyper Formance has gotten "more serious" about its music after the infusion of two new members that has instilled harmony and a oneness in the group.

VanDoorn and Wilbur used to play football together in junior high. In practice, they would line up against one another.

He (VanDoorn) used to pound me," Wilbur said. Together, VanDoorn and Wilbur along with the rest of Hyper Formance are busy pounding out hard rock in massive proportions. The music is as soothing as a slap across the face from the neighborhood bully.

The Hyper Formance trademark is its high-energy live shows (hence the name). The Rochester-based group has performed at Harpos in Detroit, the Hamtramck Pub and the Token Lounge in Westland.

Recently, Hyper Formance took its act south to Florida. The band performed before receptive, not to mention saturated with alcohol, legions of college students on spring break.

According to band members, one performance had to be stopped because the crowd grew too rowdy.

"It wasn't like everyone had to be drunk to like us," VanDoorn said. "That atmosphere was fun. People came on stage with us and sang. I'd be playing and then I'd go out into the crowd and see how many beers I could drink and still do guitar solos."

ONE HIGHLIGHT on the Florida tour included performing at a motorcycle club pig roast. Things became somewhat tense when one member of the hell-on-wheels lot jumped on stage and commenced with an imitation of Guns N' Roses lead singer Axl Rose.

"They took care of it, though," Wilbur said. Closer to home, Hyper Formance gained notoriety two years ago as one of the bands featured on the "Detroit" compact disc. The song on the CD, "Solitary Man," garnered air play on WLLZ-FM.

Currently, Hyper Formance is working on new material and will set on the concert circuit in June. The band is also doing pre-production work for an album.

"It will be the heart and soul of Hyper Formance," VanDoorn said.

FROMOHIO — Firehose

Some Buckeye blues? Or, perhaps, some Toledo twang? Firehose douses those notions in a hurry.

Firehose's latest album on SST Records is a vibrant, understated piece of musicianship that grows on a person like green beans do in the fertile soil of the Ohio Valley. Less is definitely more in this threesome's case.

To appreciate this album is to know a little history on the band itself.

Firehose has risen from the ashes of the well-known punk outfit The Minutemen. When the leader of that band, D. Boon, was killed in an automobile accident, George Hurley and Mike Watt went into permanent mourning.

But in Toronto, Ohio, a fan of the Minutemen, led out by hope. Ed Crawford refused to let the spirit that fanned outwards to simply dwindle away. So he grabbed his guitar and headed to California. He met up with Hurley and Watt and convinced them to give it a go again under a new name.

Instead of remaining in the shade

MOSQUITO — Stan Ridgway

Remember Wall of Voodoo and their one nasal hit "Mexican Radio"? Well, Stan Ridgway is the proud owner of the aforementioned nasal twang.

And this is his second solo LP, and his second on Geffen Records.

Anyone who has seen Francis Ford Coppola's classic "Rumble Fish" may not have realized that the distinctive, atmospheric and highly effective soundtrack was written by Ridgway in collaboration with ex-Police drum man, Stewart Copeland. If you haven't seen the movie, why not?

These songs, recorded in 1986 and 1989, are a continuation of that sound, albeit presented in shorter more traditional song formats. He shows how suited he is to that particular genre of songwriting, when the LP opens up with the cinematic instrumental "Heat Takes a Walk."

You know this is grand when the instrumental credits include somebody on "Cloudbursts."

We then fall gently into the sweet

Super Freak possesses an outstanding set of pipes.

Ex-Shalamar lead singer Howard Hewitt does the near-impossible by breathing new life into "The Ten Commandments of Love," the kitschy Moonglows' classic. Ed DeBarge's "Goodnight My Love" could breathe new life into that troubled singer's career.

Khan's "Fever" and the Pointer's "Mr. Lee" are more provocative, but still entertaining. Christian McFie is an excellent choice to sing Elia James' "Roll With Me, Henry," though the band (essentially Fleetwood Mac without Stevie Nicks) sometimes drowns her out.

Travis' version of "It's Just a Matter of Time," the old Brook Benton hit, would make a fine track on one of his own albums, but his country twang is out of place here.

That's small criticism, however. On the whole, this is an enjoyable, easy-to-listen-to set. — Wayne Post

Women's network is a good idea

Dear Barbara,

Suggestions and opinions on this idea: A club or network for women, who are sitting at home, longing to go to the ballet, the museum or just a drive to Franconmuth. I know there are a lot of us who are always looking for another woman to pal around with, but meeting women with the same likes is almost impossible. This club would be for women to help women get out of the house and enjoy all of the things that are offered. Most of us, though married, are left to our own resources. Going out alone is not always wise and can be dangerous.

The idea is this: A woman joins the club. Her name, address, age and phone number, the things she is interested in doing — weeked trips, football, flea markets, etc. — are on file. She is matched with another woman who is interested in going to the football game that Saturday, or the flea market that weekend, etc.

Women of all ages, tints, shades and religions would be welcome. Each woman would be required to pay all of her own expenses. She must be physically able to care for herself at all times. This would not be a club for seniors who need a ride to the mall or to the supermarket. Honesty would be mandatory. Bigotry would not be allowed.

Barbara, have you ever heard of a club like this and would you know of the legal pitfalls? The financial responsibilities? Would it be doomed to failure, people being people as they are? All suggestions would be most welcome. G. D.

Dear G.D.,

I think there may be many women interested in your plan. The letters I have received in this column are a testament to the fact that men and women have difficulty pairing up with each other. It seems logical that women looking for same sex friendships might also be so troubled.

The lawyer that I consulted said that there is a potential for legal problems in a plan of your kind and that an attorney would have to be consulted. Initially, you would have to shoulder some financial responsibility in order to publicize the club and that, further financial responsibility would depend on the size of responses and the fiscal plan.

I want to encourage your dream despite that we know that there will be unexpected pitfalls. The plan will fail or be successful depending as much on the person who executes it and their determination as on the environment in which it is executed. All plans must be dreams before

Barbara Schiff they can be a reality. Full speed ahead! Barbara

Dear Barbara,

It's that time of year again when my spectator punts sit there crying to be worn, but that old bagaboo about wearing white prior to Memorial Day pounds in the back of my head, riddling me with guilt, if I dare to even consider it a remote possibility.

Does fashion protocol still dictate that white shoes and bag be worn only after Memorial Day? Do specificators fit into this category? G.M.

Dear G.M., It has always seemed to me that in the beginning, fashion rules had a logic. Dark colors absorb heat and are, therefore, worn in the winter. Light colors reflect heat and are, therefore, worn in the summer.

In this context, it is utility that dictates tuckiness and not an arbitrary rule. However, times have changed. We are centrally heated in the winter and air-conditioned in the summer. It would seem that the rule, "no white shoes until Memorial Day," could now be ignored. But fashion experts and fashionable people continue to follow it.

A friend, who is a fashion maven, has told me that winter white, that creamy white color, can be worn all year long. Summer white is usually saved until after Memorial Day or thereabouts.

These rules seem to hold in California and Florida. So I guess even though the rule now seems arbitrary, it continues to define tuckiness for many, me included. Barbara

Video brings Bunuel 'home'

By Dan Greenberg

Special writer

Internationally renowned Spanish filmmaker Luis Bunuel, is not a household name in this country, but came Wednesday, May 24, Media Home Entertainment will take a major step toward introducing him to everyone's videocassette recorder with the release of eight feature films, including the Best Foreign film of 1972.

From 1928 to 1977, Bunuel worked as writer, director, producer and dubbing director, producing foreign versions for Hollywood films — first in Paris for Warner Brothers and Paramount in the early 1930s and later in Hollywood during World War II. He also worked at New York's Museum of Modern Art and American Army propaganda films.

He was dropped from the last project, he reported, because "(Salvador) Dali called me an atheist." As Bunuel was quoted as saying "Thank God I'm still an atheist."

Besides its wry black humor, that statement, like Bunuel's films, attacks those institutions of religion and society that oppress humanity, be they church, state or middle-class morality. At one point, Bunuel clarified the issue: "I believe it is necessary to find God in man."

Born to well-to-do Spanish land owners in 1900, Bunuel was educated by Jesuits, and those two influences, middle-class materialism and the impact of Catholic teachings, were targets of his work throughout a long career of uniquely styled but visually-interesting.

DESPITE the maniacal gleam in his eye and the iconoclasm in his work — he appears in his first film "Un Chien Andalou," ("Andalusian Dog"), written with Dali in 1928 — he was, and is, extremely influential among filmmakers. That first film is widely viewed as a classic of surrealism, as is his second film, 1930's "L'Age d'Or" ("The Age of Gold"), which provoked riots in Paris. For some years thereafter he did not direct.

with major stars, albeit seldom in his native Spain.

Bunuel's next film, "The Phantom of Liberty" (1974, 104 minutes) was nominated for best foreign film Oscar and also is a comic indictment of the contemporary scene.

In addition to these two, the Media "Cinematheque Collection" includes two other Bunuel films made in France "The Milky Way" (1969, 105 minutes) and "The Diary of a Chambermaid" (1964, 97 minutes).

THE FORMER dissects religious fervor with two hippie pilgrims on a modern pilgrimage that is, to say the least, unusual.

The remaining four titles in this newly released VCR collection are from Bunuel's Mexican work during the 1950s: "Susana" (1951, 87 minutes), "A Woman Without Love" (1952, 91 minutes), "The Brute" (1942, 81 minutes) and "Wuthering Heights" (1953, 90 minutes).

Despite early political problems, by the 60s and 70s, he was working

• REMEMBER THE 10 TWOS OF TRAINING. The first four are 2,222, the number of calories you should burn in a week through walking. The next three are 222, the number of hours you should walk a year (that's about 40 minutes a day). The next two are 22, which is the miles a week you should average, and the last two is the number of years added to your life expectancy if you exercise right.

"But it's the 30 years before that will be a lot better," Sweetgall said.

In Windsor's 'Korner'... Leo DuFour

By Bob Sadler

Special writer

Leo DuFour has found his comedy niche across the border as owner and emcee at the Komedey Korner in Windsor.

Leo DuFour could be the funniest thing to come out of Canada's Great White North since Bob and Doug Mackenzie. Or is it the Great White South? DuFour is owner of the Komedey Korner, Windsor's only comedy club. "That's why we're doing well."

Raised in Dearborn and a graduate of Fordson High School, DuFour has a few reasons for starting his club across the border.

"I have some relatives in Canada, plus I have kids and didn't want to travel on the road too much," he said. "I thought if I had a club, I could bring in all the comics I knew in the past in the States."

In addition to running the Korner, DuFour also has emceed every show since it first opened in 1980. As a performer, he has appeared in clubs around the United States, particularly in Kansas City and Florida. Of course, he also drives across the Ambassador Bridge for an occasional appearance in the Detroit area.

DuFour attributes his start in comedy to an old friend from high school. "He used to do impressions and I'd try to outdo him," he said. "That really got me going into it. I did all the pep rallies at Fordson. Then in 1979, I went to the Comedy Castle and did the show there."

Impressions are still a large part of his act. DuFour lists Jack Nicholson, Clint Eastwood and Jimmy Stewart as some of the voices in his repertoire. Other than that, it's just basic stand-up, he said.

"I worked the crowd a lot," DuFour said. "I'm a very likeable person on stage. I like to get the crowd on my side right away, with humor over."

He looks to Bob Hope and George Burns as comedy role models. "They do it with class," he said. "They didn't get in trouble, or at least they didn't get caught."

Record in hand, Dan Kingston was ready to make the turntable switch and, if possible, avoid the dreaded "dead air" dilemma.

Stage fright.

That's what I got as I left for the bar to be a disc jockey for a day.

"This is silly," I told myself. "I'm just going to spin records and make a few introductions over a microphone — certainly nothing to get butterflies in the stomach over. I'm not a performer on stage."

And yet, as it turned out, that's exactly what you are when you're a DJ in a bar. You're a performer.

"Oh, definitely," said Amy Tarnopol, one of the DJs at Hollywood Nites in West Bloomfield. "You have power up here. You are in control of the crowd. You can make them hyper by the type of music you play, or by talking to them."

"Sometimes, I even sing along with the song. Yeah, I even feel like a 'star' sometimes. People point up at me and try to talk to me," she continued. "Sometimes, I'll rap along with a rap record and really get the crowd going."

Rap along with a record? No wonder I felt stage fright setting in. Oh well, I figured, maybe if I got involved in the technical details of running the booth, then the "performing" might come easier.

For those who think that being a DJ is just slapping one record after another on a turntable, you're in for a shock. First of all, you need two turntables to fade from one song to the next, otherwise you end up with "dead air" between songs.

"AND THAT sounds and looks very peculiar when you have a dance floor full of people," Tarnopol said.

"Yes," agreed Leslie Kirkland, another DJ at Hollywood Nites. "I once got heckled so bad by the crowd because I picked up the wrong turntable needle and there was no music for 10 seconds. It's no fun mistake to make."

Hey, man, it takes two hands to play when you're a DJ

It was my turn to take the controls, cue up a record and fade from one song to another. "I can't be too hard," I thought. I had been watching Amy do it effortlessly for the last 20 minutes, while talking to me and making an occasional comment over the microphone.

Preparing a record for play — "cueing it up" — turned out to be an effort in itself. First, you have to find the exact point on the record groove where the song begins. Then you back it up "to give it a running start" explained Gary Park, manager and sometime DJ at Hollywood Nites.

"The turntable needs to build up speed, otherwise you'll hear a 'wah-ah-ah-ah' sound at the beginning of a song," he said. "Once cued up, the trick is to hit the start button, fade in the new song and fade out the previous one — all at the same time — with just the right amount of hesitation to allow the turntable to come up to speed."

"Uh, yeah," I thought, "as I'm jumping around, hyping up the crowd, mentally selecting the next song to be played, cueing that record up and making an occasional comment over the microphone."

"Oh, yes, and you may be called upon to make minor repairs, too," Tarnopol said. "The needle comes loose from the tone arm once in awhile and you have to unscrew it further and then tighten it back down."

OH SURE, and I'll dance a jig and wait on tables in my spare time.

My first effort at cueing and fading from one song to another met with minor success.

"Not bad, Dan," Tarnopol said, "but don't back up the record so far next time when cueing it up. That way you won't end up with dead air like you got this time."

Dead air? I hadn't even heard it.

My next several tries were successful and a few attempts on the microphone were adequate. It was time to move on to combining a fade over from one turntable to the other, and at the same time spack into the microphone with mellow tone and confidence.

"OK," Tarnopol said reassuringly, "now just say it again" as she slid up the microphone switch I had forgotten to turn on. Without missing a beat, my amplified voice boomed over the dance floor with a resonance I've never heard before.

We laughed heartily about my mistake.

"That's alright," she said. "I once left the volume up on both turntables. Both records were blaring out at the same time and I didn't know it. For a few moments, I just thought it was a bizarre, new version of the record I had just put on."

The turntable speed switch can be another possible mistake waiting to happen.

"I recall I once played a record at 45 RPM instead of 33 RPM," Kirkland said. "People laughed and pointed."

"SOME SONGS already sound as if they're recorded at the wrong speed," Tarnopol added. "Rock Lobster" by the B-52s is like that, and the people dancing just go crazy when they hear it. These days, it's sometimes hard to tell what's a mistake and what's part of a song."

The stories amazed me because all of the DJs are so smooth in the booth. When a record begins to skip, Tarnopol calmly nudges the needle and announces over the microphone, "Well, I cured his stuttering problem, didn't I?"

If there is one word for the operation of disc jockeys in the booth it has to be smooth. Despite the problems that crop up and the pressures of keeping the music continuous without dead air, each DJ is excellent at what they do — very smooth.

"Reading the crowd is the toughest part," said Kevin Hritzkowin. "You just can't please everyone with all the different types of music out today. We play a wide selection here, and often the musical taste of the crowd is very divided."

Tarnopol agreed. "I'll hear comments like 'This son stinks' and I'll just say 'Aw, shut up' — with the microphone off, of course."

All in all, the best thing about being a DJ at a bar turns out to be the notoriety you receive by playing "on stage." You can make comments directly to certain people on the dance floor, or to friends and regular customers.

"People love to be recognized, even if you poke a little fun at them," Park said.

"I LOVE to hear people clap for a song I just played — although you never know if it's the song or something that happened at their table," Tarnopol added.

And as far as anyone throwing dollar bills up at me... Well, the only thing thrown my way was a crumpled napkin that had a song request written on it. Maybe next time.

I have to go back, because they promised to show me how to make that needle-scratching sound you hear on rap records. Then maybe I'll be a star at Hollywood Nites.

Civil War history abounds around Columbus

Columbus downtown alternatives include Ramada, Econolodge and bed-and-breakfast places. Lots of others a few minutes away on the outskirts.

Mary will love Callaway Gardens, 2,500 acres of gardens, wilderness, ponds, resort accommodations, golf course and other amenities 30 miles north of Columbus. It was created by textile magnate Cason Callaway and his wife 26 years ago.

That will cost you $119.75 per person, two-night minimum, including breakfast and dinner, green fees, carts and unlimited golf, or you can just visit on a day trip. Call toll-free (800) 282-2181 for literature and information.

Warm Springs, a few miles north of the Gardens, makes a wonderful day trip. Your sense of history will be satisfied by a visit to the Little White House, where President Franklin D. Roosevelt had his summer "cottage" hideaway.

DRIVE SOUTH from Columbus, and you are on the Andersonville Trail, which leaves I-75 at highway 49, goes through towns like Marshallville (eat at a Mennonite restaurant called Yoders and take the last river ferry in Georgia free) and Perry, national headquarters of the American Camellia Society. Mary will love the gardens and the collection of Boehm Porcelain Birds. Go on from there through the village of Andersonville (more crafts) and the Andersonville National Historic Site.

The trail then goes on to Americus and Plains, home of former president Jimmy Carter and his family, and back east on highway 280 through DeSoto and Cordele to I-75. It is a great trip. Its a 90-mile loop and about 50 miles from Columbus to Andersonville.

There is an 8,500-acre Veterans Memorial State Park between Americus and Cordelia for boating, fishing, camping, it even has cabins.

There are roadside motels, especially near I-75 at Cordele. I checked out Plains Bed and Breakfast, a big Victorian house on the main street of Plains and loved it. Call (912) 824-7252.

PLAINS ISN'T much of a town. Most village shops are sparse. You can't get very close to where Président and Mrs. Carter live, although you might catch him teaching Sunday School at the Baptist church he helped to integrate in Plains.

Columbus is the most central place to stay and has lots of attractions. The annual medieval fair is on at the Iron Works in early June. Walk the historic river promenade, see the Civil War markers, check out the historic district.

Try dinner theater at the restored Springer Opera House. Visit an interesting Civil War museum, the Confederate Naval Museum. Don't miss the recently reopened Columbus Museum. You can also visit Fort Benning, see your friends who joined the army and tour the National Infantry Museum. Servicemen and women are a big part of the Columbus scene.

And if you've got an extra day go to Eufaula, Ala., just across the state line, and do a scenic water cruise on the Chattahoochee River. History lovers follow the Chattahoochee Trace through several counties full of antebellum houses and other historic sites.

The best way to get information on all of this is to call the Columbus folks toll-free at (800) 999-1613.

At Warm Springs, you'll find the Little White House, where President Franklin D. Roosevelt had his summer "cottage" hideaway.

After introducing my "Less is Better" campaign against junk mail two weeks ago, my own mail has increased, but it's not junk. Here are some excerpts:

"Bravo! Am I ever fed up with junk mail. I've written two different addresses to have my name removed from all mailing lists, but I've noticed no difference. Think of the waste of natural resources, the pollution and cost of disposing."

"The Mail Preference Service of the Direct Marketing Association told me they will remove names from all national lists for a period of five years. However, this does not affect localized lists and, should you subscribe to a magazine, send for a catalog or apply for a credit card, you will automatically be re-entered on national lists."

"I am 80 years old and in frail health. I have to walk down the road to our mailbox, only to cart back mostly junk mail. I hope and pray something can be done to stop it."

"When I receive unwanted mail with a postage paid envelope, I fill it up with more junk mail and mail it back."

"Return every postage paid card that drops out magazines with a note saying, 'Please quit sending loose cards.'"

"I'm horrified at the waste while the rain forests and our ultimate survival (the Environment) is at stake." "Cut down waste, not trees. At least print on recycled paper."

"I resent advertisers getting a break while we pay the full shot. I'm sure we regulars are paying for it and the poor postman hauls hundreds of pounds of this useless stuff."

"Post Office administrators say bulk mail pays for itself and is not a parasite on first class mailers. I was also told that it provides income for the post office and they do nothing to discourage it because 'the public seems to be very receptive' to bulk mail. In fact, they provide bulk mailers with aids to insure proper delivery."

"If there is not public outcry, the waste and the invasion of our privacy will continue. While bulk mail cannot and should not be eliminated, there are options to reduce it significantly. To support this campaign, write 'Less is Better,' Organizing Techniques, 6165 Worlington, Birmingham 48010."

condo queries

Q. Our board has been aware of some construction defects at our condominium and has an attorney who it has hired, although the board is not willing to let the attorney quarterback the effort but wishes to do so itself. As a director, I am concerned that this course of action may lead to undermine the best interest of the association. Shouldn't the attorney have a direct input into the operation of the case?

A. I am glad that you have asked this question, as this is a frequent problem of condominium association boards in dealing with attorneys. Many boards are overly penurious when it comes to hiring the best possible legal talent that they can obtain for that particular problem. Failing to recognize that they are incurring potential liability as directors on a day-to-day basis, they should attempt to avail themselves of the best help they can to ensure that the best interests of the association are being met.

When it comes to preparing a construction defect case against the developer, the same holds true, that is, the directors of an association are to make policy, not necessarily carry it out. That is why they have other consultants such as management companies, attorneys, insurance advisors, architects and engineers. Where the board involves, itself, directly, interfering with the attorney's ability to prepare its case, the board is undermining its own efforts to represent the interest of the members of the association, and the board will, no doubt, ultimately, be held accountable for its acts or omissions.

Get a legal opinion from an attorney as to the acts of the board and, perhaps, that may open up their eyes.

Q. I do not expect you to get into the political ramifications but can you give me any insight into what practical effect there may be for a school district losing a vote in order to back a bonding issue for continued maintenance of the schools.

A. The value of residential and, in some instances, commercial property, in a municipality is oftentimes directly tied to the reputation of the school system encompassed within the community. To the extent that the school system is legitimately under-capitalized or under funded, so that it cannot maintain the quality of teaching or provide modern teaching facilities, not only will the children of the district suffer, but so will the property owners who will find that their properties are less desirable, less marketable and, therefore, not as valuable as they would otherwise be, given that they had an outstanding school district.

Home inspections Worth the price, but choose firm carefully

IF YOU ARE buying a home, co-op or condominium, plan to have it properly inspected by an experienced, competent home inspector.

"A home inspection should be an automatic step in the home buying process," advises Donald McKeon, president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Board of Realtors. "Knowing what to expect — both inside and out — will help you make an informed decision about the value of the home and the future upkeep," he said.

A comprehensive home inspection includes a visual examination of the structure from top to bottom, including the heating and air conditioning systems (weather permitting), the interior plumbing and electric systems, the roof and visible insulation, walls ceiling, floors, windows and doors, the foundation, basement and visible structure.

FOLLOWING THE examination, most inspectors will provide a report which not only points possible defects for areas of concern, but also the positive aspects of the structure as well as the type of maintenance that will be necessary to keep it in good shape.

"Home buyers who consider doing the inspection themselves should be aware that even the most experienced homeowners lack the knowledge and expertise of a professional home inspection firm which may have inspected hundreds or thousands of homes," McKeon said.

For example, watermarks in the basement may indicate a chronic seepage problem, or simply may be the result of a single incident. A professional assessment will provide complete information about the condition of the property you are considering, and will help avoid any unpleasant surprises after the sale. In addition, a home inspector can remain totally objective, while you, as the prospective homebuyer, may be emotionally involved.

THE INSPECTION fee for a typical single-family house will vary depending upon the geographic area, as do home prices. The particular features of the home such as size, age and special structures will be taken into consideration as well.

"The cost, however, should not be a factor in your decision to have a home inspected," said McKeon. "You might save many times the cost of the inspection if you are able to renegotiate the purchase price based on significant problems revealed by the inspector." Consult your real estate agent or lawyer for advice.

A home inspection which does reveal major problems does not necessarily mean you should not buy the house. The inspector can advise you of effective solutions and project the costs involved.

If an inspection report indicates that there are no major defects, you can complete the purchase with peace of mind about the home systems and property. In addition, you will have learned a great deal about the home the inspector's report, which should be kept for future reference.

When selecting a home inspector, your real estate agent may be able to supply you with a listing of local inspection firms. You may wish to avoid, however, firms affiliated with realty or construction firms. When interviewing a potential home inspection firm, carefully inquire about the specifics of their work and company. The following list of questions will assist you in the interview:

- How long have you been in the residential inspection business?
- Is your firm affiliated with a realty or construction company?
- What type of insurance do you carry?
- Do you have a published list of the items you inspect?
- Do you have a published list, and can you give me the names, of customer references?

- Do you give accurate cost estimates for any major defects discovered during the inspection?
- What are the qualifications of the specific inspector who will inspect my house?
- How long will the inspector spend in the house?
- How much do you charge, and on what do you base your fees?

THE ANSWERS TO these questions should provide you with enough information to make a sound choice in selecting the firm to inspect your property. Base your decision on the answers to all the questions, but give special weight to the qualifications of the inspector, the type of report issued, and the items inspected.

Professional inspection companies will be happy to answer all your questions. Avoid firms which issue only a verbal report. The report should be in a narrative form, not just a checklist of items inspected. Avoid, also, firms which indicate that they can do the inspection in a relatively short amount of time — thorough inspection takes several hours. The inspection time, however, will vary with the house.

It is important that the company you choose maintain a high standard of ethics. The inspector should neither offer to perform work nor recommend contractors to you. The company you choose should meet or exceed the standards established by the American Society of Home Inspectors, a national association of professional home inspectors.

Property inspection work is not limited to residential properties or prospective homebuyers. Many inspectors help homeowners with analysis and solutions to specific problems such as energy conservation, wet basements and/or cracked foundations. Inspectors also can inspect work upon completion to ensure that a contract has been properly fulfilled.

Spring gardening tips

By Earl Aronson
special writer

weeder's guide

Earl Aronson

AP — Pole beans are so-named because they require support, such as a pole, so that their vines will climb rather than sprawl along the ground. They are sometimes called "runner" beans.

If you live in the country, you may be able to make supports from saplings or straight sprouts of bushy shrubs. If so, prune the branches and twigs so that there are no stubs. Some gardeners prefer to use iron rods as poles, others extend twine from short poles to crosspieces, forming a trellis on which vines can climb.

Are pole beans better than bush types? Pole varieties yield more beans per square foot of garden than do bush types, but they need two or three weeks longer to mature and thus deliver their crop a few weeks later. So, bush beans often are recommended for early production. Snap and lima beans are planted both as pole and bush beans.

A careful gardener can save poles and crossbars from one season to another by cleaning and storing them each fall.

DON'T RUSH TO plant beans and corn in the spring. If the soil is too cold, seeds are apt to rot. Wait until the soil temperature is about 50 degrees Fahrenheit, which is warm enough for seeds to germinate.

Here are some general garden tips:

- Plants of the cabbage family are susceptible to root maggots, which eat the roots and prevent plants from absorbing water and nutrients.
- Apply a soil drench of diazinon, if its use is not forbidden in your area, at or after transplanting, following label directions.
- A good perennial crop is asparagus. Plant roots in well-drained, fertile soil. You can begin harvesting sparingly two years after planting, more heavily afterward.
- Spring flowering bulbs, such as tulips, hyacinths and daffodils should be fertilized after flowers have faded. Apply one tablespoon of 5-10-5 or similar analysis around plants. Cut off developing seed pods and you can plant annuals among the bulbs to cover unsightly fading foliage of spring bulbs.
