Dispatcher helps save baby

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Canton police dispatcher Steven Apostal said he took a deep breath last week after he helped revive a 12-day-old baby boy who had stopped breathing.

But Apostal never got to see the baby. Over the telephone, he told the child's mother and sister how to administer cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Apostal said a woman called and said, "I need help, my baby's not breathing."

He instructed the child's older sister, Lori, 14, and she relayed the information to her mother, Darleen.

THE INCIDENT started when the mother was feeding the baby, Kyle,

'I didn't know if I could revive him. I shook him and he wasn't responding to that.'

— Darleen Crawford

at 4:45 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 18. The newborn seemed to be taking his bottle too fast and started to choke.

"I didn't know if I could revive him," Darleen said. "I shook him and he wasn't responding to that."

Lori called the emergency number 9-1-1, a computer printed out the address of the family's home and Apostal and his partner, Gerry Ellerholz, sent rescue units.

However, before they arrived,

Apostal talked Lori and Darleen through CPR.

Apostal told the mother to twist the child's breast nipple, a way to revive the child. That failed.

THE DISPATCHER told the mother to place her hand under the shoulder blade and then blow two small puffs of air into the child's mouth. That worked and Kyle's breast caved in, indicating the air passage was clear. However, there was no pulse.

She placed two fingers on the baby's breast bone near the nipple, pushed down five times and then blew into the baby's mouth and nose. She repeated the technique until rescue units arrived and administered oxygen.

"They (the Crawfords) did a great job," said Apostal, who has worked in Canton's dispatch since March 20 and previously worked in Plymouth's dispatch.

"The best thing is to be certified in CPR," Apostal said. "They handled it really well. They were the ones that really saved the baby's life."

"I'm glad I helped someone out. It made my day to know that he's still

Murder victim was divorcing her husband

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Canton murder victim Beverly Wivell was getting a divorce and was dating a man who her sister described as undesirable and a drug user.

The victim's sister, Annette Bredemeyer, contacted Friday at a wake for the woman, said her sister's boyfriend, "didn't live anywhere."

Bredemeyer said her sister dated the man, whom she believed to be in his 20s, for two months.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies found Wivell lying unconscious at 10:20 a.m. Monday, Sept. 18, after a motorist reported seeing the body on Gottfredson south of Ford in Superior Township, in rural Washtenaw County.

A man living in the area heard a single gunshot at 9:10 a.m., police said. Wivell suffered a gunshot wound to her left side, and at least one vehicle ran over her legs, police said.

"She was in the process of getting a divorce," said Bredemeyer, of Cass City, Mich. "It was civil, and there was nothing bad between them (Wivell and her husband)," she said. "It wasn't messy or anything." Her estranged husband, Michael, lives in Canton's Holiday Estate Mobile Home Park.

BREDEMEYER SAID Wivell lived with her parents in Ann Arbor.

Man sentenced in wife's death

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

Ronald Steiger, the Canton man who shot his wife to death in June 1988, and then went to a local tavern and turned himself in to police, was sentenced to six to 15 years in prison Wednesday.

Steiger, 54, pleaded no contest to the second degree murder charge. He could have been given life in prison, but Circuit Court Judge Harvey F. Tennen's sentence was the result of an agreement worked out between the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office and defense attorney Robert Greenstein, said a court spokeswoman.

Steiger was also sentenced to a mandatory two-year prison term for using a firearm in the commission of a felony. Those two years are to be served concurrently with the longer sentence, according to Canton Police Detective Keith Lazar. Also, Steiger was given credit for 354 days he spent in jail.

Steiger was convicted for the June 25, 1988 shooting of his wife, Irene T. Steiger. Mrs. Steiger died as a result of three gunshot wounds. Her body was found in the kitchen of the couple's home at the Royal Holiday trailer park on Warren Road.

After the shooting, Steiger drove to the Rusty Nail Lounge on Ford Road, ordered two beers, then asked to be directed to a pay phone. He used the phone to call police and tell them he wanted to report a "killing in Canton," authorities have said. When officers found Steiger seated at the bar, he asked to be arrested and admitted having shot his wife with what was later determined to be a 30-30 rifle.

Steiger underwent a psychiatric evaluation before District Court Judge James Garber ruled he was competent to stand trial. By pleading no contest, he avoided a Circuit Court trial.

Lazar said Steiger could serve less than six years if he does not misbehave in prison.

"He'll probably conform," Lazar said. "He won't be a rabble-rouser."

Both Greenstein and Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Augie Hutting were unavailable for comment last week.

Board of trustees is making changes

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Administrative roles in Canton Township could be changing soon and the price tag for those changes is about $200,000.

A new plan calls for eliminating and merging some department-head titles, as well as adding two new positions.

The new positions — an administrative assistant and an arborist to overlook tree and landscaping issues — likely will be created at the Canton Township Board of Trustees meeting Tuesday.

A STUDY ABOUT the reorganization was conducted by the Pennsylvania-based consulting firm of Bartell and Bartell, Ltd., which made a presentation to the Canton Township Board of Trustees last week.

"Needless to say the township has grown to such a point that it can no longer be managed by a specialist, but must enter a new era where it must be managed by professional managers," the report said.

The recommendation calls for creating a director of municipal services department, which would include building, engineering, the arborist, department of public works, planning and parks and recreation. Presently there are individual department heads for each of those areas except the arborist and engineer.

Another new position would be director of administration in charge of special projects and grants, personnel, the media and computers.

"Essentially what he (the consultant) wants to do is . . . (add) more people, because we are a growing community," said Bob Shefferly, Canton trustee.

A PUBLIC service director is the third department-head position proposed in the plan. The job is currently held by John Santomauro and the position would be untouched by the changes.

Bartell and Bartell made recommendations to hire a public service director a few years ago and the firm also was instrumental in hiring Santomauro.

"We were hoping that the two people who would be heads of those two new groupings would be among the department heads that we have now," Shefferly said.

The report stresses that the administrative assistant to the supervisor would have no authority over the people in the various departments. The person in the position would attend meetings, bring the supervisor up to date on various issues and deal in public relations.

and her last job was as a maid at the Knights Inn in Canton. She worked there less than a month.

"It wasn't fair what happened to her," Bredemeyer said. "We want to see this person caught."

No one is in custody, and no one has been eliminated as a suspect, said Washtenaw County Sheriff's Detective Lt. James A. Fink.

Canton police learned of Wivell's identity Monday, Sept. 18, when a Canton resident reported that a suspicious car, a 1986 blue Pontiac, was parked near Griffin Park on Sheldon and Cherry Hill. Police said no blood was found in the car.

POLICE DECLINED to say how the car ended up in Canton or where the murder took place.

However, police traced the car to Wivell and her estranged husband, Michael.

Beverly Wivell customarily picked her 13-year-old son at a bus stop in the park. However, Sept. 18 was different. And a neighbor said that somehow the youngster sensed something was wrong before he learned his mother was murdered.

"That day she didn't pick him up," said Laverna Oaks, a resident of the mobile home park whose grandson played with Wivell's son and spent the night with them.

"He kept worrying and saying to my daughter: 'You don't think anything happened to her?'"

BREDEMEYER DESCRIBED her sister as easy going.

"She always gave that boy everything he wanted. She wasn't great at school, but she always had a lot of friends."

Wivell was married once before her recent marriage to Michael Wivell. The child was from the first marriage.

A private funeral was held in Ypsilanti Friday, Sept. 22.

Anyone with any information about this case is asked to call the Washtenaw County Sheriff's at 971-8400 or on a confidential tip line at 973-7711.

SWAT class sets high goals

By Dine Gable staff writer

The lesson of the day is to rappel from the top of a tower to a lower floor window and finally land on the ground.

The students, really army police officers, are dressed in Army-like fatigues and are in a class hidden behind Canton's public works yard on Sheldon Road south of Michigan.

Militarylike maneuvers at the Canton Township SWAT (Special Weapons and Tactics Team) Academy are held daily and include instruction in assault procedures, searching a building, dealing with hostage negotiations and handling barricaded gunmen.

One morning last week, students cheered each other on as each man attempted to clear an eight-foot wall, with nothing but their shoes to help them grip the surface and their perseverance to push them over the top finally.

In the distance, at the back of the yard, stands a tower built by the officers in the academy. They hail from the Redford, Dearborn, Canton, Ypsilanti, Beverly Hills, Livonia, Oak Park, Warren and Ann Arbor police departments, as well as the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

Graduates of the three-week course are state-certified and must be recertified every six months to remain on the team, according to Ann Arbor police Capt. Richard DeGrand, Canton academy coordinator.

Sgt. John Sherman of the Northville Township police rappels down a wall.

"A lot of things that a cop does is dangerous," DeGrand said. "It (SWAT training) makes law enforcement safer for police officers who have experience in training. Force is always the last resort."

"Our job is to offer as many options before using the force," DeGrand said. "It's safer even for the bad guy. That's kind of a paradox, but it's true."

SWAT TEAMS are most often called out on high-risk drug raids, DeGrand said.

"And as soon as they can't do it (the maneuvers) anymore they're off the team," he said. "It's not an elite shooting club."

Some people mistakenly believe that when SWAT teams are called in, shooting and excessive force automatically follow, DeGrand said.

However, during the Washtenaw County SWAT team's eight years of operation, the members only fired one shot, he said. He said the team encountered countless risky situations.

EACH DEPARTMENT involved in the team helps pay the costs.

Previously the academy was hosted by the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, but that school has since closed.

"This is a highly structured discipline school both physically and mentally exacting and demanding 100 percent commitment to all students," said John Santomaro, Canton public safety director.

Mike King of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department goes through his paces.

Cloverdale founder was generous

By Kevin Brown staff writer

People would drive for miles to sample Herman Bakhaus' Cloverdale Farms Dairy ice cream.

Besides founding the successful dairy, Bakhaus contributed time and money to community projects.

"You could always depend on Herman," said Mayflower Hotel owner Ralph Lorenz, who knew Bakhaus for many years.

Bakhaus, 78, died Thursday in St. Joseph Hospital in Ypsilanti.

Funeral services were scheduled for 11 a.m. today at St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1343 Penman Ave. in Plymouth.

The founder and former owner of the Cloverdale Farms Dairy was born Oct. 9, 1910, in Dearborn. Bakhaus moved to Plymouth from South Lyon in 1931.

"He started a creamery business," Lorenz recalled, adding that Bakhaus expanded the business by establishing "five or six dairies in Westland, Northville and Livonia."

Among Bakhaus' community activities, Lorenz recalled the time the dairy founder contributed $15,000 toward an effort to buy land for public parking downtown at the Weedman lot, which was built in 1969.

Bakhaus, who eventually sold Cloverdale dairy in 1974, turned to raising Angus cows at his Salem Township farm.

He was the former president of the Michigan Angus Association and a member of the Board of Directors of the Southeast Michigan Angus Association.

Bakhaus had used a wheelchair after suffering a spinal injury in an auto accident in 1986. "It was kind of downhill after that. He had a couple of heart attacks and some small strokes," his wife Anne said.

Bakhaus was a member of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Plymouth and formerly served on the church's board of directors. He was also a member of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club and a charter member of the Round Table Club.

Survivors include his wife Anne, a son, William of Milford, a grandson, Michael Bakhaus, a brother, George of Florida; two sisters, Leona Jones of Grand Blanc and Rosalie Bowling of Northville; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements were handled by Schrade's Funeral Home, Plymouth. Burial was scheduled for the Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth.

going today," he said.

Darleen, 38, last witnessed CPR demonstrated when she was in the third grade. From that memory she began the method on Kyle before calling 9-1-1, but her breathing rhythm was off.

Apostal refreshed her memory. "And I couldn't believe how fast 9-1-1 arrived," Darleen said.

APOSTAL SAID he waited until the baby was transported to the hospital before he called about his condition.

"They said the baby was crying, and I said that's great," Apostal said.

Lightning bolt, bold thieves strike facility

Lightning struck an area near the front gate of a storage facility on Michigan Avenue a week and a half ago, and that paved the way for thieves to strike.

The manager of the Stor Room told Canton police last week that a dozen of the self-storage rental units had locks cut off them late Tuesday or early Wednesday. In some cases the devices were replaced with cheaper locks to make it appear no one broke in, a police report said.

Investigators are trying to determine the extent of the losses suffered by people whose rental units were broken into. Most of those people had no way of knowing about the burglary and were to be notified by authorities, police said.

One renter discovered a theft from his unit on Tuesday. A $300 vacuum cleaner and two lamps, worth $75, were missing. The lock had been cut off his unit but wasn't replaced, police said.

Locks for the units are provided by the Stor Room, and the front of the facility has a locked gate through which only customers are admitted. But the gate had been opened since Sept. 15, when lightning struck the entrance system, police said. That rendered the gate useless and allowed free access to the area.

The victim of the tire slasher was a man who lives on Ranier. Damage was estimated at $250.

A Rochester woman reported the theft of 30 cassette tapes Wednesday morning. The thief broke a vent window to get into her car and damaged the dash panel in an unsuccessful attempt to remove the radio, police said.

AARP, lawmaker push 'living will'

By Tim Richard staff writer

Frustrated that the Michigan Legislature has been unable to write a "living will" law after 15 years, state Rep. Perry Bullard has begun his own effort to promote the idea.

THE STATE House of Representatives adjourned last week in a procedural snarl after failing to vote on House Bill 4174, "the Medical Self-Determination Act."

Minutes after adjournment, Bullard, chair of the House Judiciary Committee, and sponsor of the measure, called a news conference with members of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) to distribute copies of the pamphlet.

It's the first living will pamphlet in the U.S., he said. Another source of living will forms is Michigan Medical Self-Determination Association, 1050 Wall, Ann Arbor 48105, call 768-0261.

Firms: State should lead on recycling

By Tim Richard staff writer

State government should buy products made from recycled materials and set an example for local units, businesses and consumers, a panel of legislators was told, at a hearing earlier this month in Lansing.

The problem is that procurement officers need to be educated to use recycled products, said Terry Guerin, a vice president of Mid-Way Cullet Inc. of Detroit and Ann Arbor.

Guerin cited the state Department of Transportation, which lacked specifications allowing much made from newspaper to be used in free-way grass plantings.

STATE REPS. James Kosteva, D-Canton, and Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, repeatedly asked businesspeople and civic recyclers what state government could do — provide tax incentives? grants? — to encourage re-use and recycling.

"The point was driven home to me that there may not have to be much government intervention in regulations and incentives disincentives. Government needs to be the introducer (by buying cost cullet, but they could use 100 percent because it melts at a lower temperature (than virgin materials)." Guerin reported "no difficulty" marketing flint (clear) glass, sporadic difficulty with green glass (which goes mostly to Canada) and great difficulty with mixed colored glass.

PRODUCTS SHOULD be designed with recycling in mind, said Steve Bolhuis, a vice president of Fisher Steel & Supply in Muskegon. He criticized air bags, the auto safety device, because "they have toxic gas. It blows up — literally explodes — when it goes through an auto shredder and hurts the people working there."

INSULATION MADE from recycled newspaper saved 20 percent on heating bills compared to fiberglass, said Henderson of Nu-Wool, though its installation price is higher.

Best pear deserves cutlery

The best pear I ever tasted was a huge, beautiful Comice that was given to me by an old friend and co-worker, Imogene Tapp of Plymouth. She bought it at Meijer and it was wrapped in quilted cotton. The sturdy stem graced the top like a crown on a king's head. Of course, for the price she paid, it could easily have been a crown.

When the succulent pear was handed to me, she warned that this special pear, if eaten by hand, would exude a multitude of juice that certainly would drip down my arm to the elbow. But this was no ordinary pear. This special fruit demanded a plate, a fork and one of those tutesy fruit knives that Aunt Edna would give to all her nieces and nephews for wedding presents.

Ever since then I have looked forward to the autumn arrival of pears in the market, and I have become inspired by the annual abundance of uses for these fruity gems — from soups, sandwiches, side dishes, salads, main courses and, of course, desserts.

The pear is a fruit classified as a pome and is closely related to the apple and the quince. It is indigenous to Western Asia. It has long been cultivated there and in Europe.

PEARS MADE their way to North America with some of the first colonists. Supposedly, John Endicott of Massachusetts planted the Endicott pear in 1630. Pears gradually moved westward to California in the 1700s when Franciscan fathers planted rows of pear trees in mission gardens. Now pears are grown in home gardens in almost every state of the union.

Pears for both fresh market and processing are picked green and hard. Tree-ripened pears are frequently of inferior quality, often with coarse, gritty flesh. Pears are mostly handpicked with utmost care because they have a tendency to bruise easily.

Pears ripen when exposed to temperatures between 65 and 75 degrees Fahrenheit. As pears ripen, their skins change color from a deep, dark green to the color characteristic for the variety. Bartlett's, the most common and abundant variety available in this area, turn a golden yellow.

Fresh pears are best when they yield to gentle palm pressure. If still green-skinned when purchased, pears may be ripened at home by storing them at room temperature, preferably three or more together in a closed paper bag. When the pears begin to change color and yield to slight pressure, they may be refrigerated.

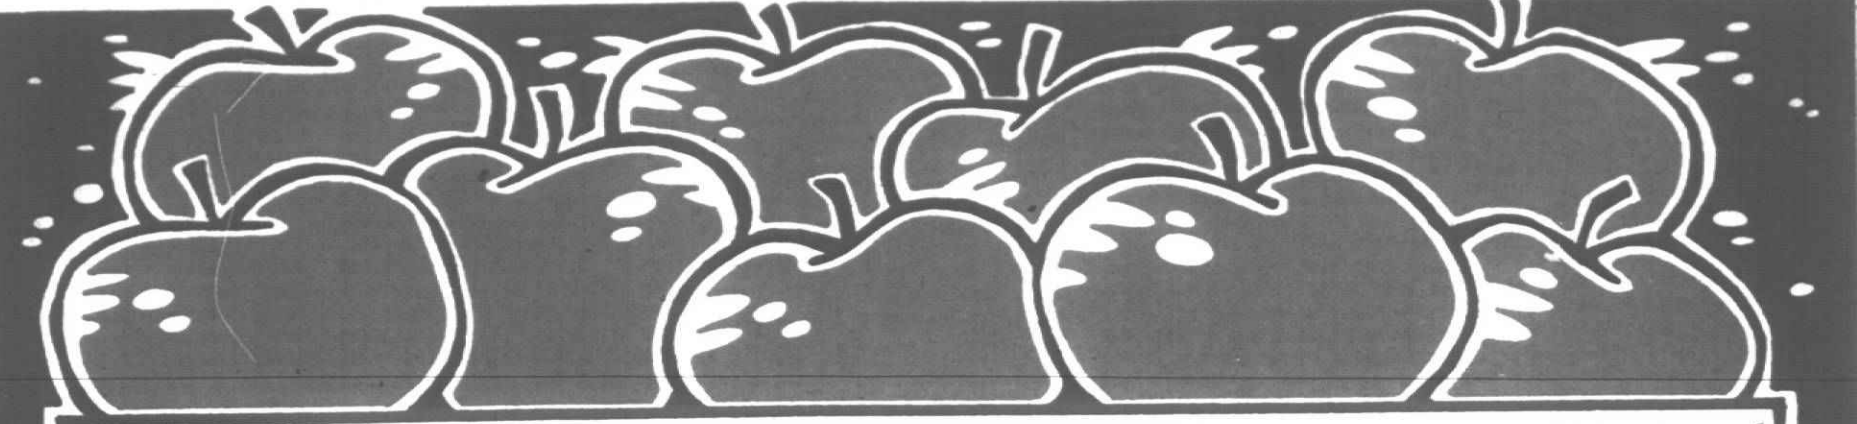

The adventuresome chef will enjoy using a special ingredient in soups and souffles called eau-de-vie, also commonly known as pear brandy. If you make homemade ice cream, take care of the kids first, then add a healthy shot or two of eau-de-vie and return the mix to the freezer for 30 minutes. That's what I call "big boy dessert."

WHEN IT COMES to an assortment of varieties that may be found locally and at the farmers markets, in addition to the Bartlett and the pricey Comice, you might come across crisper versions like the Bosc, Anjou and Nellis. The latter three pears add a great crunch to baked goods and will hold their shape well. If you happen to be into exotic, sensory sensations, the Anjou, when fully ripe, exudes an intriguing fragrance that can easily fill a kitchen with the fresh smell and taste of fall.

But whatever the variety, and whatever the recipe, pears are always a very special autumn treat.

A bit of heaven: fresh apple cider

By Arlene Funke
special writer

SOME PEOPLE KNOW it's autumn when the football season kicks off. Others salute the arrival of crisp, autumn weather by heading out to one of the many cider mills dotting the rural landscape.

Sip that sweet, freshly pressed apple cider. Bite into a warm, cinnamon-sprinkled doughnut. Is this heaven, or what?

Michigan's apple cider season started around Labor Day and will continue through late November or early December, depending on customer flow and weather.

Each weekend, throngs of people will make it a point to visit their favorite cider mill. It's a tradition that has been going on for generations. Just ask Jason Palmer, 22, of Farmington Hills. His family owns the venerable Franklin Cider Mill, a certified national historical site.

"It's been in existence since 1837," said Palmer, production manager at the mill, on the Franklin River in Oakland County.

The Franklin Cider Mill uses a replica of the original press, which came from Germany, Palmer said.

Lots of cider mills are close to home

Following is a partial list of local cider mills, mostly as provided by AAA Michigan.

OAKLAND COUNTY
 Diehl's Orchard and Cider Mill, 1479 Ranch Road, Holly, 634-8981
 Franklin Cider Mill, 7450 Franklin Road, Bloomfield Township, 626-2968
 Goodison Cider Mill, 4295 Orion Road, Oakland Township, 652-8450
 Greenock Mills, 10470 Rushton Road, South Lyon, 437-5900
 Middleton Cider Mill, 46462 Dequindre, Rochester, 731-6699
 Paint Creek Cider Mill, 4480 Orion Road, Rochester, 651-8361
 Yates Cider Mill, 1990 E. Avon Road, Rochester Hills, 651-8300

WAYNE COUNTY
 Apple Charlie's South Huron Orchards, 38035 S. Huron Road, New Boston, 753-9380
 Davies Orchard and Cider Mill, 40026 Willow Road, New Boston, 654-8893

The procedure is fairly simple. Apples are washed, then fed into a grinder. Cloth mats squeeze the juice from the mashed apples, while holding back the seeds and cores.

CIDER IS cholesterol-free, contains dietary fiber and is rich in potassium. It also contains small quantities of calcium, phosphorus and iron, according to a nutritionist at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

Unlike apple juice, cider isn't strained. It contains pulp. It is deep, golden-brown in color and has a robust taste. Most ciders contain no preservatives. If they aren't consumed in a few days, ciders will develop a bitter taste and eventually ferment into vinegar or alcohol.

"The good news is that cider freezes beautifully," Palmer said. "Take out one cup (liquid) for expansion." After thawing, shake the container.

As later apple varieties ripen, they are added to the batches, creating a sweeter blend.

"The avid customer can tell the difference," according to Palmer.

Many cider mills are family operations that have been in existence for many years. Each cider mill has its own personality. Some operations grow their own apples, while others obtain fruit from independent orchards.

Fresh doughnuts, home-baked apple pies, honey, popcorn, jellies and fudge also are traditional items available for sale at area cider mills.

"We try to feature as many Michigan products as we can," said Tracy Shaffer, 31, of Rochester, a member of the Mancour family, which operates Paint Creek Cider Mill in Rochester.

THE MANCOUR FAMILY is in its 13th year of business at Paint Creek. Seven years ago, the family opened a restaurant next to the cider mill. The restaurant, which serves American cuisine, is open for dinner Tuesdays-Saturdays.

Lunches are served Tuesdays-Fridays. Sunday brunch is particularly popular during cider season, Shaffer said.

Last year, many people were afraid to eat apple products because of negative publicity about possible health risks from the pesticide Alar. Not to worry.

"Michigan apple growers don't use Alar," according to Dr. Dean Krauskopf, a horticulturist with the extension service.

The Plymouth Orchard and Cider Mill, in Plymouth Township, has several acres of dwarf apple trees, and customers may pick their own fruit. It also has a small collection of farm animals, which is popular with children.

Ward's Orchards in Ypsilanti has crafts, entertainment and country fair.

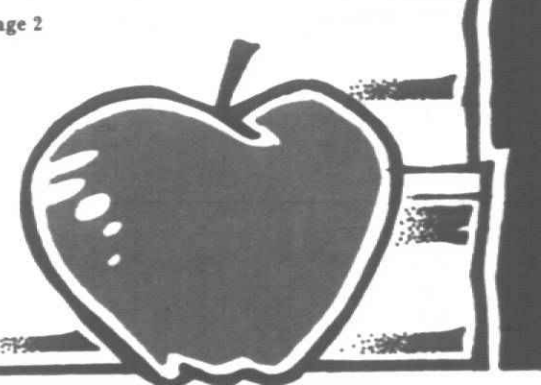

It's best to wear comfortable clothes and old shoes. The grounds may be muddy and, during busy times, customers may have to park down the road and walk back to the cider mill.

If you want to avoid crowds, go during the week. If you're unsure of hours of operation, phone ahead.

Apples, honey for a sweet new year

The Jewish New Year (Rosh Hashana) begins at sundown Friday. It is customary to begin a New Year meal with apples and honey to wish for a sweet year ahead. It is also customary to serve sweet dishes, perhaps with honey in them.

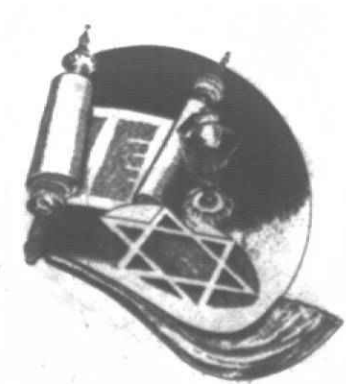

Linda Rosenberg of Southfield represents the Galilee B'nai B'rith Women, whose second cookbook was published in 1985. Copies of "The Galilee Gourmet Book II" are available from Rosenberg.

Mentioning recipes in the cookbook that would be suitable for Rosh Hashana, Rosenberg said, "Glazed Chicken Breasts is a possibility for a main dish. Carrot-Yam Trimmies is a wonderful side dish, as is Apricot Carrots. It is also nice to serve a good dessert, perhaps with apple, as they are traditionally the beginning of the fall harvest. Apple Cake and Golden Apple Torte are excellent."

The cookbook comes in a spiral-binding and is priced at $11.50, plus $3 if mailed. To order, call Rosenberg at 659-6706.

GLAZED CHICKEN BREASTS
 Place 8 chicken breasts in a baking pan. Season with lots of paprika and bake for 1 hour at 350 degrees.

Sauce
 In a 1-quart saucepan place: 1 stick margarine
 1 (8-ounce) jar marmalade
 1 (1-pound) can crushed pineapple, drained dash of lemon juice
 Heat over medium heat and then add cornstarch to thicken. Pour sauce over chicken and bake 1/2 hour longer. Serve with rice.

APRICOT CARROTS
 2 1/2 cups thinly sliced, pared carrots
 1 1/2 tablespoon butter
 1/4 cup apricot preserves
 1/4 teaspoon grated orange rind
 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 pinch of ground nutmeg
 salt to taste

Boil the carrots, covered in 1/2 cup water and 1/4 teaspoon salt just tender-crisp, about 10 minutes; drain. Over low heat, stir together the butter, preserves, orange rind, lemon juice, nutmeg and salt until butter and preserves melt; fold in carrots and reheat. Makes 4 small servings.

CARROT-YAM TZIMMES
 2 pounds sweet potatoes (yams), cut into 1/2 inch slices (leave jackets on until after they are cooked)
 1 pound carrots, cleaned, scraped, cut into 1/2 inch slices
 1/2 cup dried prunes
 1/2 cup dried apricots
 1/2 cup dried apple
 1 cup orange juice

2 tablespoon honey
 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

Cook yams and carrots in enough water to cover in a covered saucepan until barely tender, about 15 minutes. Drain. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a 2 1/2 or 3-quart casserole. Place yams and carrots in casserole. Stir in dried fruits. Pour orange juice over vegetables and fruits. Dot with honey and sprinkle with lemon rind, nutmeg and ginger.

Bake in 350 degree oven for about 30 minutes or until fork tender. If a sweeter taste is desired, sprinkle with a cinnamon-sugar mixture the last 5 minutes of baking and garnish with thin strips of orange rind before serving.

APPLE CAKE
 1 1/2 cups oil
 2 cups sugar
 3 eggs beaten
 3 cups all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon cinnamon

1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 teaspoon lemon extract
 3 cups apple slices
 1 cup nuts, chopped

Combine oil and sugar. Blend in beaten eggs. Combine flour, baking soda, salt and cinnamon. Add to oil and sugar mixture. Add vanilla and lemon extracts. Stir in apples and nuts. Place in a greased 9-by-13-inch pan and bake for 1 hour, 20 minutes at 300 degrees. While cake is still warm, cover surface with glaze.
Glaze
 1 cup confectioners sugar
 juice of 2 lemons

GOLDEN APPLE TORTE
 3 cups flour
 2 teaspoons baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 2 teaspoons cinnamon
 1 1/2 cup oil
 1 1/2 cup sugar
 2 cups grated Golden Delicious apples
 1 (8-ounce) can crushed pineapple
 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Deserves cutlery

1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
pinch salt

4 slices firm white bread, crusts trimmed

1 large ripe pear, peeled

2 1/4 inch thick slices Gruyere cheese

2 1/4 inch slices Fontina Cheese

Cream together the butter, nutmeg, cinnamon, coriander, ginger and salt in a small bowl. Spread on both sides of bread. Cut pear lengthwise into 1/4-inch-thick slices, discarding the core. Layer 1 slice Gruyere, 1 pear slice and 1 Fontina cheese slice and another pear slice on each of 2 slices of bread. Press down. Heat a heavy skillet over medium heat. Add sandwiches and weight with plate. Cook until golden brown, turning once, about 4 minutes per side.

FRESH PEAR ICE CREAM

1 quart peeled, cored, thinly sliced Bartlett or Comice pears or three 1-pound cans pears, drained, patted dry and sliced thin

1/2 cup water

1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice

1 cup half and half

1 cup superfine sugar

one 2-inch slice vanilla bean, split

2 cups whipping cream

2 1/2 tablespoons eau-de-vie or pear brandy

Combine pears, water and lemon juice in a non-aluminum saucepan. Cover partially and simmer gently until pears are soft, about 10 minutes. Cool.

Cook half and half with sugar and vanilla bean in a small heavy saucepan over low heat until sugar dissolves and mixture is scalded. Cover and cool completely.

Puree the pear mixture in processor or blender. Transfer to a large bowl. Strain half-and-half mixture into pear mixture and stir to blend. Refrigerate until well chilled. Whisk cold whipping cream and eau-de-vie into pear mixture. Transfer to ice cream maker and process according to manufacturer's directions.

WINTER PEAR BISQUE

2 tablespoons unsalted butter

1/2 cup minced onions

one 3-ounce turnip, peeled and diced

AP — When kids cook, they usually prefer to make something they can eat just as soon as it's done. But these easy-fix brownies are so good they're worth waiting for, until they're almost cool.

Country cooks used apple cider

By Katie Maple McBride special writer

While generally enjoyed as a beverage today, cider was a staple in 19th-century America. Rural housewives quickly learned some basics about cooking with cider; it enhanced the natural flavor of foods, acted as a natural meat tenderizer and was an abstinent method of making meals, since the alcohol boiled away.

They put this knowledge to good use, adding cider to everything from soups to desserts. For old-fashioned flavor, you might like to stir up a few of these recipes from "The American Cider Book" by Vrest Orton (Farrar, Straus and Giroux, New York, 1973).

CIDER SYRUP

1 quart cider

2 1/2 cups sugar

Boil cider for 25 minutes. Add sugar, bring again to a full boil for 3 minutes for medium syrup or 5 minutes for heavy syrup. Yield: approximately 1 1/2 pints. For cinnamon cider syrup, add 1 tablespoon cinnamon drops with the sugar and proceed as above. Use medium cider syrup as a table syrup, and heavy cider syrup for ice cream sundaes and sodas.

CIDER POT ROAST

1 1/2 cups cider

1 1/2 cups brown sugar

2 teaspoons salt

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

1/4 teaspoon ginger

2 whole cloves

3-4 pound chuck pot roast of beef

Mix marinade of cider, sugar, and spices. Pour over a 3-pound chuck pot roast of beef and let stand in refrigerator for 24 hours. Remove from marinade, sprinkle with flour. Brown in hot fat in a Dutch oven. Turn heat low, add marinade to meat and cover closely. Simmer for 3 hours. Thicken gravy if desired.

NORMANDY PORK CHOPS

6 pork chops, 1/2 inch thick

1 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup flour

4 apples

2 cups cranberries

1 cup brown sugar

1 1/2 cups cider

Combine pork chops with salt. Dredge with flour. Sauté until golden brown. Slice apples thin, mix with cranberries and brown sugar and put in the bottom of a buttered casserole.

APPLE CIDER PIE

1 1/2 cups cider

2 tablespoons red cinnamon candies

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin

Combine pears, water and lemon juice in a heavy non-aluminum saucepan. Cover partially and simmer until pears are very soft, about 20 minutes. Puree mixture in a food mill through medium disc to remove pear skins.

Return mixture to a saucepan. Stir in sugar, salt, lemon peel, vanilla bean, nutmeg and cinnamon. Cover partially and cook over low heat until mixture mounds on a spoon, stirring frequently during the last hour for 3 hours. Mix in pear brandy or eau-de-vie and simmer 5 more minutes. Cool slightly. Remove vanilla bean. Spoon warm pear butter into sterilized glass jars, leaving 1/4 inch space at the top. Seal jars. Cool. Refrigerate at least 5 days before using.

STORING

Store cheese in its original wrapping or seal in foil or plastic wrap. Eliminate as much air as possible to prevent surface mold or drying.

Double-wrap strong-smelling cheeses in foil or plastic wrap, then in a tightly covered container so other foods don't absorb the odor.

No matter how carefully they are stored, natural cheeses continue to ripen and will spoil, even in the refrigerator. Eat cream cheese, cottage cheese, ricotta and other soft cheeses within one week of purchase. Store firmer cheeses, such as Cheddar and Swiss, for several weeks. Parmesan and other very dry cheeses will be fine for several months.

Surface mold is unappetizing but generally harmless. Cut out a 1/2-inch area around moldy areas before serving.

FREEZING

To freeze natural and process cheeses, wrap in moist paper and freeze for 6-8 weeks for natural cheeses, 7-9 months for process cheeses.

Because cheese texture is affected by freezing, use cheese that has been frozen only in cooking.

Do not freeze soft cheeses, such as cottage and ricotta.

USING CHEESE

Four ounces of any natural or process cheese equals one cup shredded.

To try a new cheese, find out its family connections. Cheese "families" have similar flavor and texture so you can substitute a new cheese for a familiar one. Substitute Colby, Edam or Gouda for Cheddar; Asiago, Fontina or Romano for Parmesan; Neuchatel for cream cheese; Brie for Camembert.

family-tested winner dinner

Betsy Brethen

Taco salad is easy, full meal

Many mothers will attest that cooking for children can be a battle. As the mother of three boys and 12 years of experience in the trenches, I have had to devise various tactics that keep the troops in line and help quell outright rebellion.

One maneuver that works for our family is to let each of our sons have a night to choose the dinner. I have found the boys usually respect each other's choices and tend to eat their dinner with fewer complaints when this participative planning is used.

One of their favorite choices is taco salad which, in addition to being easy to make, is a complete meal in itself. One of the things I really like about this dish is that it may be made early in the day, refrigerated and then tossed into the oven, and is ready to eat within 15 minutes. It may be reheated easily or microwaved for late-arriving family members.

I usually serve it with a mixed fruit salad that has been drizzled with a honey-lime dressing, and that's all that is needed. This dinner keeps K-P to a minimum and is always a hit in our family's mess hall.

I WOULD LIKE to thank those readers who have taken the time to send in their Winner Dinners. The menus sound delicious and reaffirm the basic premise of this column. Don't forget that an apron printed with "Winner Dinner Winner" will be given to the person whose menu is selected to appear in this column.

The first Winner Dinner from a reader will appear Monday, Oct. 16. I'm looking forward to hearing from you, and especially hope that you and your troops enjoy this week's Winner Dinner.

Submit your recipes to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012. Please include a complete dinner, with recipes as needed.

Each week's recipes are printed on the same size so that you may clip and save them in a three-ring binder — use a paper punch to make holes in the clippings, or paste the clippings on a blank sheet of three-ring notebook paper. Another option is to simply file the clippings in a folder with pockets that will hold them.

APPLE BREAD

1/2 cup oil

1 cup sugar

2 eggs, beaten

3 cups whole-grain flour

2 teaspoons baking powder

1/2 teaspoon salt

1 tablespoon orange rind

1 cup raisins

1 cup walnuts

3 cups chopped apples

1/2 cup sweet cider

Blend the oil and sugar into a smooth cream. Add well-beaten eggs in a separate bowl, mix the flour, baking powder and salt. Add this to the cream mix. After mixing together add the remaining ingredients and stir into smooth, well-kneaded dough. If the dough seems too dry, add some cider. It should neither stick to the hands nor crumble. Bake in a pan like a johnnycake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

TACO SALAD

This dish takes about 30 minutes to prepare, may be made in advance and is equally delicious with ground turkey. It amply serves our family of 5 and is great the next day.

8 cups of tortilla chips

1 1/2 pounds of ground beef or ground turkey

1 medium-sized onion, chopped

1 taco seasoning packet

2 medium-sized tomatoes

1 bunch of green onions, chopped (white part and 3 inches of green)

1 can of chopped green chilies

1/2 cup grated mozzarella cheese

1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese

1/2 cup grated Monterey Jack cheese

1/2 head of lettuce, chopped coarsely

3 black pitted olives, sliced thinly for garnish (optional)

Spray a deep saucerpan with a non-stick cooking spray. If use a 5-quart Dutch oven and wrap the wooden handles with foil so they won't be damaged in the oven.

Place half the tortilla chips in the bottom of the pan. Brown meat and chopped onion until meat is thoroughly cooked. Drain off fat and add the taco seasoning. Follow the directions on the packet but cook only half the specified time.

While the meat is cooking, cut up the tomatoes and green onions and mix together with the can of chopped green chilies. Chop lettuce very coarsely and grate cheese. (As a time-saver I buy grated cheese.)

Four half the meat mixture over the chips. Put half the lettuce on top of the meat. Put half the tomato, green onion and green chili mixture on top of the lettuce. Cover with half the amount of cheese. Re-layer with remaining ingredients — chips, meat, lettuce, tomatoes, green onion and chili mixture, and top with cheese. Garnish with sliced black olives.

Bake covered in a preheated oven at 450 degrees for 20 minutes.

FRESH FRUIT SALAD WITH HONEY-LIME DRESSING

Cut up any fresh fruit you have on hand. Squeeze the juice out of 1/2 lemon and sweeten with honey to taste. Drizzle this over the fruit and, voila, the salad is ready! This dressing recipe comes from Missie Williams, a good friend and a great cook. An additional note: If you like lots of dressing, proportionately increase the quantities.

Spray a deep saucerpan with a non-stick cooking spray. If use a 5-quart Dutch oven and wrap the wooden handles with foil so they won't be damaged in the oven.

Place half the tortilla chips in the bottom of the pan. Brown meat and chopped onion until meat is thoroughly cooked. Drain off fat and add the taco seasoning. Follow the directions on the packet but cook only half the specified time.

While the meat is cooking, cut up the tomatoes and green onions and mix together with the can of chopped green chilies. Chop lettuce very coarsely and grate cheese. (As a time-saver I buy grated cheese.)

Four half the meat mixture over the chips. Put half the lettuce on top of the meat. Put half the tomato, green onion and green chili mixture on top of the lettuce. Cover with half the amount of cheese. Re-layer with remaining ingredients — chips, meat, lettuce, tomatoes, green onion and chili mixture, and top with cheese. Garnish with sliced black olives.

Bake covered in a preheated oven at 450 degrees for 20 minutes.

FRESH FRUIT SALAD WITH HONEY-LIME DRESSING

Cut up any fresh fruit you have on hand. Squeeze the juice out of 1/2 lemon and sweeten with honey to taste. Drizzle this over the fruit and, voila, the salad is ready! Recipes

TACO SALAD

This dish takes about 30 minutes to prepare, may be made in advance and is equally delicious with ground turkey. It amply serves our family of 5 and is great the next day.

8 cups of tortilla chips

1 1/2 pounds of ground beef or ground turkey

1 medium-sized onion, chopped

1 taco seasoning packet

2 medium-sized tomatoes

1 bunch of green onions, chopped (white part and 3 inches of green)

1 can of chopped green chilies

1/2 cup grated mozzarella cheese

1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese

1/2 cup grated Monterey Jack cheese

1/2 head of lettuce, chopped coarsely

3 black pitted olives, sliced thinly for garnish (optional)

Spray a deep saucerpan with a non-stick cooking spray. If use a 5-quart Dutch oven and wrap the wooden handles with foil so they won't be damaged in the oven.

Place half the tortilla chips in the bottom of the pan. Brown meat and chopped onion until meat is thoroughly cooked. Drain off fat and add the taco seasoning. Follow the directions on the packet but cook only half the specified time.

SOUTHWESTERN-STYLE SPAGHETTI SQUASH

one 2 1/2-to-3-pound spaghetti squash

1 cup chopped sweet red and/or green pepper

1/4 cup chopped onion

1 clove garlic, minced

2 1/4 tablespoons snipped fresh cilantro

1 tablespoon olive oil or cooking oil

1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar or cider vinegar

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon ground cumin

1/2 cup sliced pitted ripe olives

1/2 cup coarsely chopped peanuts

Halve squash, discard seeds. Place, cut side down, in a 12-by-7 1/2-by-2-inch microwave-safe baking dish. Cover with vented microwave-safe plastic wrap. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 15-20 minutes or until tender, rearranging once. Drain, set aside.

Use a fork to shred and separate squash pulp into strands, reserving shells. In the casserole toss squash pulp, pepper mixture and olives until coated. Cook, covered, on high for 2-3 minutes or until heated through. Transfer to squash shells. Sprinkle with peanuts. Makes 6-8 servings.

'Color on your plate' is good for your health

An old wives' tale dating back hundreds of years taught, "Always have a lot of color on your plate." This advice was given so that people would meet their need for beta carotene.

Beta carotene is one of food's natural "antioxidants." It can help our bodies fight off cancer and heart disease. In today's modern world we're exposed to pollution, smoke, fatty foods, stress and sun exposure. Many of these we can't avoid completely. But, we can help ourselves by eating a well-balanced diet rich in leafy greens, yellow and orange vegetables and fruits, which provide our bodies with a daily store of these important antioxidants.

Most fruits and vegetables supply beta carotene. Especially the green and yellow orange vegetables such as broccoli, spinach, sweet potatoes and the popular carrot (which we were told to eat for healthy eyes). Getting enough beta carotene in our diet is, in fact, essential for good vision and it also helps protect the eyes from forming cataracts.

Just knowing that eating foods rich in beta carotene can help to prevent certain types of cancers, and that it can help to preserve your vision, should encourage you to reach for a glass of carrot juice instead of soda pop. Now the good news. Foods rich in beta carotene are tasty.

DOESN'T A spiced carrot-raisin muffin sound good for breakfast? And for an afternoon snack, sweet potato chips are a healthy way to satisfy your craving for munchies. As the days and evenings begin to get cool, think about baking some acorn squash with a touch of brown sugar and cinnamon or enjoying a bowl of pumpkin chowder.

Take the old wives' tale seriously. It was excellent advice then — and in our modern environment it's even more important. Whenever you sit down to a meal, always be sure there is color on your plate, especially from the vegetable family. It's also a good idea to eat a carrot every day.

SPICED CARROT-RAISIN MUFFINS
Makes 12 servings
2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
3/4 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon each, baking soda, ground cinnamon and ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon each salt and ground ginger
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup plus 2 teaspoons vegetable oil
2 tablespoons thawed, frozen, concentrated orange juice (no sugar added) or 1 small orange (about 6 ounces), peeled, seeded and chopped
1 1/2 cups shredded carrots
1/2 cup plus 2 tablespoons dark raisins cup (each will be about 3/4 full). Bake for 25-30 minutes (until muffins are browned and a toothpick, inserted in center, comes out clean). Remove muffins to wire rack and let cool.

Each serving provides 1 bread exchange, 1/4 vegetable exchange, 1 1/2 fat exchanges, 1/4 fruit exchange, 10 optional calories.

Fast-food meal can equal a half-stick of butter

If you have just gotten the news your blood cholesterol number is high, you are not alone.

More than 60 million Americans have high blood cholesterol. High blood cholesterol is one of the major controllable risk factors for heart disease. The amount of cholesterol in your blood is affected by the amount of cholesterol your body makes as well as the saturated fat and cholesterol in the foods you eat.

Would you sit down and eat a half stick of butter? Guess what, if you eat a large hamburger with cheese, an order of French fries and a milkshake at a local fast food restaurant you are consuming that

Lois Thieleke
home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

much saturated fat. If you want to correct high blood cholesterol and you are eating like an average American, you will have to make some changes. Let's face it, we are all different so there is no one single approach to the cholesterol problem. Biologically, psychologically and lifestyles are very diverse, so then should our approach to cholesterol be individual? Consult with your physician for your specific guideline for lowering cholesterol.

SOME VERY LUCKY people were born with good genes and no matter what they eat, their cholesterol levels stay low. Others, no matter how carefully they eat, can't keep cholesterol levels in a desirable range. Some of us, of course, are in the middle. If your cholesterol is high you need to find out the reason and problems.

"Free of cholesterol" or "no cholesterol" does not mean free of fat. Your body will use the fat and make cholesterol. You will find these labels on margarine, crackers, cereals, mayonnaise, potato chips and other foods. Rule of thumb, in a beef product for instance, figure half the total fat is saturated. To figure grams of fat in a milk product, figure two-thirds of the total fat per serving is close to the amount of saturated fat.

Be alert for names on labels such as coconut oil, palm oil, butter, cream, beef fat and lard. Also look for the presence of whole eggs or egg yolks in baked or processed foods. These can all raise your cholesterol numbers.

Fiber seems to have the power to absorb certain fatty substances in the gastrointestinal tract and escorts them out of the body, therefore preventing the body from using them to manufacture cholesterol in the liver so your cholesterol level goes down.

Dietary fiber sources are grouped according to their ability to dissolve in water. Soluble fibers, those that dissolve in water, include pectin, gums and certain hemicellulose fibers. Foods that contain these soluble fibers include oat bran, dry beans, barley, apples and cranberries (pectin), and other fruits. Insoluble fibers such as wheat bran are of no benefit in lowering in cholesterol, though they are important in the diet to control constipation and possibly clean the intestine. Oat bran and dry beans and peas have been found especially effective in lowering serum cholesterol.

BREADS HIGHEST in fiber and lowest in fat are whole wheat, rye and French. Choose English and bran muffins, plain bagels and pita bread. Plan more lunches and dinners that include spaghetti, macaroni, noodles, rice, wheat, corn meal, barley and bulgur. Choose cream soups less often and instead choose minestrone, chicken noodle soup, or split-pea soups. Use low-fat crackers such as soda crackers, matzoh, melba toast and graham crackers. For dessert, try angel food cake, fig bars, sherbert, frozen non-fat yogurt or ice milk. At snacking time, use popcorn (plain) or fruits and vegetables.

Losing weight often lowers serum lipids, including cholesterol, and reduces blood pressure, as well as providing other health benefits. Fat is a concentrated source of calories, so decreasing fat intake is important in weight reduction as well serum cholesterol reduction.

The choice is really yours. Changing a few eating habits doesn't mean giving up all the foods you like to eat. Making substitutions for high fat foods, preparing foods the low-fat way, modifying recipes to be lower in fat and cutting down on serving size all will help lower your cholesterol and, hopefully, you will live longer.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, center, welcomed Gov. James Blanchard and his wife, Janet, and Detroit Red Wings owner Mike Ilitch to his Friday morning fund-raiser at Roma's of Livonia. An estimated 2,000 people paid $200 a plate to attend the event, billed as McNamara's biggest fund-raiser ever. Pizza magnate Ilitch was among those honored by the executive for contributions to the county over the past year. Other honorees included Diane Edgecomb, executive director of Detroit's Central Business District Association, and Horace Sheffield, executive director of the Detroit Association of Black Organizations.

Board seeks volunteers

Volunteers are sought for advisory councils at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital and Wayne Community Living Services, Northville. Councils meet at least quarterly to advise hospital directors on administrative policy and programs and to monitor programs, patient rights issues and operating budgets. Volunteers are sought from these groups: mental health service consumers; their parents, guardians or relatives; mental health advocates; local and regional mental health officials; or anyone interested in mental health care. Council members will be appointed by state Mental Health Director Thomas Watkins Jr. They will serve a two-year term. Volunteers must be Wayne County residents. Those interested in serving should send a letter of interest and biographical information to: Lois Brennan, staff liaison, Mental Health Advisory Council, Michigan Department of Mental Health, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing, Mich. 48913.

Levin staffer to hold constituent meetings

Area residents can meet with a representative of U.S. Sen. Carl Levin from 2-4 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 4 in Wayne City Hall, 3355 S. Wayne Road. Lisa Borioe of Sen. Levin's regional staff will be there to help residents with problems with governmental agencies and programs, including Social Security and the Veteran's Administration. She will also seek resident's comments on new laws and other governmental action. Those unable to attend can write or call the senator's regional office, 15100 Northline, Room 107, Southgate, 285-8596.

ASEPTIC NECROSIS
 Aseptic necrosis is an unusual arthritis, but one that any person could develop some day. Individuals at risk include those who are taking steroids daily, alcoholics, or anyone who recently injured a bone. However, aseptic necrosis occurs in some people for no discernable reason. The cause is closure of a blood vessel supplying a joint or bone; the bone deprived of its oxygen and nutrition, crumbles. The name of the condition comes from the observation that infection is not the cause (aseptic) and the effect is to destroy bone (necrosis). The most frequent sites are the shoulder, knee, and wrist, though any bone may be involved. If you have aseptic necrosis, you feel pain at the site the bone is disintegrating. The pain often becomes intense on bearing weight on the bone or joint, and eventually is present even when you are at rest. Initially, neither x-ray or bone scan reveal the cause. It may take a second or third x-ray to indicate the presence of aseptic necrosis. Treatment may be as simple as a temporary splint while the body heals the limb. Or, collapse of underlying bone may be of such extent as to necessitate an operation for placement of an artificial hip or knee.

Chiefs huff, puff, blow away Churchill

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

A blustery, near-gale-like wind — possibly the remnants of Hurricane Hugo — swept over the playing field at the conclusion of Friday's football game.

It was too late. The true storm had already come and gone.

The real McCoy, in more ways than one, is the resurrected Plymouth Canton program that blew past Livonia Churchill 33-14 for its fourth straight victory at Centennial Educational Park.

The undefeated Chiefs, 2-0 in the Western Division, are enjoying their finest start in school history and their longest winning streak, which has reached five games. Churchill dropped to 0-2 and 0-4.

Junior quarterback Karl Wukie is a primary reason Canton is one victory from guaranteeing its first winning season, and his play Friday was clear evidence of his importance to the team.

WUKIE, WHO figured in every scoring play, staked the Chiefs to a 13-0 halftime lead, scoring twice on quarterback sneaks. In the second half, he passed for two touchdowns and ran for another.

"It's the linemen," he said. "I didn't break any tackles. If they play well, I play well. If they play poorly, I play poorly. That's all it is."

Indeed, the blocking of Wayne Robinson, Trond Darby, Louis Poulos, Chris Lumsden, Jeff Roch and Jason Dembny was important as the Chiefs seemed to move the ball at will and rolled up 245 yards rushing.

The first time Canton had the ball — after a Jason Lee interception killed a Churchill drive — it put points on the scoreboard. Wukie, who rushed for 50 yards and passed for 61, went 2 yards on the straight-ahead keeper, and capped the team's second possession with a 1-yard plunge.

Fullback Chris James set up the second score with a 44-yard run that typified the quick-hitting running attack the Chiefs can direct at opponents. Jason Riggs was the team's leading rusher with 88 yards on 12 carries, and James finished with 81 on seven attempts.

"The kids did a good job coming off the ball," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said. "That's something we talked about because last week we didn't (while beating Livonia Franklin 21-0). The line did a good job, and (the Chargers are) a good ballclub."

"JAMES INSIDE, Riggs off tackle and Wukie faking is a pretty hard trio to defend. The things we're doing are the things they're best at. We'd be stupid not to because they run hard and have such quickness."

"We're doing what their ability tells us to do. That doesn't surprise me. We just have to maintain it," he added.

The Chargers also moved the ball fairly well. Mike Brooks gained 109 yards on 20 carries, and the Chargers were not embarrassed in terms of total yards, being out-gained 306-229.

But some setbacks such as the interception, a costly second-half fumble and a bend-but-don't-break Canton defense stymied the Churchill offense.

"Brooks was breaking the line of scrimmage, but they were getting some people up there and making the plays," Chargers coach Herb Osterland said.

"I thought we had a chance to win the game, but they just came after us and we were not able to stop them. Their offense took it to us. Their team on the field has to be about as quick as we've seen."

Osterland isn't surprised to see the Chiefs doing so well. Nobody should doubt Canton's validity, he said.

"WHEN YOU have good football players and keep doing the right things, you're going to put the ball over the goal. Bob hasn't changed what he's doing. He has kids who are executing, and they're good, quality players."

"They don't have to hang their heads down to anybody and ask 'Is this for real?' Heck, yeah, they're for real."

Canton upped its lead to 20-0 on its first try of third quarter when Wukie, after running 21 yards on the bootleg, passed 10 yards over the middle to Dembny, who was waiting in the end zone.

Churchill's highlight of the evening occurred on the ensuing kickoff as Mike Spaccatello did his impression of Notre Dame's Raghib "Rocket" Ismail and returned it 88 yards for a TD.

The shootout continued, however, as the resilient Chiefs, aided by two 15-yard penalties against Churchill, reached the end zone again, but some trickery was needed this time.

Churchill had stopped Wukie on third down at the 5, and the Chiefs lined up for a 21-yard field goal by Mike Krejcar. Wukie, the holder, rolled out instead and passed to Riggs for a 27-7 score.

"THERE'S NO doubt we're a good team," Wukie said. "We are for real despite what some people think. Some papers have said 'It's a dream; don't wake them up.' Every game is just as important. We just want to keep winning."

Canton used Max Corona's fumble recovery to score its last TD. After starting at the Churchill 33 early in the fourth, Wukie ran 17 yards on the bootleg. Andy Sapezia got one more TD for the Chargers on a 4-yard dive with 5 1/4 minutes left.

"Everyone is feeling good and enjoying (the win) like they should," Khoenle said. "Let them enjoy it until Monday and then we'll have to start with something else."

Salem notches 3rd shutout

Ryan Johnson riddled the Livonia Stevenson defense for four touchdowns, leading Plymouth Salem to an easy 26-0 Western Lakes Activities Association victory Friday at Stevenson.

Johnson scored twice in the second quarter and twice in the fourth on runs of 1, 2, 5 and 2 yards. The first two were set up by Rob Kowalski runs; he gained 43 yards to the Stevenson 30 to spur a 76-yard drive, and had a 30-yard run to Stevenson's 16 in a 59-yard drive.

For the game, Kowalski, a senior quarterback, gained 94 yards on 12 carries and completed three of 11 passes for 44 more. Johnson finished with 68 yards rushing on 16 tries, and Pat Bowie had 78 yards on nine attempts.

STEVENSON COULD get nothing going against the tough Rock defense, which recorded its third-consecutive shutout. Spartan quarterback Brian Piergentili completed just three of 16 passes for 31 yards and was intercepted three times.

One of those interceptions was by Johnson, and it set up a 48-yard TD drive. A 17-yard Johnson run was the key offensive play in the scoring march. Salem's other fourth-quarter score came after a 50-yard drive, capped by Johnson's 5-yard bolt.

Other Rocks with interceptions were Scott Austin and Brian Burlison.

For the game, Stevenson managed just 87 total yards, 56 on the ground, in slipping to 1-3 overall and 1-1 in the WLAA's Lakes Division. Salem is 4-0, 3-0 in the WLAA and 2-0 in the Lakes.

Rocks rebound to beat Spartans

Coming off a tough, 48-45 loss to Walled Lake Western Tuesday, the Plymouth Salem girls basketball team rebounded Thursday with a 59-26 thrashing of Livonia Stevenson before a home crowd.

The Rocks set the tone in the first quarter, outscoring Stevenson 14-5. They managed to build up a 37-16 lead by halftime and a 47-21 lead heading into the final quarter.

Betsy McAllister led the Rocks, 1-0 in the Lakes Division and 2-4 overall, with 17 points. Sarah Ruete added nine points and Wendy Bailey eight for the winners.

Stevenson (0-1, 1-5) was led by Kelly Cotter's eight points. "This is a big win for us," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "We really played hard and did a nice job."

PLY. CHRISTIAN 53, HURON VALLEY 45: The turnaround coach Kerry Turner predicted for her Eagles is actually taking place.

Plymouth Christian Academy, 2-19 a year ago, has won six of seven games this season, including a defeat of Huron Valley Lutheran in the team's latest outing Friday.

The Eagles, 1-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference, led 26-18 at halftime and 37-32 at the end of three quarters, but Lutheran took a 40-39 lead with six minutes left in the game. Christian, however, scored the next eight points, and the Hawks never got closer than six.

Sophomore Jill Butler scored 17 points, including 12 in the second half, to pace the Eagles, and Christin Thomason had 12 points and nine rebounds.

Tamara Tilly, who chipped in 10 points, led the defense with six steals, and Amy Windle had 10 assists and six steals to go with eight points.

CANTON 68, CHURCHILL 25: Plymouth Canton (1-0, 4-2) is once again proving why it should be considered one of the area's top teams.

Stacey Thompson's 18 points and Susan Ferko's 12 helped boost the Chiefs past host Churchill (0-1, 1-5) Thursday. The Chargers were led by Alyssa Belaire's eight points.

REGINA 55, MERCY 53: Despite Joanne Stephen's 18-point effort, the Marlins couldn't steal a victory from Harper Woods Regina in the Central Division opener Thursday night.

Mercy is 2-4 overall, the Saddellites 4-2. Stephens had help from teammates Jenny Clinton and Kathleen Gerig, who had 11 and 10 points, respectively.

"We had a lot of turnovers, especially in the first half," Mercy coach Larry Baker said. "But we played them virtually even in the third and fourth quarter."

Calendar favors Salem harriers

Let's see. If this is 1989, that must mean Plymouth Salem is on the march in boys cross country again.

Sure enough, the Rocks have another fine team and plan to prove that in the Lakes Division dual-meet season. Salem began that phase of the schedule Thursday by trouncing Farmington 22-39 at Cass Benton Park.

"It seems the odd years are our years," Salem coach Geoff Baker said, recalling the Rocks beat Farmington for the division title on the basis of a sixth-man tiebreaker two years ago. "And we've been second at (the) Schoolcraft (Invitational) in 1985, 1987 and 1989."

Ben Goba of Farmington won the race in 16:51, but Salem's Brendon Masterson was a close second at 16:59.

The Rocks, 1-1 overall, captured six of the next seven places to nail down the victory. John Thomas was third (17:50), Dave Hamway fourth (17:58), Mike Patterson sixth (18:24), Todd Cimo seventh (18:26), Brian Uryga eighth (18:31) and Samir Bhavsar ninth (18:51).

"Brendon was going out and trying to hang with Ben," Baker said. "He was about 20 yards away from the whole race."

"I told the guys to stay together in a pack, but I let Brendon go out after Ben. He ran a good race, and he was happy with it, which is what counts."

Farmington, 2-2 overall, had Kevin Van Ord in fifth place (18:06), Darius Mehraban in 10th (18:52), Eric Crawford in 11th (19:12) and Greg Endres in 12th (19:31).

N. FARMINGTON 26, JOHN GLENN 36: The Raiders upped their dual-meet record to 5-1 Thursday, opening the Lakes Division season with a win at Oakland Community College. The Rockets are 2-1.

Glenn's Matt Maybouer was nearly a minute ahead of everybody else, taking individual honors at 17:18, but North's Craig Stoe and Jason Biederman filled the next two places with times of 18:07 and 18:13.

After Jason Nowicki and Carl Lowe of the Rockets crossed the line in the Nos. 4 and 5 places at 18:37 and 18:45, respectively, the Raiders put the next three runners across to lock up the victory.

Scott Simpson was sixth (18:49), Paul Simpson seventh (18:51) and Josh Chinitz eighth (18:57). Dave Gerts of North placed 10th (19:03).

CHURCHILL 20, HARRISON 39: Scott Westover and Don Kaulka finished one-two Thursday to lead the Chargers (2-1) to their Western Division victory. Westover ran 18:19 at Oakland Community College and Kaulka 18:40. Mark Saur was Harrison's top runner, finishing third at 19:15.

Canton girls pass opening test

Plymouth Canton served notice it won't easily give up its title as Western Division girls cross country champion Thursday.

Furthermore, the Chiefs demonstrated they have the talent to repeat by beating Livonia Franklin 28-31 in an early-season showdown at Nankin Mills.

Canton is 1-0 in the division and 2-0 overall, while the Patriots (0-1) suffered their first loss in five dual meets.

"Franklin is a very, very good team," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "They're much improved from in the past."

"We feel happy to get them out of the way and get things rolling here in the Western Division."

Amy Smith of Canton was the individual winner at 21:17, but runners from each school were interspersed after that.

FRANKLIN'S MARY Lou Madison (21:45) and Dawn Harrison (21:50) captured the next two places, but the Chiefs rallied after that to secure the victory.

"Everybody was mixed up pretty well, and one of the keys to winning was Lara Antczak and Kim Gudeth blocking out their fifth runner," Przygodski said.

Canton's Adrienne Garrow (21:51) was fourth, Missy

Jasnowski (21:59) sixth, Lori Penland (22:18) seventh and Anne Dibble (eighth) 22:30, completing the scoring for the Chiefs.

Kelly Gustafson and Keel MacKay of Franklin were fifth and ninth, respectively, at 21:57 and 22:48, but Antczak and Gudeth performed a key role as blockers, preventing Franklin's Stacy Hewitt from moving up and scoring higher.

Hewitt was 12th overall (22:11) and teammate Nicole Canham 13th (24:15).

Farmington girls hit stride

Farmington has taken a back seat to Plymouth Canton in girls cross country the last two years, but 1989 could be the Falcons' year.

While having good teams, Farmington was overshadowed by two-time Western Lakes Activities Association champ Canton. But the Falcons appear to have the talent to finally split the Chiefs.

Having won the girls meet at the Schoolcraft Invitational on Sept. 16, Farmington won its fourth straight dual meet by beating Plymouth Salem 19-41 Thursday at Cass Benton Park.

"They're for real," said Farmington coach John Barrett of his runners. "We did well in duals last year" — but not so well in invitationals.

"Canton was so strong and it was hard to get anything more than second or third. This is a much better pack of runners."

The Falcons, 1-0 in the Lakes Division, captured four of the top five places and six of the first eight against Salem, 0-1 and 0-2.

Farmington's Jennifer Kiel won the race in 21:21, and teammate Jenny Derwinski was second at 21:43. Margaret Martin came in fourth (22:10), Allison Davis fifth (22:19), and Gretchen Clappison seventh (23:47) and Sherril Yllitalo eighth (23:19).

Carrie Walter and Cheryl Casaroli acted as blockers, pushing Salem No. 4 and 5 runners farther back. Walter was 10th overall at 23:42 and Casaroli 11th at 24:07.

"Jennifer Kiel is an outstanding runner and has won every race she's been in," Barrett said. "But after her we have a good pack of runners."

"We have three or four fighting for the No. 7 spot. When we have an invitational preceded by a dual, there's a lot of competition to see who will be that seventh runner in the invitational. And there's a lot of internal competition to see who will be the Nos. 2-5 runners."

"I think this team has the ability to do well at state," he added. "We just have to get there."

Finishing in the top 10 for Salem were Corey Gulikewicz, third, 21:55; Aaron Boylan (18:21), Dave Barina (18:58), Paul White (19:17) and Cary Quatro (19:21) of the Patriots finished in the Nos. 8-11 places, respectively. Canton's seventh runner, Ron Trotin, suffered a calf strain during the race but was still able to finish in 19:22.

"It was pretty hot," Hayes said. "We just did a nice job, and we wanted to get everybody out of there because of the weather."

JOHN GLENN 27, N. FARMINGTON 28. Lisa Rives (N) was the individual winner, but the Rockets, who took the next three places, filled in behind her and managed to gain a narrow edge.

Rives won the race at Oakland Community College in 20:12, but Glenn's Darlene Rousseau, Dana Nowicki and Yvonne Waddell followed her across the line in 22:43, 22:51 and 23:04, respectively. Glenn's top three outsourced North's 9-12.

The Raiders put their runners in the Nos. 5-7 places. Kara Hogle ran 23:26, Angie Martin 24:26 and Adrienne Mobeilo 24:28.

But another key was Glenn's Cathy Bachor taking eighth place in 24:58. Marie Scott of North was ninth (25:07) and Jennifer Van Goff of the Rockets 10th (25:52).

Good isn't enough for Madonna

By Bob Stebbins and C.J. Ribnik staff writers

It was an impressive showing by Madonna Cole's volleyball team, which hosted NAlA power Northwood Institute Thursday, but it wasn't enough.

Madonna coach Jerry Abraham called it "our best performance of the year." Still, Northwood prevailed 15-12, 15-6, 0-15, 15-9.

"Northwood's a very respected team and we played them point-for-point," insisted Abraham, whose team dipped to 4-2 overall and 1-1 in NAlA District 23 play. He then added, "But we lost the match."

True, Madonna seemed Northwood's equal several times during the match — and Northwood finished fifth in the NAlA last year. But it's also true that the Fighting Crusaders may never get a better chance to knock off the defending district champs, at least not in the foreseeable future.

THE NORTHWOODS were without their top player, middle blocker Joan Frysinger, a Livonia Stevenson grad who was sidelined with a shoulder injury. That allowed Madonna to attack the middle successfully.

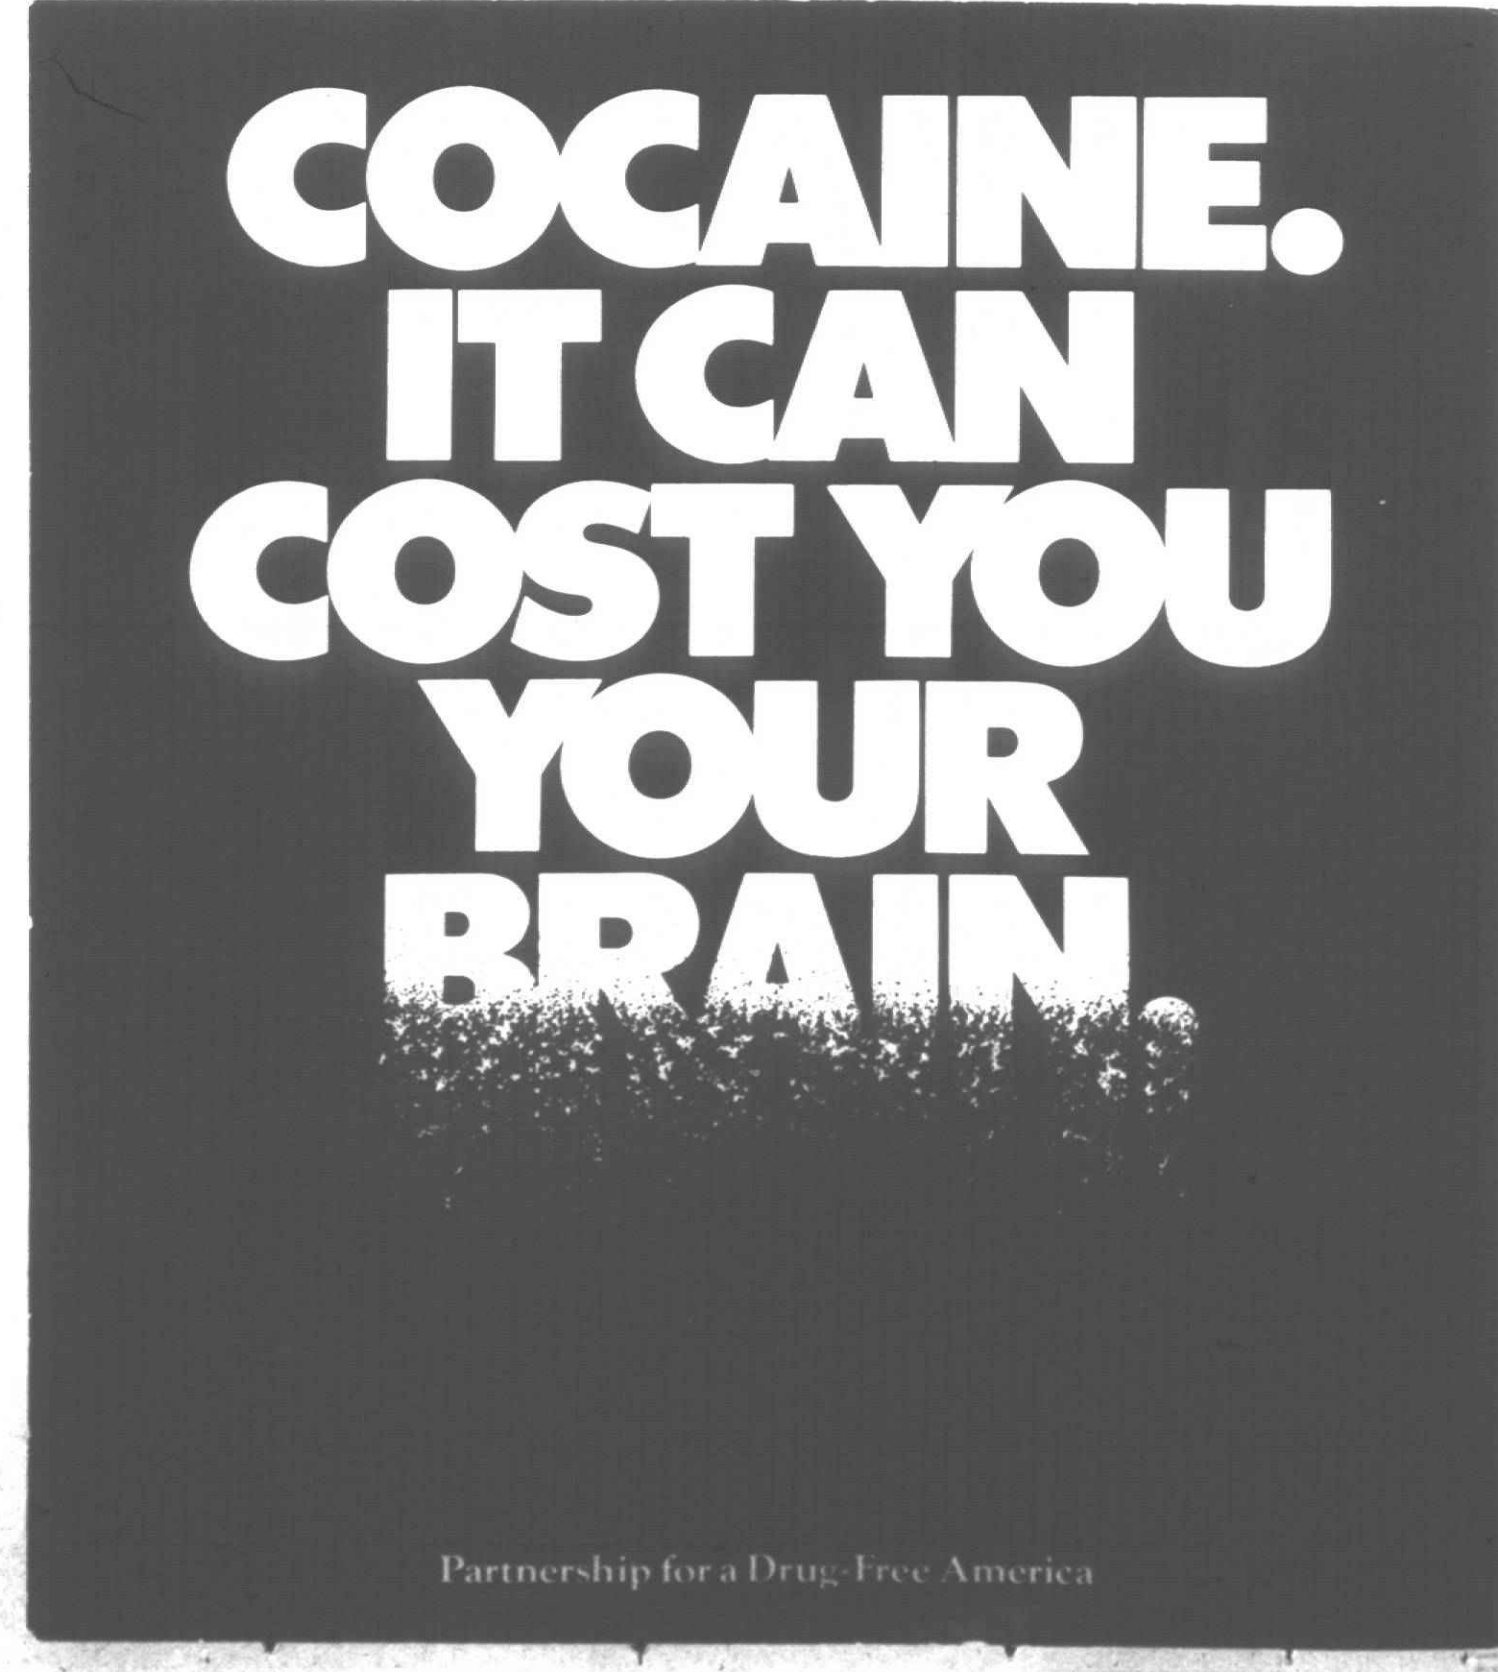

Joan Frysinger, a Livonia Stevenson grad who was sidelined with a shoulder injury. That allowed Madonna to attack the middle successfully.

The pivotal game for the Crusaders was the first. They had a 10-7 lead, but Northwood battled back and captured the lead on Michelle Drouin's serve, as Sue Blumenstein notched a kill and a block for a kill to put her team up 13-11.

Madonna pulled to within a point on a block by sophomore Kristy

C'ville gridders remain unbeaten

By Ray Setlock staff writer

As the wind whistled through the football field at Livonia Clarenceville Friday, huddled under their blankets and prayed for the gusts of air to die down, not knowing the breeze was really a result of Trojan quarterback Chris Foss' air assault on Mount Clemens Lutheran North.

When the wind died down and the dust settled, the Trojans had walked away with a 28-6 victory.

Foss, who scored the game's first touchdown on a 1-yard run in the opening quarter, completed nine of 15 passes for 162 yards. His main target was receiver Kendrick Harrington, who caught five passes, including a 30-yard touchdown strike.

"Harrington played a superb game for us," Clarenceville coach Vic Balaj said. "Both he and Foss worked hard."

"THAT HARRINGTON is really something else," Lutheran North coach Bruce Braun said. "He's not just a good player, but a class act."

Harrington was modest about his efforts, but said the team played well as a whole.

"We win as a family and lose as a family," Harrington said. "It was just real nice to contribute."

Harrington and Foss were complimented by tailback Andrew Weighill, who carried the ball 14 times for 92 yards. He scored two of the Trojans' four touchdowns with runs of 11 and 4 yards.

Clarenceville gave a gritty defensive performance, thanks to tackle Carlos Perez, who blocked two Mustang punts, one of which set up a Trojan touchdown. He played Friday's game with a broken hand.

"THOSE TWO blocked punts really hurt us," Braun said. "They gave Clarenceville good field position."

Despite the Trojans' success, the Mustangs were not without their chances, as Clarenceville accumulated 137 yards in penalties. The Trojans four personal fouls didn't please Balaj.

"We have to learn how to keep our mouths shut," Balaj said. "If this would have been a close game, those penalties could have really hurt us."

Nevertheless Clarenceville sculpted a fine offensive effort and stole the victory.

The Trojans accumulated 290 yards total offense and picked up 11 first downs.

The Mustangs led offensively by quarterback Matt Wengler, who completed five of 13 passes for 57 yards, managed just 109 yards total offense. They had 10 first downs.

"OUR GUYS worked hard and deserve the victory," Balaj said. "We'll just have to clean up the penalties for next week and go out and play a sound game."

Both coaches agreed, that penalties and turnovers allowed the final score to be deceiving.

"This game was a lot closer than the score would indicate," said Balaj. "Our good field position allowed us to score, but this was a tough game."

Braun added: "If you were to just look at the score, you would think we were blown out, when actually this was a hard-fought battle by both teams. Our turnovers and costly mistakes gave them good field position."

Hawks pound N'ville

Steve Hill scored three first-half touchdowns Friday to lead Farmington Hills Harrison to a 51-0 pounding of host Northville in a Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division encounter.

Hill scored on runs of 1 and 4 yards in the first quarter and recovered a fumble by teammate Matt Conley in the end zone in the second quarter. He also kicked five extra points.

The Hawks jumped on Northville early, breaking out to 21-0 lead after one quarter of play.

The Hawks first reached paydirt with 9:43 left in the period on a 38-yard pass from quarterback Mill Coleman to Mike Saputo. Hill's point-after made the score 7-0.

The Hawks struck again at the 5:36 mark on Hill's 1-yard run. Coleman's pass to Jon Schaeffer successfully completed the two-point conversion, and the Hawks led 15-0.

HILL STRUCK again from 4 yards out with :51 remaining in the quarter and then added the PAT to complete the first-quarter scoring.

Harrison padded its lead in the second quarter on Hill's fumble recovery for a touchdown. Coleman hit Saputo for the two-point play after the score, making the count 30-0.

Harrison added one more first-half score later in the period, with Gary Devine running 20 yards to paydirt.

Hill's PAT made the score 37-0.

The Mustangs finally got on the scoreboard with 1:27 left in the half on a 4-yard run by halfback Bill Kelley. The successful extra point left the score 37-7 at the intermission.

Conley took over for the Hawks in the third quarter, scoring their final two touchdowns. Coleman hit Conley with an 11-yard pass, and Conley scored the final touchdown on a 1-yard run. Hill added both extra points, making the count 51-7.

Northville tallied the only points of the fourth quarter on a field goal, thus completing the scoring.

Harrison dominated the game statistically as well, rushing for 277 yards and passing for 159 more. The Mustangs were held to 31 yards rushing and 49 passing. Sophomore quarterback Ryan Huzyjak was 8-of-26 with three interceptions.

Madonna hosts University of Michigan-Deerborn at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Eagles take charge in 2nd half

After playing Woodhaven evenly through the first half, Redford Thurston's soccer team asserted itself early in the second and came away with a 3-2 home field victory Friday.

Jamie Zaleski got what proved to be the game-winning goal, scoring 15 minutes into the second half. Zaleski headed a crossing pass from Steve Watson into the net to make the score 3-1, Thurston.

The two teams were tied 1-1 at the half. Woodhaven scored first, but the Warriors' lead didn't last long. Ten seconds after the ensuing kickoff, Jason Muller drilled a shot from 18 yards out to even the score at 1-1.

Mike Steagall gave the Eagles (3-4-1 overall) the lead for good two minutes into the second half. Steagall converted a cross from Leo Morieda.

RU 6, TEMPLE CHRISTIAN 2: The difference in programs was evident early, as Redford Union sped to a 4-0 lead by halftime and cruised to an easy triumph Friday at RU.

"Their team speed was much better," said Redford Temple Christian coach Gary Simmons, whose team slipped to 2-4-1. "They moved up and down the field much faster."

Erik Shaltis and Gary Luyben each collected two goals for the Panthers (4-2 overall), and Luyben also had an assist. Jason Frederick and Chris Roessler also scored for RU.

Temple Christian got second-half goals from Kevin DeMoss (from Chris Johnson) and Kraig Dalton.

"The first half was excellent," said RU coach Al Burnham. "We passed the ball well and created a lot of good scoring opportunities. In the second half, the kids decided the game was over and Temple Christian put it to us."

Not enough, however.

FRANKLIN 2, DEARBORN 2: Livonia Franklin stormed back from a two-goal deficit, scoring two goals in the final 15 minutes and nearly converted to narrow the gap to 2-1 with adding another before settling for a tie Wednesday at Dearborn.

The Patriots (3-2-1) trailed after Dearborn's Paul Bazzi got a first-half goal on a penalty kick (after a Franklin defender was called for a hand ball), then made it 2-0-1 minutes into the second half when Bill O'Reilly hit a direct kick.

Franklin started its comeback when Scott Gyrazzin was knocked down in the box, giving the Patriots a penalty kick. Robert Hayes converted to narrow the gap to 2-1 with 15 minutes remaining.

With seven minutes left, Gyrazzin knocked in the game-tying goal after a restart. Alex Ross assisted.

Gyrazzin had a chance to give Franklin the victory with three minutes to play, but his shot was deflected by the Dearborn keeper and banged off the post.

STEVENSON 3, W.L. WESTERN 0: Shane Millner and Roy Travis teamed on a pair of first-half scores and keeper Jerry Sienolanski made them stand up as Livonia Stevenson bounced back from last Monday's disappointing loss to Livonia Churchill with a win Wednesday at Walled Lake Western.

Millner scored the game's first goal, with the assist going to Travis. Travis made it 2-0, and this time Millner assisted.

Jason Flynn added an insurance goal on a penalty kick in the second half.

The Spartans outshot the Western, 17-5, to improve their record to 3-1-1.

"The goalkeeper sure saved us. I think he's the best in the state," said Stevenson coach Pete Scerr.

CHURCHILL 7, N. FARMINGTON 0: John Gentile netted three goals and four assists to keep Livonia Churchill unbeaten (7-0) Wednesday against North Farmington.

Brady Ericson added two goals and Paul Kaliszewski and Tim Riley contributed a goal each as the Chargers improved to 7-0 with the home-field win.

Clair shoots North past Falcons

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

Eve Clair's role on the North Farmington girls basketball team is that of a scorer, but even she was surprised to learn how many she scored in the first half Thursday.

With a 21-point night, Clair singlehandedly provided the jump-start that carried the host Raiders to a 53-44 victory over Farmington.

North, which snapped a two-game losing skid, is 4-2 overall and 1-0 in the Lakes Division, the Falcons 2-4 and 0-1, respectively.

Clair had only two points in the second half — she was still the game's leading scorer — after the Falcons focused their defense on her, but North had a 31-23 halftime lead, thanks to Clair's early performance.

"I find myself scoring more in the first half," she said, "because they usually play off me. In the second half, I see a box-and-one a lot, and I try to get the rest of the team involved when they're keying on me."

MOST OF THE second-half help that preserved what Clair did earlier came from Dana Botwick, who came off the bench to score her 10 points in the second half, including six third-quarter baskets from the perimeter.

The person who really came through was Dana Botwick," North coach Greg Capling said. "They concentrated on Eve, and she was the open player. And she put the shots down."

Kim Gurecki, the other regular scorer for the Raiders, contributed 12 and center Vivek Seamons eight, but Botwick's scoring was essential since the Falcons were within six points, 39-33, at the end of three quarters.

"I don't mind scoring, but the rest of the team has to be ready to contribute for Kim and I to be effective," Clair said. "Otherwise, they'll just key on us and get us in trouble."

The Raiders also had to adjust their defense to stop Farmington's Erika Hatcher. The center scored 10 points in the first half to keep the Falcons competitive but had only one field goal in the second and ended with 14 points. Hatcher also had five rebounds.

"Maybe (her scoring went down) because she worked so hard on defense against Eve," Farmington coach Diana Fair said, "but others weren't hitting to open things up for her. But it was, by far, her best game."

BOTH TEAMS started slowly, and Capling might have thought his sandy-colored hair was going to turn gray when North missed its first 11 shots and 17 of 21 in the first quarter.

"I thought we outbonded them, but our putbacks were horrendous," he said. "We must've had a dozen putbacks within four feet."

Rocks trip Dearborn

Plymouth Salem continued to impress Thursday, following its third-place showing in the Western Lakes Activities Association swimming and diving relays with a dual-meet win over Class B power Dearborn, 45-38.

The Rocks, 2-2 overall, had a triple winner in Cheri Vincent, who won two individual events and helped Salem capture the 400-yard freestyle relay. She swam 26:7 in the 50 freestyle and 1:05.4 in the backstroke. Julie Hickey, Nicole Bosse, Andrea Alex and Vincent combined for a 4:03.1 time in the relay.

Bosse also won the 200 freestyle in 2:08.6 and Hickey the 100 freestyle in 1:00.3. In addition, Salem's Kristin Stackpole was the breaststroke winner with a 1:14.2 time.

Bowling centers booked for the tour include Thunderbolt in Allen Park, Cloverlanes in Livonia, Bowler Bowl in Windsor and West Bloomfield Lanes.

The Monday Youth Classic Doubles League, which competes at Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills, saw 16-year-old Butch Clark fire a 300 game last week. This was the first "perfect" for Butch and, hopefully, there will be more to come.

At Redford Lanes on Grand River and Beech Daly, the Westside Luteran League is starting its 42nd year and its 26th straight year at this establishment. In last week's action, Ron Brehan hit for a 618 series, with Ken Liverios only one pin behind at 617. Other top scorers were recorded by Kevin Chambers (616 set), Mark Krohn (598 set), Oscar Williams (245 game) and Liverios (246 game).

The Wednesday Nite Ladies had Jane Fygot at a 204. In the Tuesday Nite Men's at 6 p.m., Bernard Antonelli shot a 618 series with a 223 and a 200, and Jeanette Brozow rolled a 597 series with games of 182-235-180 in the Moody Nite Ladies League.

CC golfers beat Rice
Two undefeated golfing powers met Wednesday, and when the dust settled, Redford Catholic Central remained standing and unbeaten. The Shamrocks impressively defeated arch-rival Birmingham Brother Rice 148-153 at Brae Burn Golf Course.

REDFORD THURSTON defeated Allen Park 158-171 Friday at Riverview Highlands. The Eagles' Scott Delano took home medalist honors with a one-over par 37. Adam Stern (40), Bob Isenegger (40), Rich Sherwood (41) and John Walsh (41) were the other top golfers for Thurston.

LYONIA FRANKLIN lost to Walled Lake Western 198-246 Wednesday at Idylwild. Greg Kerr led the Patriots with a 44. The other leading finishers for Franklin were Daria Albany (47), Tom Madgwick (49), Jim Neville (52) and Jason Lamar (54).

Western's Chris Schneider took home the medalist title with a two-under par 33. Franklin is now 0-4 overall.

On the brawl Bouncers' 'bad boy' image comes with job

By Tim Smith
staff writer

Who says bar bouncers live to break doors, eat brown-tinted glass and toss misbehavin' folks across parking lots inevitably leaving human skid marks.

All one has to do in order to dispel that stereotype is to look at Dearborn BT's bouncer "Little John" in action.

This giant, who stands 6-foot-6 and weighs 322 pounds, wears a college ring from Northern Michigan University. He wants to be a teacher someday. He smiles a lot. And he works BT's with the poise and polish of a vote-hungry politician.

With an antenna raised from his spiked blond hair to spot any notion of trouble, Little John circles bar patrons, who watch from their seats around a Las-Vegas fashioned geometric stage as gyrating women do striptease.

As Little John mingles, he gingerly slaps backs and exchanges pleasantries with the audience. Later, he talked about the method to his madness.

"You meet everybody in a bar," Little John said, sipping on a cold soft drink. "You can learn so much if you take the time to talk to somebody. I've met doctors, lawyers, chiefs of police, mayors, actors and comedians."

Even Gallagher, the king of fruits-and-vegetable thrashing, Little John said.

BUT GET TOO vicious, drunk or grabby with the topless dancers at BT's and the nice guy facade vanishes in a hurry.

"I got hit over the head with a bar stool during a fight about six weeks ago. I got 15 stitches," Little John recalled. It happened during an attempt to break up a five-man fight in the bar.

land County's most-popular meeting spots. "But most of the time, we're just there."

A visual deterrent of sorts. They're like babysitters, too, Forero said — "When people are drunk they tend to be at a lower level than you are."

Illustrating that notion, Forero recalled a fracas at the Jukebox.

"It was about a year ago. A group of six or seven guys came into the bar and started drinking heavily. One of them hit another customer over the head with a beer bottle. All the bouncers intervened and got them outside. Then the cops came and took them away," Forero said.

Sometimes, though, bouncers use stronger tactics than babysitters might.

"I'LL BE A smart a--," BT's Little John said. "I'll say, 'Come on, hit me, cut me, I dare you.' When you dare them, they have to take a second look to see what they're getting into. Then, they just call you a couple names and run out the door."

According to Forero, some of the prying customers at Woodward Jukebox also use a bit of psychological trickery — or at least they try.

"Usually, they try to make friends with us first. They think if they get into a struggle, 'Well, I know you, so they won't get thrown out,'" he said.

Inside Lucille's, with the Willow Creek Band cranking up country-rock standards and patrons swigging bottled beer, Hanneberg talked about his job.

Hanneberg had cooled down following the altercation outside the bar, where punches were exchanged. With the threat of lawsuits, any kind of physical contact is used only as a last resort, he and the other bouncers stressed.

"Trouble here is rare," said Hanneberg, who once was a bouncer at a rock-and-roll bar. "Tonight, I can honestly say is the first time I hit someone since I've been here (three years)."

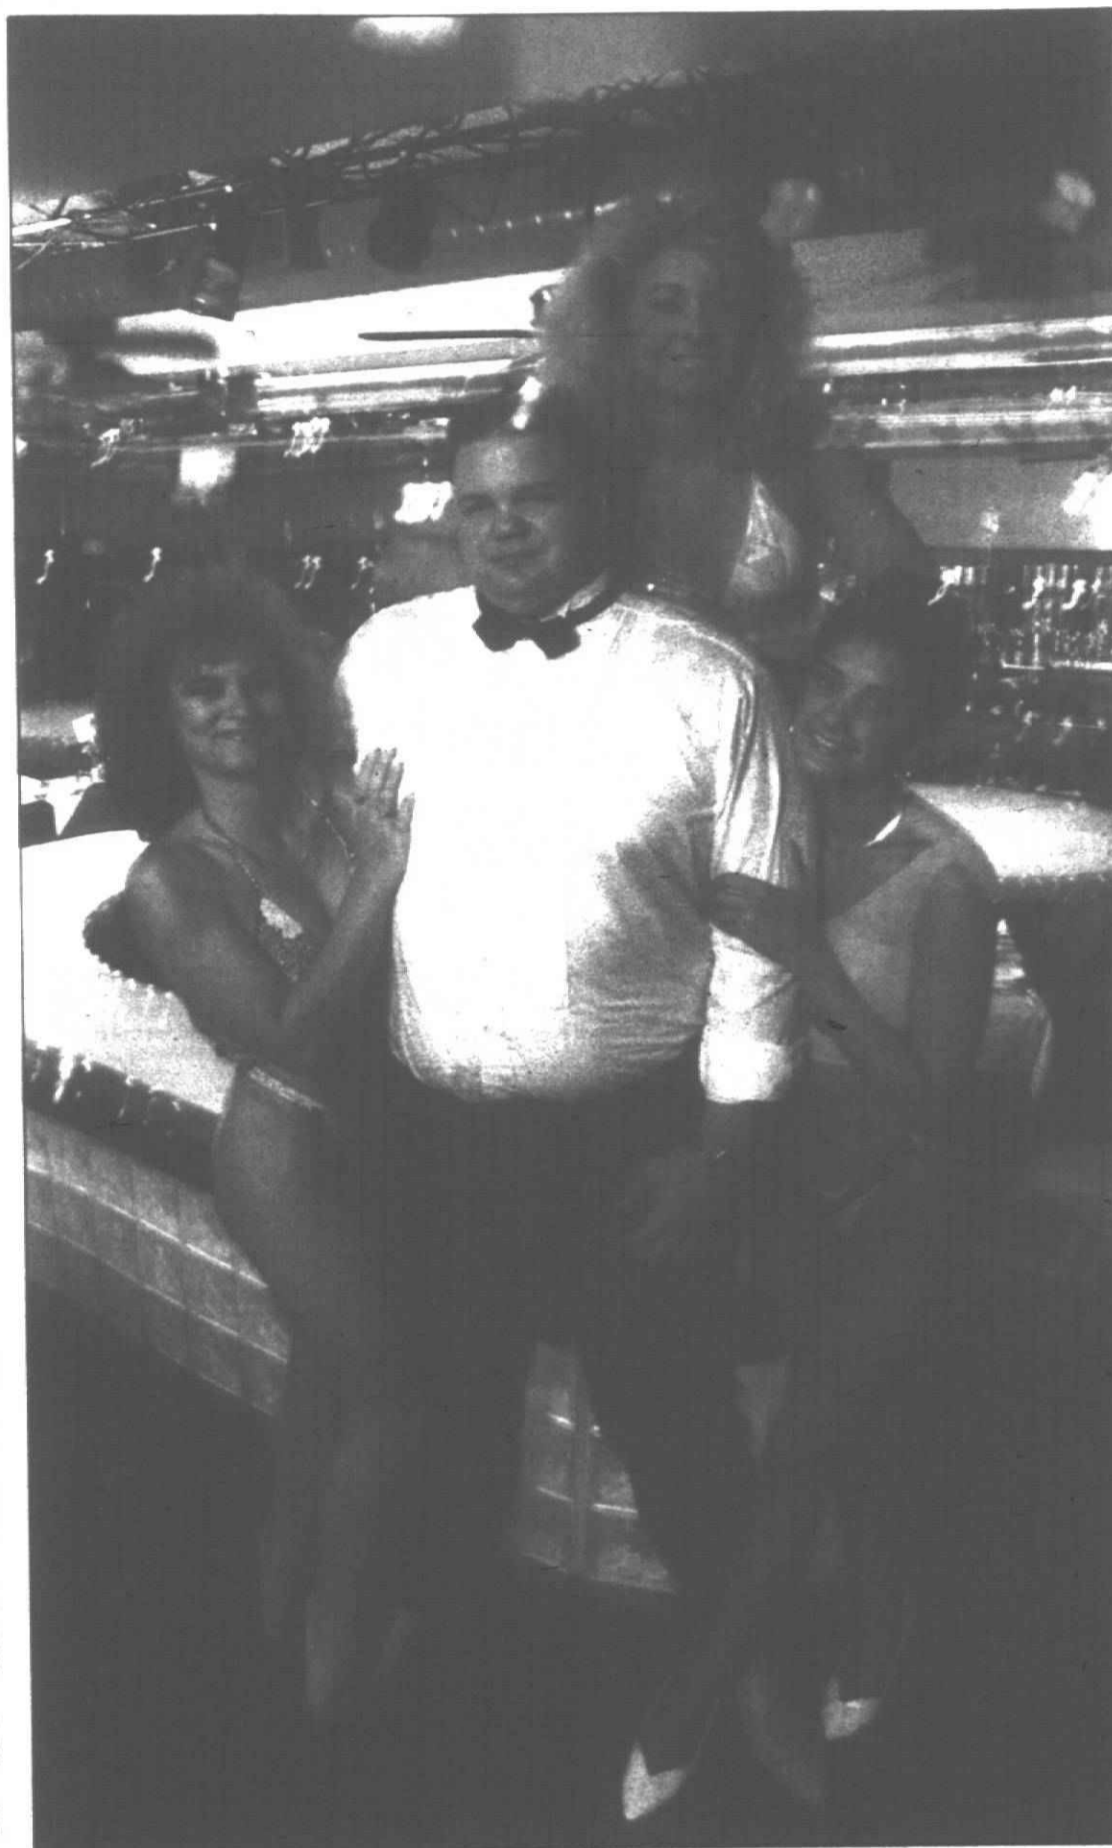

Hanneberg's boss, Jerry Stewart, said the trouble maker, and a friend, "were drunk when they came in here. We recognized it right away."

As is normal "bouncer" procedure, Hanneberg had the alcohol supply to the rowdies cut off. Then, he politely asked the patrons to leave. Finally, he came to escort them through Lucille's doors.

"I WANTED TO make sure they got in their cars and didn't smash anybody else's car out," Hanneberg said.

At some area night spots, the task of policing is being undertaken by an army of employees who individually don't have the tools to physically intimidate someone.

One such club is Rumors in Westland.

This tough mug belongs to "Little John," a bear of a bouncer who toils at a topless entertainment place in Dearborn, called BT's. But he's a real softie when it comes to the ladies he protects.

"I don't believe in violence, if there doesn't have to be," said Rumors bouncer Jim Hester, who stands 6-feet tall and weighs about 200 pounds. On busy Thursday nights, he is one of 10 who patrol the club.

"We're not really that big (physically)," Hester admitted. "Our strength is in numbers. That's the key to our success."

Like his bulkier counterparts, Hester said it's important for bouncers to use their heads to avoid pushing trouble over the edge.

"I just try to talk them out of it and not use force," Hester said. "People are going to get hot. But they'll cool off in a few minutes."

ACCORDING TO Little John, who is so big he has attended professional football tryout camps, bars may be erring by relying on "nicer guys who aren't as imposing."

He claims such clubs are easy targets for guys who make a habit of "going to bars to fight."

A 'visit' to China: It's closer than you think

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

If you saw the movie "The Last Emperor," you may remember the carved throne and other treasures of Imperial China shown in the setting of the Forbidden City.

If you were mesmerized by the student uprising in the People's Republic of China (PRC) this summer, you saw a lot of shots of the Forbidden City as the cameras panned around Tiananmen Square.

You may get to Beijing someday, but right now you have a rare chance to combine a fall trip with a visit to an exhibition of rare national treasures never before seen outside of China. Reader Bettie Cannon of West Bloomfield reports that "Son of Heaven: Imperial Arts of China" exhibit in Columbus, Ohio, has been extended through October.

"It was a weekend getaway trip back into 26 centuries of Chinese imperial history," Cannon said. "The message of the exhibit seems to be that Chinese leaders may come and go, but the artists' work lives forever."

"THE COLLECTION of carved jades, embroidered robes, paintings and sculptures includes some remarkable things — a carved wooden throne, life-sized terra cotta figures, which guarded the tomb of the first emperor, Qin Shihuang, from the third century B.C. until they were unearthed in 1984.

There are robes covered from collar to hem with exquisite embroidery done by women who made tiny little stitches every day of their lives until they went blind. And a dozen bells, silent for 25 centuries until they were brought to the United States for only two exhibits, in Seattle and Columbus.

"We saw carved jade pillows, created for the emperor's head, and a burial suit made of thin locks of jade sewn together with gold or silver threads. While the Chinese crafted this ornate burial garment, they did nothing to preserve the body inside."

Cannon was fascinated by the site of the exhibit, a 1930s inner city high school — old Central High on Washington Boulevard in downtown Columbus.

MOVING PICTURES

Joe Bradshaw (Bernard Hill) is angry when his wife Shirley (Pauline Collins) tells him that she is planning to go on a holiday in Greece in Paramount's "Shirley Valentine."

'Shirley Valentine': It's a cinematic tour-de-force

"Shirley Valentine" (A, R, 110 minutes) may not be the greatest movie ever made, but it'll do until perfection comes along.

The story of Shirley Valentine (Pauline Collins), a 40 plus English housewife rediscovering life, love and a positive self-image, is one of the happiest, funniest movies in a long time — if not forever.

Based on Pauline Collins' Tony-award winning Broadway performance, "Shirley Valentine" is a cinematic tour-de-force, an excellent, entertaining film that speaks fervently to reaching your highest potential.

But Shirley Valentine lives a humdrum existence. She's married to a hardworking but dull fellow, Joe Bradshaw (Bernard Hill), who means well but wants his life precisely as it is. Romance and adventure are gone from her life and Shirley's as well.

They have two grown children Melandra (Tracie Bennett) and Brian (Garth Jefferson), neither of whom would warm a grandparent's heart, but they mean well.

Faced with that dismal life, Shirley exists in an isolated shell totally devoid of the sense of adventure and spirit which characterized her childhood.

The opportunity to reaffirm life arranges when her good friend, Jane (Alison Steadman), wins a trip for two to Greece. Jane invites and insists that Shirley accompany her.

Despite Jane's insistence and encouragement, it's not easy for a housewife of some 20 years to vacation without her husband. But Shirley does and, boy, is she glad she did.

AMONG OTHER things, she gets to sit at an Greek taverna while watching beautifully sunsets. As an added bonus, she meets Costas Caldes (Tom Conti), the slickest backward water-tavern owner since the serpent slithered Eve. Costas just believes in living life the best way you can.

None of this is earthshaking, but the way the story is told makes all the difference in the world.

Alan Yune's ("A Fish Called Wanda," "The Noddy" and "The Return of the Jedi") photography etches vivid impressions of the brilliant Greek sun that has inspired so many down through the years. His photography captures the essence of Britain's long-standing love affair with Greece.

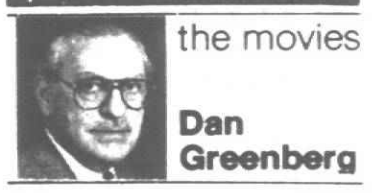

The editing of "Shirley Valentine" is a masterful display of continuity which preserves the intimacy of Collins' one-woman Broadway play effectively using the remarkable range of images a motion picture camera can capture.

What makes that continuity particularly noteworthy is the performance mode of "Shirley Valentine" — direct eye contact with the camera and the audience.

Most films pretend that they have created a remarkable world for us to witness to enjoy. "Shirley Valentine" makes no bones about the fact that Pauline Collins is talking directly to each and every one of us about the importance of living well and achieving our greatest potential.

The editing from personal eye contact to voice over narration to conventional presentation is as smooth as one could imagine. Seamless as they are, it's also, when so well done, a very attractive style.

FINALLY, THERE'S the matter of Pauline Collins' performance. It's superb and humanistic rendition of somewhat Willy Russell's ("Educating Rita") witty, whimsical and poignant observations on men, women, life and love.

Indeed, an excellent film! Anyone who knows anything about Japan will be appalled at "Black Rain" (D-, R, 129 minutes), a visually unappealing, murky picture, painted in long, boring shots intended to set the scene for a grisly struggle between Japanese gangsters. Other long, boring interludes apparently are intended to develop characterization. The net result is a long, boring film with occasional moments of unpleasant graphic violence.

The trite, minimalistic plot concerns another burnt-out, divorced New York City detective (sound familiar?), Nick Conklin (Michael Douglas), assigned with his partner, Charlie Vincent (Andy Garcia), to escort Japanese criminal Sato (Yusaku Matsuda) back to Japan.

The film further suffers from lack of charisma, first between detective partners Conklin and Vincent, and later between Conklin and Japanese detective Masahiro Matsumoto (Ken Takakura).

The New York detective's smart-alecky jargon is almost as difficult to understand as the Japanese-accented English. It's also difficult to believe the stupefying coincidence on which the whole plot turns.

"For what I got on you, Rico, I could burn you a dozen times over."

Not the politic dialogue expected of a Detroit Attorney, but there's a certain gritty realism in Bogart's delivery of those words in his own special style.

Warner Brothers' "The Enforcer" (1956, black and white, 87 minutes) is a tale of love, horror and revenge. If you get bored you can hang out at the fast-food place or get zits at the candy store.

"Ooga" (*) (R) sounds like a poor excuse for another Vietnam movie as two Nam veterans get involved in cage fighting. Great sport, if you survive.

STILL PLAYING:

"The Abyss" (D-) (PG-13) 130 minutes. Despite excellent underwater sequences, this muddled and murky sci-fi saga sinks.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

'Sun of Satan' has arrived

By John Monaghan special writer

More than two years have passed since Maurice Pialat's "Under the Sun of Satan" took first prize at the 1987 Cannes Film Festival. It will finally surface for local audiences this weekend at the Tele-Arts Theatre in Detroit.

Reasons for its late arrival are not hard to gauge.

Although some critics hail the film as a masterpiece of uncompromising vision, others say it won by default in an unusually dry year at Cannes. American audiences, meanwhile, typically shy away from films with religious themes.

"Under the Sun of Satan" has plenty to offer fans of grueling, machoistic stories about the search for spiritual faith. The film has been compared favorably to "Therese," the more highly stylized chronicle of the life of Thérèse.

Pialat's films often deal with people on the edge of a crisis. In his "Po-lice" (1985), Gerard Depardieu starred as a violent, sex-obsessed Paris police officer trying to crack a drug ring while dealing with his own problems.

DEPARDIEU ALSO stars in "Under the Sun of Satan," here as Father Donisio, a country priest engaged in a fevered battle with his dwindling faith. It is really doing the Lord's bidding or working on the side of Satan?

His superior, Father Menou-Segrais (played by director Pialat), offers only more confusion. The older priest is a carnal, less spiritual man who sends the confused seeker to a remote parish in the hopes that he'll straighten out.

Here, Donisio encounters Mouchette (Sandrine Bonnaire), a 15-year-old femme fatale involved in affairs with a string of married and influential men. When she ends up murdering one of them, Donisio grows more and more frustrated in his inability to help her.

The film takes place in no particular time in history. Horses are carried like the streets, but the sound of thundering trucks are also heard.

In one of the more bizarre moments, Donisio meets a stranger on a dark and deserted road. The man, who talks to him intimately and even kisses him on the lips, may or may not be an incarnation of Satan. It's one of the film's many ambiguities.

THE VERSATILE Depardieu is especially effective as the priest.

Critic Stanley Kauffmann noted that "his (Donisio) bulk seems an extra task that heaven has given this delicate man, an extra burden that he must lug around in his delirium. Still, "Under the Sun of Satan" as possible to his source, the first book by George Bernano. Known for his realistic approach to film, the director with cinematographer Willy Kuranté creates a timeless, shadowy field for this epic battle of faith.

STREET BEATS

He returns from past with 'Ghosts'

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

Eric Andersen rubbed guitar necks with the likes of fellow folkies Bob Dylan, Phil Ochs and Tom Paxton in the Greenwich Village during the early 1960s.

Undoubtedly, the 40 something generation would be impressed. But to those of us who were in diapers at the time, such associations don't carry the same weight. Or so Andersen has found on his recent tour.

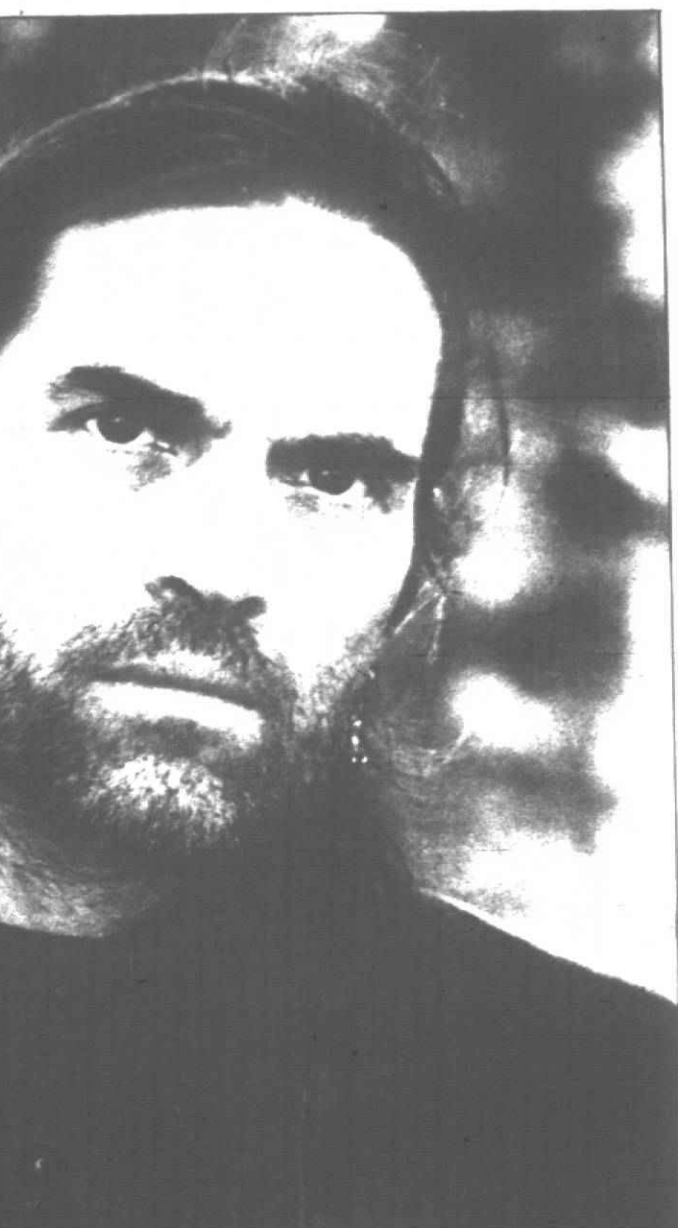

"I recently did a show in Boston at Harvard," said Andersen, who will perform Tuesday, Sept. 26, at the Ark in Ann Arbor. "I had a kid came up to me after the show and said 'My mother made me come down here tonight.' The next night, he brought all of his friends down."

Such incidents only make Andersen smile even more. He's cultivating a new, younger audience with his timeless brand of folk that is rich with imagery.

Andersen has released his first album in 12 years in the United States "Ghosts Upon the Road" (Gold Castle Records) is his comeback volley into what has become a crowded folk field. Andersen shows them how it's done in this sort of autobiographical release that is brimming with life and energy.

Andersen didn't drop out of the music business. He released three albums in Europe. He lives in Oslo, Norway, with his wife, who is an artist, and their three children.

The Pittsburgh, Pa., native, who was turned on to the music of Elvis Presley and the literary works of Jack Kerouac at an early age, has come to appreciate American culture even more.

"Ghosts Upon a Road" is Eric Andersen's first album release in the United States in 12 years.

He is working on a film script for "Ghosts Upon the Road" as well. Then the singer-songwriter began working with Ronald Feinstein and Steve Addabbo, who managed and produced folk artist Suzanne Vega. Suddenly, home seemed like a wonderful place.

Andersen returned in the midst of a folk revival here where the Tracy Chapmans, Suzanne Vegas and Michelle Shockeds are something of the Dylans. Ochs and Paxtons of the '60s.

RECOLLECTIONS OF the Greenwich Village days cannot be helped. Neither can the comparisons to Dylan, which were loosely based at best. Andersen had to live up or live down the tag of the "new Dylan."

"I hear his new album is really great," he said. "Maybe I should hold on to that."

"Dylan was great. He really opened the first doors. Not only were his songs inspirational, but so were his guts."

Andersen, though, prefers to concentrate on the present.

Eric Andersen will perform Tuesday, Sept. 26, at the Ark in Ann Arbor. For information, call 761-1451.

Artists pay tribute to jazz great

By Brian Lysaght staff writer

For anyone new to jazz, this concert offers a variety of styles — the bebop sound with which Gillespie and Roach gained fame during in the 1940s and '50s, the swing sound that Heard's 13-piece orchestra favors. Mora's Latin rhythms, Brooks' modern style and Mr. B.'s rollicking boogie-woogie piano work.

Heard was considered one of the finest swing-style drummers in the land, but he prided himself on versatility as well.

THE PLANNING FOR a tribute concert began soon after Heard died last September at age 70, but it took nearly a year to arrange schedules.

"We all saw need to pay tribute to J.C. Heard publicly because his acts so important to us," said Jim Fleming, whose Ann Arbor-based entertainment agency worked with Heard. "He was an eternal optimist and positive person."

All the musicians were selected because of their friendship with Heard or because they had worked with Heard. Gillespie, Roach and Jamal are all longtime friends.

Even the venue, Orchestra Hall, is significant. Renamed the Paradise Theatre, it was a big stop in the 1940s and '50s for Duke Ellington, Count Basie and other touring bands. Heard played there when he played in Cab Calloway's band 1942-45.

Eric Heard said the scholarship fund's first recipient is Larry Tucker, an 18-year-old drummer from Detroit's Northwestern High School.

Drummer Brooks said he admired Heard's work with the "Jazz at the Philharmonic" all-star bands.

The benefit concert starts begins at 8 p.m. Tickets are $10 and should be available at the door. Call 333-5700 for more information.

WALT SZYMANSKI, a trumpet player and the Heard orchestra's arranger, said the band has struggled since the death of its founder.

"Everybody was pretty depressed because he had so much energy," Szymanski said.

Szymanski led the band at the Montreal Jazz Festival this month. They are are trying to rehearse monthly, and may slim down to nine pieces, he said.

Szymanski said the orchestra would remember Heard tonight by playing his theme song "Coastin' with J.C." without a drummer, something they first did in a concert shortly after Heard's death last year.

Drummer Brooks said he admired Heard's work with the "Jazz at the Philharmonic" all-star bands.

The benefit concert starts begins at 8 p.m. Tickets are $10 and should be available at the door. Call 333-5700 for more information.

heavy metal. They all say, "Hard Rock or Hard This" or whatever, but that's a load of rubbish! We're not a bleeping pop band, we're not a bleeping heavy metal band!"

Indeed, I think we get the picture now. The unusual twist to this Anglo debut is that it is released on Rap Dobit, which includes the likes of the Master, Beastie Boys and Run D.M.C.

But don't be misled by this. The only rapping done here will be the sound of your head against the nearest wall.

This LP is raw, unexpurgated deluge of over-the-top, bombastic double bass drums and guitar licks at the speed of sound.

If you're sick of pseudo-intellectual bands righting the world's wrongs, or prancing pop bands showing their choreography, Wolfsbane puts the morose back into metal. This is the optimum combination.

REVIEWES

THESE PEOPLE ARE NUTS

— various artists

I.R.S. Records opens up its vaults on this decade-long retrospective, highlighting 22 artists who have recorded under its progressive/hip banner — and providing a pretty fair overview of the 1980s new wave and college radio scene, at least L.A.-style.

Many of these acts — Oingo Boingo, Buzzcocks, English Beat — were new music heavyweights a few years back.

Others still are. Fine Young Cannibals, this year's pop phenom, is well represented by "Johnny Come Home," a track off its self-titled 1985 debut. R.E.M. is represented by "Superman," a track from "Life's Rich Pageant," its critically praised 1986 album.

The album also includes "Nothing Achieving," a 1977 Police song that doesn't appear on any of that bleached blond trio's U.S. albums.

Depending upon critical orientation, one's age upon original release, the album's more familiar tunes are either cherished memories, or best-forgotten musical trash.

Even label master Miles Copeland apparently wants it both ways. The inner liner is dotted with snippets of mostly unfavorable reviews his acts received from the acid-penned pop press.

No matter. For our money, the Go Go "We Got the Beat" remains a canny mix of surf guitar and cheerleader chant. "The Fixer's So Bright I Gotta Wear Shades" by Timbuk 3, a sweetly cynical Dylan send up, and "The Alarm's 'The Stand'" the best U2 song Bono never wrote.

And, for our money, this is a collection well worth having.

(Special local note: The Wayne County represented is a transatlantic singer who made a UK semi-splash in the late 1970s and subsequently changed his name (and sex) to Jayne County, no doubt to the great relief of metro Detroit and its residents.)

LIVE IN PARIS

— Burning Spear

OK. So like Peter Tosh and Bob Marley is beyond you. Me, too, man. You don't have to be a reggae aficionado, buff or Maven to like this double live LP.

In fact, perhaps there isn't a better introduction to the Caribbean flavored music than Burning Spear's eclectic array of reggae.

After all Winston Rodney says he's the master of reggae music. So pull up a chair and be prepared to learn.

The live feel of this double LP is perfect for the party music being laid down. (Incidentally, Burning Spear lands Thursday at St. Andrew's Hall. Don't say we didn't tell you.)

If the screen, if not haunting at times, rhythms don't draw you in the musician's ball should. Burning Spear, while providing a steady Burn Down, doesn't avoid some of today's more toxic substances. The synthesizers and keyboards sugar swell with trumpet and saxophone pieces here, which are provided by an all-woman team (a rarity in the male-dominated reggae scene).

And, of course, call's not forget the main man behind it all, Winston Rodney, who writes and sings all the songs on "Live in Paris" (Slush). He provides the vocal emphasis with flow of the music.

His songs possess almost a transcendental quality to them. There seems to be no beginning, middle or an end, just pure well-orchestrated music. Numbers take from one to the other with little fade-outs.

What Burning Spear does here, in essence, is capture a moment. A moment that seems repeat listening.

FEAR AND LOAFING

Avoiding artistic 'robbery'

By Karl Nilsson special writer

Something evil is lurking in our parks, something pekkier than mosquitoes and more insidious than Dutch elm disease.

In Manhattan's Central Park, muggers use a zip gun. In Birmingham's Shain Park, they use a paintbrush.

Now, don't get me wrong. As suburbanites, we're used to handing over huge amounts of money for things we don't need. We expect that.

But we must defend our right to be robbed by professionals, not some weekend Warhol in a lawnchair.

In all fairness, organizers of the more elite art fairs now screen out the rank amateur by a secretive process known as "selection by jury."

To maintain high standards of quality, jurors insist on three stringent requirements for displaying art in the park.

Each piece must cost at least as much as central air conditioning. Each artist must submit psychiatric proof that he exists in a separate reality created by exposure to paint thinner.

All applicants must be fluent in esoteric jibberish and artistic jargon. Each artist is judged on the number of times he can use meaningless expressions like "mercurial quietude" and "spatial conflict" in a sentence.

BUT IN A country that gave Cher an Oscar, lack of talent is not the major issue. The major issue is that art fairs pose a medical threat to anyone with a risk of coronary problems.

Given the uneven quality and high price tags, why do so many suburbanites flock to the outdoor fairs? Because shopping for art at an in-

Shriner: Show biz' bright star

By Shirlee Rose Iden staff writer

Attention folks who are planning to enjoy comedian Wil Shriner when he comes to Chaplin's East shortly. The comic, who already has the Lamaze breathing technique down pat, says he "will be out here in a flash if my wife goes into labor."

And that's no joke. Shriner's wife, a model and actress, is expecting the baby during the first week of October.

Among the brightest of comedians on the show business scene today, Shriner also has acting, filmmaking, producing, and film editing to his credit.

His national talk show "The Wil Shriner Show," syndicated on 108 stations by Group W in 1987-88, won Emmy nominations for "best show," "best host" and "best writing."

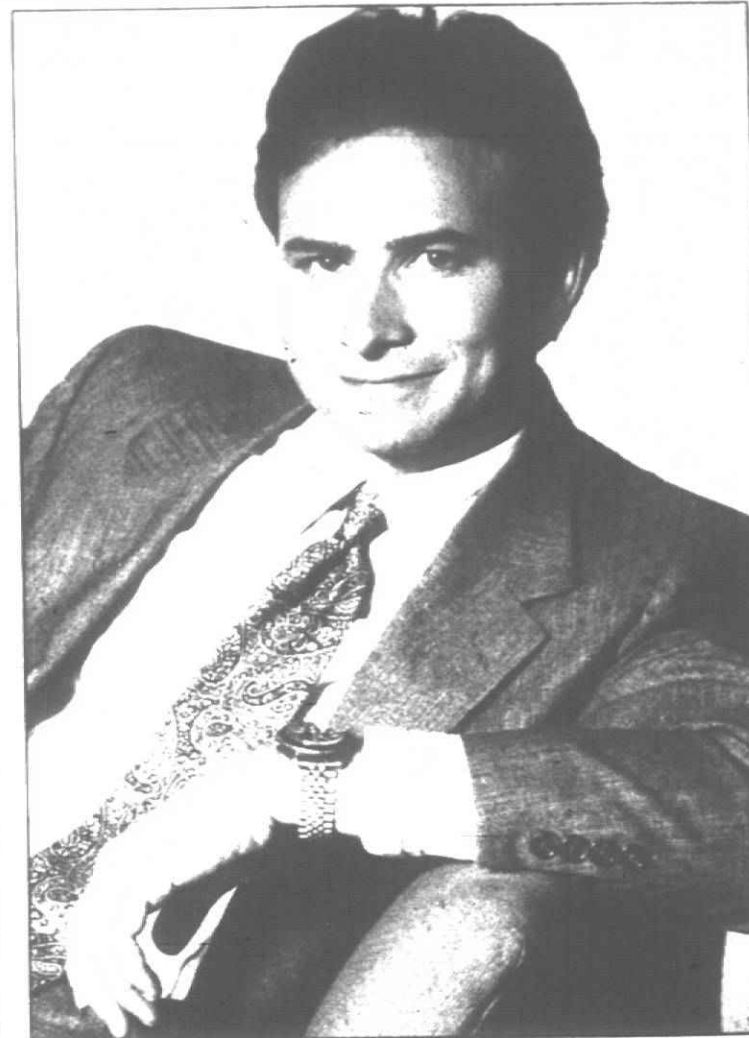

When HIS FATHER gave his twin sons a movie camera, its use became a learning experience for both, leading them to acting.

I've also had a very high recommendation from fellow writer Aaron Leventhal of Columbus for the Inn at Cedar Falls, which is about an hour's drive west of Columbus in Logan, Ohio.

As for the city of Columbus, everybody is raving about the new City Center. You must visit the wonderful restaurants around German Village.

There's usually something going on in the lawn of the State Capitol. Don't miss the restored Ohio Theater across the street.

Comedian Wil Shriner can make people laugh, but his arsenal includes work in acting, filmmaking, producing, and film editing.

where they lived with their grandparents. WHEN SHRINER became a full-time performer, he found it necessary to move to the show business hub, Los Angeles.

It was during a guest appearance on the David Letterman Show that Shriner was spotted and asked to audition for "Peggy Sue Got Married."

With Francis Ford Coppola, when I wasn't acting, I watched him. I'm a sponge that way.

Shriner said he wouldn't want to be breaking into comedy right now, because the business has changed.

Follow action with reaction

Q: My husband thinks I should pick up after him because women are just naturally neater and therefore it's easier for me to do it than him.

A: Sorry, hubby, it just ain't so. While women have traditionally cleaned up after men, I haven't found that men or women are genetically better organized than the other. Many of my female students do, indeed, complain about their spouses' lack of cooperation. Other women attend my classes because, as one's husband jokingly told her, "It's either organizing class or obedience school."

The neatness of your environment is in direct relation to the amount of effort spent keeping it that way — regardless of who does it. It is neither a matter of gender nor ability, but rather of attitude.

Maintenance might be divided into two general categories: 1) cleaning up as you go or 2) leaving it to be cleaned up later. Some men and women seem to have special organizational abilities because they methodically put things away immediately after their use. This habit was probably ingrained in their childhood and they do it so automatically it hardly occurs to them (or others) that maintenance is an effort for them.

Those in the second category, however, nearly always leave a "trail" behind them, believing that cleaning up is hard work. In fact, it is — because it's much more difficult and time consuming to go back and get a place clean than to keep it clean.

The key is to "follow each action with a reaction." Almost everything we do involves objects. Replace files immediately after using them, hang up your coat when you take it off, take along those shoes you kicked off when you leave the room, etc. Without replacing things right away, clutter collects. Learn the ditty, "Don't put it down, put it away." Life is much easier that way.

If you regularly clean up after yourself, you will never have clutter. If you leave a trail, however, you will have perpetual disorder. Tell your husband (and older children, too) it's not only unfair but almost impossible to maintain a neat environment without cooperation.

You can attend Dorothy Lehmkuhl's daytime personal organizing seminars at Schoolcraft College (462-4448) and the Birmingham Community House (644-5832) or her new evening business series at Troy Adult Education (869-7582). Call those centers for information.

Bronze era

Yoko Ono's art moves from Fluxus era into '80s

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

WHEN YOKO Ono walked quickly across the floor of the gallery at Cranbrook Museum, about two dozen photographers, reporters, museum officials and onlookers followed.

When she knelt on the gallery floor to smash with a hammer china cups that would be part of the exhibit, cameras surrounding recorded it all.

Ono's exhibit — including more than 75 sculptures, wall texts, films, and other works — opens to the public tomorrow for one month amid a great deal of publicity and discussion.

Ono, now 56, has been creating provocative art work for 30 years. Pieces that caused a stir in the art world in 1961, were the subject of jokes of radio disc jockeys last week.

Ono though, when asked, still declines to tell one how to look at her work, choosing to guide the viewer inward to decide for themselves.

"Please think whatever you want to think," she said. "I don't really think in terms of teaching."

The Cranbrook exhibit presents many pieces of the avant-garde artist created while associated with the Fluxus movement of artists, who opposed the mainstream art world's conventionality. The Fluxus musicians, poets and visual artist questioned all that by creating inexpensive, easily reproducible works.

ONO SAID she likes to think she has changed with the times. She has reproduced, or reinterpreted, many of these earlier works in bronze, a material she said fits the 1980s.

They are exhibited side by side, the original with its 1980s version.

Writing last year, Ono contrasted the two eras, saying of the 1960s: "The air definitely had a special shimmer then. We were breathless from the pride and joy of being alive

The '80s is an age of commodity and solidity. We don't hug strangers on the streets and we are also not breathless."

But Ono also said that she feels optimistic these days, and repeated at a press conference last week a statement she made in 1984: "We are entering the age of wisdom."

People around the world are much more aware of the dangers of war, the value of peace and the importance of environmental concerns, and "the two big guys" are talking, said Ono, whose crusades for peace are well known.

Ono was born in Tokyo and lived in Japan through the war years before moving to Scarsdale, N.Y. with her family. She studied poetry and art at Sarah Lawrence College. Her first show in New York in 1961 included "Painting to be Stepped On," which is included also in the Cranbrook exhibition, as is a bronzed version from 1988.

She told an interviewer recently that in 1961 she was given the the canvas used in the painting because she didn't have the money to buy it. In the catalog accompanying the exhibit she writes that "Painting to be Stepped On," was influenced by a 15th century Japanese practice of religious persecution. Christians were asked to step on portraits of Christ or the Virgin Mary. Those who refused were killed.

She met Beatle John Lennon in 1966. They married in 1969, and it was with Lennon that Ono became known to the masses. She virtually dropped out of the art scene in the early 1970s.

More recently, she took her "Starpeace" musical tour to several countries in 1986 called "Starpeace," then exhibited at the Whitney this February and April.

CRANBROOK Museum director Roy Slade came to know the Ono in the 1960s when she came to Leeds University in England where he worked. He said he saw Ono's show at the Whitney, then visited the artist at her apartment in New York. He said he wanted to expand on the Whitney presentation.

"I wanted to put it in a broader context," Slade said.

The Cranbrook show is larger. Included, for example, are 15 wall texts that did not appear at the Whitney.

These too date from the 1960s, and are seemingly simple instructions, as in Tape Piece III. Take a tape of the sound of snow falling. This should be done in the evening. Do not listen to the tape. Cut it and use it as strings to tie gifts with. Make a gift wrapper, if you wish, using the same process with a phono sheet.

Her films are represented here as well. They will be shown in three groups on weekends in October.

Ono came to the school's Bloomfield Hills campus Wednesday, after a grueling and long-delayed flight from New York. She said her spirits improved considerably upon arrival at Cranbrook.

"Suddenly I arrived in this beautiful Garden of Eden," she said.

"Yoko Ono: The Bronze Age," runs Sept. 26-Oct. 29 at Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum. Hours are 1-5 p.m., Tuesday-Sunday. Call 645-3323.

Yoko Ono's exhibit, entitled "The Bronze Age," opens at Cranbrook this week. The artist was in town last week. Bronze plays an important role in her latest work, "Bronze is OK... Eighties is OK."

Atrium another of Ford's better ideas

THERE'S AN oasis amid the steel, brick, granite and concrete of midtown Manhattan. It's the 10-story, glass-enclosed atrium — a huge greenhouse — with trees, shrubs and blooming flowers in the magnificent, 14-story Ford Foundation Building.

When the structure was first occupied in November 1961, there were 17 mature trees, including acacia, magnolia and eucalyptus, 999 shrubs, 148 vines, 21,954 groundcover plants, and 18 aquatic plants in a stillwater pool.

The flower beds are changed for each of the four seasons, including spring bulbs, summer begonias, fall chrysanthemums and winter poinsettias.

Visitors toss coins for UNICEF into a pool, near which is a sign that advises:

"The pool is filled and the garden is watered with rain from the roof and steam condensate in a cistern. This emergency store of water is drawn off as needed during times of water shortage, keeping the garden green without tapping the city's scarce supplies."

THE ATRIUM IS illuminated by numerous spotlights from the 11th floor and by ground lights. A glass-walled office area encircles part of the garden. The C-shaped building extends from 42nd Street to 43rd Street, near Second Avenue.

Describing the structure, the Ford Foundation, an international non-profit philanthropic organization, said the glass enclosure "becomes a park with trees and shrubs and flowering plants — a place to look at and walk around, a place to enjoy some greenery even in the depths of winter. Since its lower level is at 42nd Street, it will also be enjoyed by the passer-by. In addition, the park is so placed that it contributes to and extends the existing public parks in the area."

"The offices are held back behind this enclosed park away from the heavy traffic noise and look out on a view that includes not only part of the building itself but parks, the street below and

weeder's guide

Earl Aronson

farther down to the East River."

The walls involve 64,051 square feet of glass, and the glass skylight 9,000 square feet. The building has a snow-melting system for drives, sidewalk and plaza areas. The garden occupies 8,500 square feet and requires 650 cubic yards of special topsoil.

The main lobby offers trees and seasonal flowers in planter boxes. In the atrium, when I visited recently, were numerous groundcovers, including Hedera helix (English ivy), asparagus fern, spider plant, Boston fern and hoyo. Specimen plants included Norfolk Island pine (12 to 15 feet tall), podocarpus (15 feet), ficus Benjaminia and Mitida (12 feet), hibiscus and bougainvillea vine.

AT THE POOL were spathiphyllus. Also at the atrium were numerous shrubs, including pittosporum (mock orange), avocado, star jasmine and gardenia.

On the balcony of the third, fourth and fifth floors were, among others, kafir plum, red bougainvillea, hibiscus and English ivy.

The Ford Foundation, established in 1936 by Henry and Edsel Ford, has so far given more than $5 billion to over 7,460 colleges, universities, school systems, community agencies and other organizations.

CARING FOR RHUBARB: Side-dressing is beneficial to rhubarb if you had a good crop this year and want another next spring.

Apply fertilizer along the row 1 1/2 feet from the rhubarb crowns and keep down weeds by mulching or cultivating. Use 1 1/2 pounds of high-nitrogen fertilizer (11-0-0) or 3 to 4 pounds of 10-10-10 per square foot.

An article in the Sept. 11 edition of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers by Associated Press special writer Andy Lang incorrectly referred to the name of a USG Corp. product as "veneer plastic" when it should have read "veneer plaster."

Retain tenants by managing energy costs

By R.J. King
staff writer

Mention energy conservation to anyone who works in an office building and one thing comes to mind: a locking cover over the thermostat.

But what is an office landlord to do? The energy crisis has long fallen out of favor in providing an incentive to conserve, yet the office sector is the single largest consumer of energy — 40 percent — in the U.S. economy.

Utility costs normally account for 30 to 40 percent of the total operating costs of an office building, excluding taxes. They are generally passed on to tenants directly or included in lease rates.

While area developers of office space are competing to lure and retain tenants in the face of double-digit vacancy rates, tenants are becoming much more attuned to the savings energy management can offer.

"One of the things people notice most in an office building is whether they're too hot or too cold, and if the energy costs are high, they soon look elsewhere," said Mary Beth Winkworth, manager of corporate communications for Kirco Realty & Development, Bloomfield Hills.

"That's why we have such a large concern to control our office building environments through computer-monitored HVAC (heating, ventilation and air conditioning) systems.

Even though they may be expensive, it pays off in the long run if buildings are fully leased."

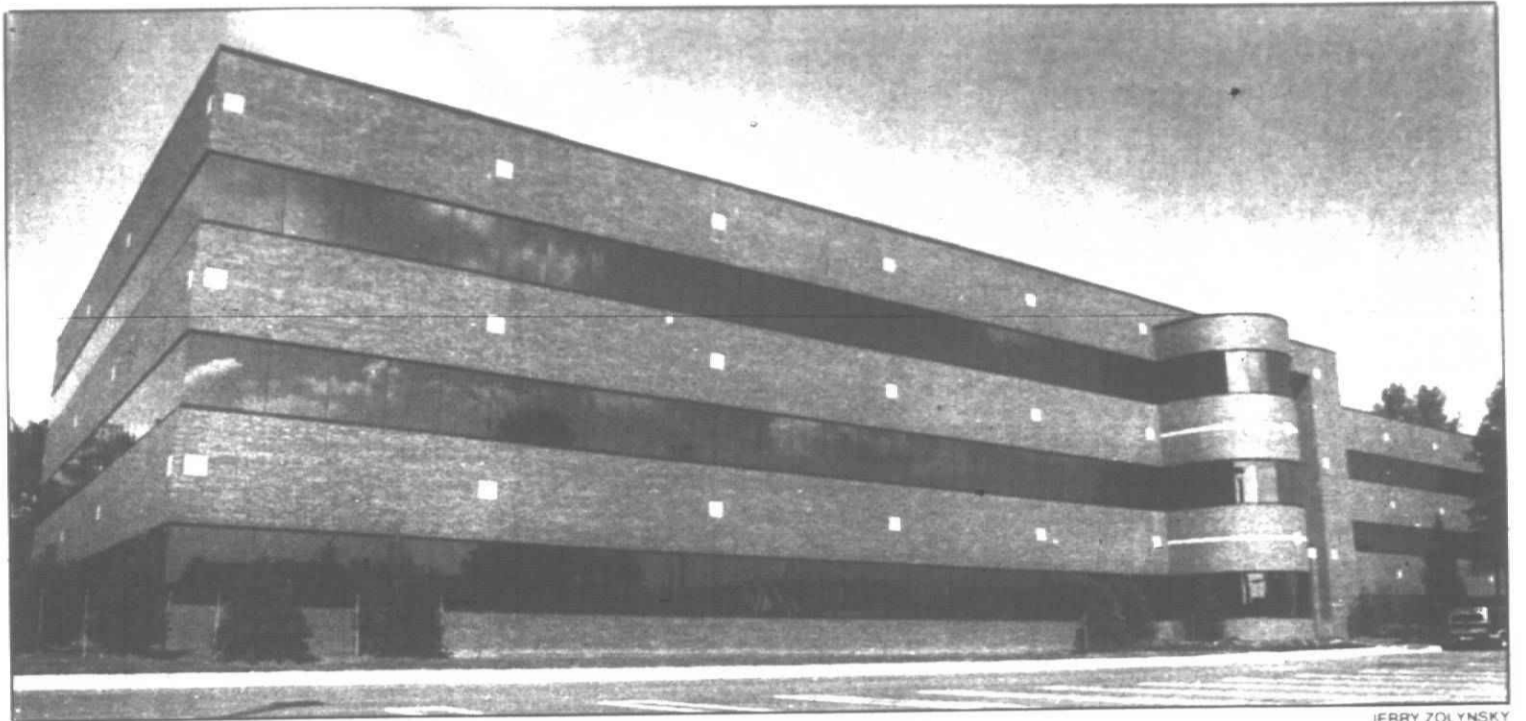

IN WHAT IS billed as an energy war, landlords are finding energy conservation and economic development can go hand in hand, and offices that are designed efficiently will slash energy bills, liberate investment capital and perhaps eventually save the utilities the expense of building new power plants.

"If you have an inefficient HVAC system that costs an extra 50 cents a square foot to operate, then the tenant is going to look at that as adding to the total costs," said Gerald Ward, president of Equities Management, the management arm of Etkin Equities, Southfield.

"We also perform an energy analysis on consumption every month of each of our buildings, which gives us feedback and helps make sure our energy costs don't get out of line. It's one of the ways we stay competitive with other developers while maintaining a high occupancy rate."

For Etkin's City Center II development in Southfield, Ward said the company chose an HVAC system that had a capital cost of $78,000 more than an alternative system. "We felt the reduced costs for long-term operating and maintenance needs (of the more expensive system) would provide a payback in less than two years of operation."

Just as developers of office space

JERRY ZOLYNSKY

For its City Center II development in Southfield, Equities Management, the management arm of Etkin Equities, choose a more expensive heating and cooling system because its efficiency would provide a payback in less than two years of operation.

have discovered leasing decisions can hinge upon intelligent energy management, utilities have also found the incentive to save creates, in a sense, another source of power.

Increasingly, utilities find it is often cheaper to buy efficiency — say, by subsidizing the installation of weatherstripping or providing free inspections — than to build additional power plants that have price tags in the millions.

"We can build more power plants, but they may stand idle if demand fails to rise as projected," said Michael Murphy, administrator of customer services for Detroit Edison. "It's much cheaper to have energy conservation programs than to build more power plants."

ONE COMMON WAY to conserve energy in commercial office buildings, especially electricity, where commercial and office buildings account for 75 percent of the nation's $150 billion electric bill, is to place individual suites on their own meters, Murphy said.

"If people pay their own bills, they tend to be much more conservative with their energy needs. If you give tenants the ability to control their energy uses, and then give them feedback, they will tend to use energy as efficiently as possible."

Ed Stehno, staff engineer for Consumers Power Co., advised office building tenants to form energy committees from among employees to inspect and seek out ideas to save money — such as lowering a high ceiling or replacing present windows with more efficient ones.

"The energy committee will meet once a month, and perhaps they've come up with changing the windows," Stehno said. "Well, they can hire an architectural consultant to help lower costs and beautify the building, as well as contacting utilities for a free inspection."

"The utility people will come and perform an inspection, and if you compare notes, then you have considerations to take to an energy consultant, while up to this point the costs are nominal."

OTHER TARGETS for efficient energy management in buildings include:

- Windows with sophisticated coatings that keep heat inside during the winter and outside during the summer.

- Choosing office furniture, carpeting and paint that is light in color for reflective purposes.

- Daylight technology is being developed so that plastic light pipes bring sunlight deep into a building's interior, reducing the need for artificial light.

- Concentrated sunlight is collected and focused by rooftop mirrors, then funneled through a short vertical section of pipe and then split to fill a network of ceiling-hung pipes.

- The pipes are similar to glowing fluorescent tubes, except the color is more natural.

Commercial real estate courses taught at Walsh

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Commercial real estate agents and brokers asked for it.

So Walsh College of Troy obliged.

Walsh, through its continuing professional education program, will launch a series of courses next month to help commercial real estate participants keep abreast of goings-on in the industry.

"The commercial investment people came to us and said no college in Michigan is offering short-term training in the commercial area," said Grace Smith, director of Walsh's CPE program.

"These people want to get a very concentrated short-term course that will keep them current on the job."

Three courses will be offered this fall. They are:

- Commercial Real Estate Overview, which will examine such topics as how to get started in the business, long- and short-range prospecting programs, and marketing concepts. That class meets 6:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesdays, Oct. 4-Nov. 1. The cost is $240.

- Legal Issues, which will concentrate on the sale and lease of property as well as broker liability. The class meets 6:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Oct. 17 and 24. The cost is $96.

- Negotiation and Transaction Structuring Workshop, which will examine the negotiation process and include role playing and videotaping of practice bargaining sessions. That class meets 6:30-9:30 p.m. Mondays Nov. 6-20. Cost is $144.

"These are for people who are licensed and probably have some experience," said Maurice Richards, executive vice president for the South Oakland County Board of Realtors and the Detroit Metro Commercial Investment Division.

"Someone like an attorney or CPA who deal with brokers but don't have a working knowledge — they might want to learn more about . . . practices of the real estate industry," he said.

None of the courses can be applied to state licensing requirements now, Smith said, although college officials are working toward that goal.

All classes, which earn continuing education credit, will meet at Walsh College, 3838 Livernois, north of Big Beaver. Specific registration questions can be asked of Walsh's continuing professional education department at 689-8282 ext. 260.

Yes, they do build 'em like they used to.

Maybe not along the same lines as this historic centerpiece in Mill Race Village, but with equal care and quality.

And when it comes to telling a prestige audience about your current homes for sale, there is no better place than The Observer & Eccentric's Creative Living Real Estate section.

Here is a newspaper section that regularly features the largest selection of suburban real estate ads in Southeastern Michigan.

Published twice each week on Monday and Thursday for an audience of more than 350,000 adult readers in 12 affluent communities, this popular section has been tailored for our satisfied Realtors who continue to be pleased with the results they receive.

Providing for repairs

What is your recommendation for obtaining an adequate guarantee to ensure that the items to be fixed by the seller as said forth in a purchase agreement are met?

condo queries

Robert M. Meisner

Make sure that your purchase agreement provides for an inspection of the premises both before the agreement becomes binding and shortly before the closing, and that there is adequate provision in the purchase agreement to insure that an escrow amount will be held out of the closing process to reasonably meet the repairs. Make sure that your attorney is at closing to insure that the escrow is put into effect and that it is held by a third party such as a title company or bank. Adequate provisions must be made for the timely completion of the repairs as well as the release of the escrow monies.
