Spouse abuse case worries judge

BY DARRELL CLEM

A Westland judge, saying he fears a "bizarre" domestic violence case could end in a killing, voiced deep concerns Thursday about a male defendant accused of trying to push his wife into the path of oncoming traffic. "This is one of the most bizarre

A Belleville man, 35, is in jail after being charged with assaulting his wife, a Westland resident. The man is accused of trying to push the woman into traffic and other violent acts, prompting unusual concern from Judge Charles Bokos.

cases we've had around here," 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos said in court Thursday morning. "Someone's going to get killed, and I'm worried about that."

The judge's remarks came as David Paul Freed, 35, stood mute on a misdemeanor spouse abuse charge that stems from allegations he tried to push his wife, 35, into oncoming traffic Wednesday on Merriman near Glen. The woman wasn't hit.

Freed already was on probation for a February assault in which Bokos said the wife suffered a severely bruised eye. The latest charge prompted Bokos to set a $25,000 bond — relatively high for a misdemeanor charge.

"This case has got me worried to death," Bokos told Freed. "I'm not sure what's going to happen between you two people."

Bokos voiced frustration that the wife in February posted a $1,000 bond so that Freed could be released from jail. Under questioning by local reporters Thursday, Bokos said victims of abuse often feel guilty when a spouse is locked up.

Court administrator David Wlasek talked with Freed's wife Thursday and said she assured him that she wouldn't post her husband's bond this time. The couple are in the process of divorce, police reports said. Freed has been living in Belleville and his wife in Westland.

The defendant has been scheduled for a pretrial hearing Tuesday. He

Road crew trashes neighbors' effort to spruce up street

Bob and Rhonda Osterman spent 25 hours of their time and $500 of their neighbors' money to spruce up the entrance island to Westland Woods, the upscale subdivision where they live on Cherry Hill Road east of Newburgh.

A week later, road crews destroyed much of the work during a widening/reconstruction project on Cherry Hill. Like a huge animal eating its prey, a bulldozer chomped at flowers, river rocks and dirt, leaving the Ostermans' efforts in shambles.

"It was kind of heartbreaking after we went to all that work," Bob Osterman, a Northwest Airlines employee, said.

Ironically, the damage occurred July 12, one day after a story chronicling the couple's efforts appeared in the Westland Observer. Neighbors began asking the Ostermans why they didn't postpone their project until Cherry Hill had been widened.

The pair said they had been told by a county-hired subcontractor that the entrance island wouldn't be damaged because it wasn't in the path of work crews. So the Ostermans planted

A knife-wielding bandit robbed the Speedway gas station at Merriman Road and Van Born early Thursday, assaulting a 52-year-old female clerk before fleeing on foot, police said.

The woman was hit but not seriously injured by the robber, who escaped with an undisclosed amount of money during the 2 a.m. incident, Westland Detective Sgt. Donald Haigh said.

On Monday, meanwhile, a hammer-wielding bandit robbed the Dunkin' Donuts at Ford and Wildwood, smashing the glass counter with his weapon before fleeing with money that he took during the 6:44 p.m. incident.

In the Speedway incident, the suspect was carrying a long-bladed knife when he entered the gas station, on the northeast corner of Merriman and Van Born, and demanded money.

A drawing will be held with the winner to receive a pearl necklace and homemade quilt. Proceeds will support the Camp Power Fund.

PLACES & FACES

Signs of the times

The Observer received a call from a man last week who complained of state Senate candidate Charles Griffin putting campaign signs on county and Detroit Edison rights-of-way. One sign in particular created a potential safety problem caused by a sign on Merriman-Warren Road traffic island, said the caller. An inspection of the island that day also showed that there was a campaign sign a few feet away promoting Griffin's opponent, David Jackson, as well as one by a non-local judicial candidate. About an hour later, the Observer noticed that the three signs were either removed or torn down. In the ever-fluid world of politics, Griffin's sign was observed Friday back on the traffic island while the other two signs were relocated across the street.

Sailboat contest planned

The Westland recreation department is planning its first toy sailboat contest on Saturday, Aug. 20, at Central City Park, south of Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh. The event will be at Pavilion II, which can be reached from Marquette. Competition will be held in two age groups: 6-9 and 10-14. Contestants must be accompanied by an adult. Persons may register at Bailey Center seven days a week and obtain a copy of the contest's rules. Rain date is Sunday, Aug. 21.

Groups and individuals are encouraged to submit announcements to this column. Information must be in writing and directed to the Westland Observer editorial department, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48160. Our fax number is 591-7279.

During Wednesday's shopping outing, the two became embroiled in a fight, and the wife got out of Freed's 1985 Chevy Blazer and was standing in a left-turn lane on Merriman, police reports said.

"These are frightening allegations," Boko said.
But Freed said in court that, "For the record, I was trying to pull her out of traffic."
He said he, too, has been the victim of abuse, "but the (police) officers don't seem to do much on my behalf."

'I'm living proof'

Graduate, 64, says dreams come true

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Westland's Bessie Wallace had every reason to give up on life. Instead, she worked to make her dreams come true.

So poor were Wallace, her sister, and her mother, that they subsisted on biscuits and lard and lived in a two-room house with tar-paper walls, no indoor plumbing, and no electricity in their native rural Tennessee. The family did have chickens and hogs, but that was before Wallace's father deserted them when Wallace was 14. From the time she was 10, Wallace picked cotton, earning just $2 per 100 pounds.

"My mom's goal was to complete her education," said Wallace's daughter, Pam Chaney. "She wanted to be a teacher, but there literally was no money. They didn't even know people who had indoor plumbing.

"The Sears and Roebuck catalog could come, so they knew there must be a better world out there," she said. "But they didn't know where it was, or how to get there."

Wallace's mother had little education. To scrape by, "she took people's laundry and scrubbed in a washboard. She was determined to keep her girls together," said Chaney. "I don't believe there were government aid programs, and when they were initiated, they didn't reach into the isolated rural areas."

When Flora Wells, Wallace's mother, learned there was work in Detroit, she saved enough for bus fare and moved. The family settled in Plymouth, where, at age 17, Wallace went to work instead of finishing school. She earned much-needed money waitressing at the D&C dime store lunch counter on Main Street.

Before she was 18, Wallace married a young man she'd known since they were kids in northwestern Tennessee. She and William, her husband of 46 years, raised two sons and a daughter.

Wallace — who says commitment, to each other and their children, saw the couple through — always had a job outside the home. She worked at Burroughs, a Sheldon Road box factory, in child care, in a Saline factory, and at Industrial Strainer before her recent retirement.

But always, a feeling of emptiness lingered.

"I've always, down through the years, had a feeling within me of leaving something undone," said Wallace. "One of the things we were taught in my family is: When you start a job, you finish it."

Not until she was in her 60s was there the opportunity to return to school. Two years ago, the Westland resident enrolled in Plymouth-Canton's adult education program. This summer, at age 64, she received a state-endorsed high school diploma at ceremonies staged at the Salem High School auditorium.

A 4.0 student, Wallace was chosen to speak to the class of 1994. She addressed her remarks to young people.

"You may feel you've faced adversity. Things may not have gone so well. I know, I was there. But I want you to know you can make dreams come true, regardless of who supports or doesn't support you. I'm living proof.

"If there is something you really want to do, whatever it is, pursue it. Good jobs aren't out there any more for the uneducated. Hang in there and get an education. Because without it, you will never have anything."

Wallace received a standing ovation.

"I've never been so moved or felt so proud as when I was sitting there and the whole audience, including Superintendent (John) Hoben, rose to its feet for my mom," said Chaney.

A letter Chaney wrote to her mom was read by a faculty member at graduation. "In a world where mommies and daddies live happily ever after and 17-year-old girls don't have to worry about enough food to eat, or where they'll sleep at night, you would have graduated from high school on a shiny June day in 1948. At a dime store, as a child care provider, at a Saline factory, and a Plymouth factory where you became powerful presence in the union and an inspiration to your daughter who was ever watching you, you worked. And you dreamed.

"Here we stand, your family, deeply moved and inspired by your courage and determination to make life turn out the way it should have 46 years ago. It's a shiny June day and you are a member of the newly minted class of 1994," wrote Chaney.

"It's been a long journey, but you continued to put one foot in front of the other, despite the obstacles, until you reached this place on this day where your dream is coming true. Congratulations, Graduate!"

Happy graduate: Bessie Wallace of Westland (left) is accompanied by daughter, Pam (Wallace) Chaney, a former Michigan and Wayne-Westland Junior Miss scholarship winner in the late 1970s.

Court favors flowers at cemetery

BY BARBARA WILSON
STAFF WRITER

A court award of $27 may hardly seem worth the fight, but to Garden City's Lyle Dickson it is.

The former Garden City police officer sued Cadillac Memorial Gardens West Cemetery in small claims court because they disposed of artificial flower arrangements left at grave sites. The cemetery has a policy that prohibits artificial flowers during the spring and summer months. The cemetery is on Ford near Wildwood, Westland, and just across the street from Garden City.

"It was worth the effort to prove the principle of the thing," Dickson said. "People should be treated fairly."

A magistrate found in favor of the cemetery, but Westland District Court Judge Charles Bokos Wednesday decided in Dickson's favor. He ordered the cemetery to pay court costs and $27 (the cost of the flower arrangement) to Dickson.

The cemetery's manager, Jonathan Tobias, wasn't available for comment this week, although cemetery workers say the ban remains in effect.

In late March, Tobias said the ban was put in place several years ago to protect maintenance workers. Artificial flower arrangements are not permitted because when crews mow the lawn there is the potential for pieces of the plastic or wire stems to be propelled creating a potential hazard for workers and visitors to the grounds.

Dickson said although the ban was put into effect several years ago, the previous cemetery manager did not enforce it. When Tobias took over last year, he enforced the ban without further notification to families.

There is a sign posted on the grounds, but because the former manager did not enforce it, family members ignored it.

Judge Bokos said the cemetery acted in a rash and unreasonable manner when they disposed of artificial arrangements without notifying families. He also said the action was taken without concern for the public's reaction.

Tobias said the families are not held liable for injuries caused by the artificial arrangements, but the cemetery is and has been sued for these types of injuries in the past.

To better inform families, a newsletter went out informing lot owners of the policy and there is a sign near the cemetery office which reads: "Positively no artificial wreaths or flowers will be permitted on any section between March 10 and Nov. 10."

In regulations given to lot owners and relatives, the cemetery management states that fresh-cut flowers in bronze or cone-shaped vases are allowed. Families are permitted to place one bouquet or potted plant during the Easter, Mother's Day, Memorial Day and Father's Day holidays. An underlined portion of the regulation states that glass containers, wires, rocks and ornaments are prohibited at the cemetery.

Dickson said he only places live flowers now at the graves of his mother, father and brother.

"Someday I thought I would be buried at that cemetery," Dickson said. "But not now."

Cadillac Memorial Gardens, which opened in 1927, is one of six in the Detroit area owned by Michigan Cemetery Management Inc., whose owner is William Eldridge.

Cemetery management's decision to dispose of artificial arrangements back in March sparked a protest and demonstration among relatives of people buried there.

geraniums, hostas, mums, petunias and other flowers; scattered wood chips; and spread out five tons of river rock to add color and cheer to their subdivision.

About 15 neighbors helped them with the project, which they completed on the Fourth of July. The Ostermans even stayed home and shelved plans for a getaway to celebrate their 10th anniversary, which was on June 9.

Neighbors gave $500 in small donations, mostly of $10 or less, to boost the project. "It made me look like the bad guy," Bob Osterman said. "But it wasn't even the money that hurt us so much. It was the time we put into it that broke our hearts."

Rhonda Osterman confronted the workers while county-hired crews were tearing away at the entrance island.

"I told one guy that he could hand over his paycheck," she said.

Project engineer Michael Lentz, a county employee, conceded that crews hadn't expected to rip into the entrance island.

"We went farther back (into the subdivision) than the plans called for," Lentz said.

Why? Lentz said the pavement at the entrance "was breaking up, and we needed to put new pavement in."

The surface of the new road also is about 3 feet lower than it was before, Lentz said, and ripping up the entrance to Westland Woods will allow crews to make the grade less steep.

"It will help," he said, but conceded, "It will be steeper than it was before."

The Ostermans joked that road crews at least didn't go into the subdivision and rip up the landscaping at their home, which last year won a beautification award sponsored by the mayor's office.

The Ostermans have been told that the county will restore the entrance island once the Cherry Hill widening project is completed.

"Yeah, right," Rhonda Osterman said with a laugh, adding that she would rather do the work again.

"We don't want them to touch it," she said of county workers. "They'll really mess it up."

Area mayors back Schall in primary

John Schall, an Ann Arbor resident and Republican candidate for U.S. Congress in the 13th District, has announced endorsements from Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett, Belleville Mayor Glenn Silvenius, and Inkster Mayor Ed Bivens Jr.

The 13th District includes Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City, and the southeast quadrant of Livonia.

The primary vote is scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 2.

"John Schall was born and raised in Livonia and he understands the needs and concerns of the families in our community," Bennett said in a press release.

"He will fight to get the economy moving and create jobs," Bivens said.

"John Schall best represents the values of the families and the hard-working men and women in our area," Silvenius said.

Schall is also endorsed by Wayne County Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, Livonia Treasurer Robert Blahop, Plymouth Township Trustee Charles Curmi, Schoolcraft College Trustee John Walsh, the Police Officers Association of Michigan, the Washtenaw County Deputy Sheriff's Association, Right to Life of Michigan, the National Right to Life Committee, and Citizens for Traditional Values.

Area GOP leaders support Wilbanks

Cynthia Wilbanks, a Ypsilanti Township resident and Republican candidate for U.S. Congress in the 13th District, has announced endorsements from 74 current and former officials, including former congressman Carl Pursell of Plymouth Township.

The 13th District includes Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southeast quadrant of Livonia.

The primary vote is scheduled for Aug. 2.

"Cynthia Wilbanks has spent more than 20 years working in this district with local government officials and residents as my district director here in Michigan, and before me, with Congressman Marvin Esch. She knows the needs and concerns of our area and has a proven record of getting action out of the federal government," said Pursell in a press release.

"While we often stay neutral in our own party's primaries, we feel strongly that Cynthia Wilbanks has the very best chance of winning this seat in November," said Ypsilanti Republican Chairman Peter Fletcher.

"Few people realize this but our 1992 Republican candidate (state Sen. Robert Geake) won the Wayne County portion of the district, but lost the election with a very poor showing in Washtenaw County. Cynthia has deep roots and experience in both counties and is the best candidate to emerge."

The other people to endorse Wilbanks are:

Former U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch, state Reps. Lyn Bankes of Redford Township and Jerry Vorva of Plymouth, former state Sen. Gilbert Bursley.

From Plymouth Township, Supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy, director of public services Jim Anulewicz, trustees Kay Arnold, Ron Griffith, K.C. Mueller, clerk Marilyn Massengill, planning commissioner Donald Skinner, former clerk Esther Hulsing and former trustee Abe Munsakh.

From the city of Plymouth, Mayor Doug Miller, city councilman John Voss, library board members Sheryl Khoury and Janet Campbell, former mayors

James Jabara, Joe Bida and Dennis Bila.

From Plymouth-Canton schools, board President David Artley, former board presidents Carol Davis and Kenneth Hulsing.

From Canton Township, Supervisor Tom Yack, treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter, trustees Melissa McLaughlin, library board president James Gillig and former trustee Robert Padgett.

From the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, chairman Steve Ragan, vice chairman Harry Greenleaf, secretary Patricia Watson, trustees Mary Breen and Richard DeVries.

From the Ann Arbor School Board, trustees Chris Argersinger and Jim Cameron.

From the Ann Arbor City Council, Mayor Ingrid Sheldon, trustees Jim Stephenson, Jane Lumm, Julie Creal, former mayor Jerry Jernigan, former trustees Kirk Dodge, Bob Henry, Terri Martin, Jeannette Middleton, Mark Oulmet, Ed Hood, Jim Blow, Joyce Chesbrough, C. William Colburn, Roger Bertola and Lou Velker.

From the Ypsilanti City Council, former trustees Scott Woods and Nathalie Edmunds.

From the Ypsilanti School Board, President Marilyn Goodman, trustee Diane Kerr, former trustees Doug Harris and Marcia Harrison.

Other endorsers include Garden City Councilman Ed Juarez, Ann Arbor Township Supervisor Elizabeth Langford, Ypsilanti Library Board Trustee Helen Vick, Ann Arbor Republican Party chairman Clement Gill, former Ann Arbor Republican Party chairwoman Virginia Johansen, former Suburban Republican Women president Joy Hartmann, Eastern Michigan University regents Gayle Thomas and Robert DeMatta, former Northville Township supervisor Betty Lennox, former Washtenaw Community College trustee Ann Kettles, Scio Township trustee Jerry Schleicher, Wayne County School Board Association President Flossie Tonda and Pittsfield Township trustee Doug Woolley.

Wilbanks has also been rated "well-qualified" by Civic Searchlight.

SHOPPING CENTERED

Step back in time at antiques fair

Huge brightly striped tents lend a festive atmosphere to the countryside as they welcome scavengers to the Ann Arbor Antiques Market on the third Sunday of the month at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds.

Crowded inside horse barns, fragrant with the smell of hay, over 400 dealers from across the country display their second-hand wares. Savvy collectors mark their calendars for this popular market and thousands converge on the 80-acre site, hoping to snag the treasure they've been searching for.

I donned my walking shoes and headed to Ann Arbor on July 17, hoping to scout out our local dealers and to inquire about this summer's hottest collectibles. Of course, I knew I wouldn't leave empty-handed. Rustic painted furniture and fun '40s textiles seem to call to me from among the more formal and sophisticated Americana.

Thrill of the hunt

Martyn Hesse's beautifully refinished antique furniture caught my eye as I entered the first tent. Several of Hesse's bedside tables and bookcases ($200-$265) sported bright red "Sold" tags. Though he displays oak tables and chairs, beds and dressers, it's the smaller, occasional pieces that sell the quickest. I admired the Victorian washstand, inlaid with Malajolica tiles (#565). It also captured the attention of Ann Croft of Detroit, a novice antiques collector. See Hesse's entire inventory at the Plymouth Antique Emporium, 13101 Eckles Road.

The red painted kitchen scale with shiny brass tray ($115) drew me to Marla Petrella's booth. Petrella shares space with other dealers at Troy Corners Antiques, 90 E. Square Lake Rd. Included in her selection of 19th century American country furniture and accessories were a brass desk lamp (#485) and candlesticks.

Edda Tillman has set up shop at this mega-marketplace for over 20 years. She recently closed her downtown Birmingham store, but is still in business at 1255 Villa. Tillman's unique architectural and 1920s iron floor lamps ($125) were popular items at this show, as were a wicker side table ($245) and painted iron park bench ($495).

I encountered the Scheets of Rochester admiring Tillman's wares. "I'm looking for blue and white porcelain and something wonderful to set the microwave on," said Mrs. Scheets who likes functional pieces, not just decorative knickknacks. The Scheets have also been looking for the perfect wood box, a quest that's lasted for years. "I like to browse until I see something that brings back memories. I'm in it for the nostalgia," she added.

Familiar faces

Other local dealers with escondhand sensations included Big Beaver Antiques of Troy, Lulu's of Royal Oak (I saw a great vintage croquet set in a painted box, $38), B.J. Nowka Antiques In The Barn on 8 Mile Road in Northville (a blue green luster tray, $35 and a Victorian calling card basket, $35), and Cowboy Collectibles and Western Memorabilia, 125 Liberty in Plymouth. For me, the "Best of Show" were a faded blue Amish rocker and a pair of green plantation shutters that hang on the wall as art. (#160).

And what did I happily carry away through the big farm gates? A weathered green metal hop bucket that is filled with dried flowers, a gorgeous floral design hooked rug, circa 1890 from Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and a terrific three-legged footstool.

Summer Show: Snow White meets her Seven Dwarfs during a performance of the Giggles at Oakland Mall.

Mall courts wee ones

More than 400 moms and tots came to see the prince rescue Snow White with a kiss at Oakland Mall's Giggles Gang Theater. This week watch the millor's daughter try to guess the name of you know who.

Lisa Kedrow took some time off from her job at the center's Big Boy's to bring a few little friends to the 11 a.m. opening performance of the Giggles Gang Theater at Oakland Mall in Troy, July 20.

"It's great to see so many people at the mall on a Wednesday morning," she said eyeing the crowd for a spot up close. "The restaurants are giving away free children's lunches after the shows so it'll be a busy day."

Parisian opens with week of fun events

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Puppets, strolling robots, fashion shows and the chance to win a trip to England await shoppers during the grand opening week at Parisian Department Store Aug. 1-6 at Laurel Park Place in Livonia.

If you've never visited the shopping center some consider to be "Somerset West," Parisian's opening might be the right opportunity.

Three-years-in-the-planning, Parisian at Laurel Park will be the first Michigan store for the Birmingham, Ala.-based retailer. Laurel Park Place is at Six Mile and Newburgh, just east of I-275 off the Six Mile exit.

"I can't believe it's finally opening," said Judith Wise of Livonia, a regular mall walker. "I'm anxious to shop Parisian and see what it's all about. I hear they have lower prices than other department stores."

Parisian is a clothing store which also sells shoes, accessories and cosmetics for the family. There are no home furnishings or small electronics at Parisian. The Laurel Park store is on two levels covering 160,000 square feet of retail space. The aisles are wide. There is a central escalator so every department is visible for quick inspection.

Parisian shoppers browse from these merchandise lines: Liz Claiborne, Jones New York, Ellen Tracy, Karen Kane and Rafella for women; Polo Ralph Lauren, Tommy Hilfinger, Timberland and Alexander Julian for men; Cole-Haan, Nina, Enzo and 9-West shoes; Coach, Dooney & Bourke, IJ Simone accessories; Clinique, Lauder, Elizabeth Arden and Lancome cosmetics.

"You're Somebody Special," is the company's motto and customer service that goes that extra mile is their claim to fame. Parisian operates 30 stores throughout the southeast, Ohio and Indiana.

Parisian is owned and managed corporately by the Hess and Abrams families of Birmingham, Ala. The name Parisian comes from the 107-year-old store's original title: The Parisian Dry Goods and Millinery Company.

Carl Hess (grandfather of present CEO Donald Hess) purchased Parisian in 1920 with a partner. His son, Emil, is chairman of the board. Harold Abrams is vice chairman. In 1968 Parisian was named "Brand Name Store of the Year" by the Brand Names Foundation.

The Livonia store manager Elliot Marcus wants shoppers to know that any similarities between Parisian Department Store and the city of Paris are coincidental — "We're just plain old Parisian," he said when first arriving in Michigan.

Marcus' first task was to build a service force of 275 employees. He said he does whatever it takes to make customers and staff feel special — even ordering three $200 foot massagers for the associate's lounge.

Parisian offers its customers a proprietary credit card with a no-interest credit plan, a liberal return policy, a diaper-changing area accessible to moms and dads, a cartoon corner in the children's department, free, customary alterations for men and women, extra large fitting rooms and a coffee bar.

Annually, each Parisian store awards $10,000 to a local community service agency that serves families. The announcement of the first winner, in metro-Detroit will be made at a special pre-opening party on July 31.

PHOENICIA AT FAIRLANE
Phoenicia, featuring Middle Eastern fare, opens a west-side location at the Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn this fall. Restaurateur Sameer Eid's other Phoenicia is in Birmingham. The Mediterranean fare includes falafel, hummus and tabbouleh as well as pita sandwiches, daily specials, soups and salads. Eid said diners at his new Dearborn location will feel like they are on a mini cruise to Lebanon, viewing the ocean through seven seascapes painted on windows. Eid hopes to also offer name entertainment, music and dancing at Fairlane as well as a 40-seat banquet facility for private parties.

NEW AT LAKESIDE
Macomb County's only Tasteo-Freeze opens at Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights. The company is headquartered in Utica with 250 locations in the U.S. and Canada.

Also at Lakeside, 1 Natural, a beauty and body care shop is open. The store's totally natural product line includes cosmetics, body and bath oils and cream and gels made from vegetables, fruits and herbs. They contain no perfume and are never tested on animals.

Besides over-the-counter products, 1 Natural offers full-service salon treatments including pedicures, manicures, acrylic and gel nails, nail art waxing and facials.

On behalf of Hudson's, the Oakland Mall store manager Jean Sinclair recently presented several checks to benefit local non-profit programs. A check for $10,000 was awarded to support student musician performances during the Montreux Jazz Festival; a check for $25,000 was presented to Channel 56 to support the "Great Performances" series; and a $4,500 grant was awarded to the Arab-American and Chaldean Council to sponsor a high school drop out program.

JACOBSON'S MASSAGES
Jacobson's Salons now offer 20-minute Shiatsu massages in all their styling salons. A scalp massage is $5, a scalp and neck massage is $15, and the works, everything from the shoulders up, is $25.

According to the history of Shiatsu, the body's energy, "Ki," flows in central meridians through the body. This flow can be blocked at the nerve points, "Taubo." By massaging correctly at these points, energy flows again to promote overall well being.

Additionally, two other special treatments are available with a massage: a light conditioning treatment and a intensive heat treatment.

Next to the regal-looking purple and gold stage, mall officials were happily handing out Giggle Gang buttons and certificates for complimentary lunches to all children interested in becoming members of the center's new Giggle Gang.

Giggle Gang members will be notified of special events and sales throughout the year. Officials hope they discover that Oakland Mall is a fun place to be.

"All our guests get cards and buttons," said Shelley Darnetko, marketing director at Oakland Mall. "After the show they can get an autographed picture of Snow White to take home."

Diane Johnston and her daughter Kaitlin, 5, of Troy, planned to lunch and shop after the show.

"It's a real cute idea," Johnston said. "I heard about it from my boss who read about it in her Birmingham Eccentric."

Two more Giggle Gang shows are scheduled. Rumpelstiltskin on Wednesday, July 27, and The Emperor's New Clothes, Wednesday, Aug. 3. Performance times are 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Henry K. Martin of Birmingham and his theater troop, The Children's Entertainment Company, perform the fairy tales with some modern twists.

When we first meet the dwarf, he is not hi-hoeing it off to work, he's singing "Working 9 to 5, what a way to make a living..."

Next he holds a pow-wow with his six audience-selected dwarfs to see if a "girl" can join the ranks. There is a moral to this fairy tale: When you're home alone, never open the door to a stranger. The audience sees what can happen when Snow White lets in the beggar woman with a poison apple.

Following a kiss from Prince Tom, also chosen from the audience, the impending royal wedding has the dwarfs running off to Oakland Mall to shop for new clothes.

Students from the Happy Time Day Care Center in Berkley munched on p.b. and j sandwiches after the show, turning rest benches in center court into their lunchroom.

"They are all behaving so well," their teacher beamed with pride. "We may come back next week."

Inseparable: The Offspring's single "Come Out and Play (Keep 'Em Separated)" has become a big hit for the Southern California-based punk rockers.

For The Offspring: Alone is way to go

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Dexter Holland, vocalist and guitarist for the punk rock band The Offspring, is a little groggy having just woken up. For that reason, we'll have to forgive him for spewing the understatement of the year.

"Our tour's going really good; all the shows have been sold out. We're pretty big, huh?" he asked over the phone.

With its surf-rock guitar licks and hook-laden chorus, The Offspring's single "Come Out and Play (Keep 'Em Separated)" has become a huge radio and video hit for the Southern California-based band. Their album "Smash," positioned at No. 20 on the Billboard charts, is the top-selling album of all time for the independent label Epitaph Records, owned by Bad Religion guitarist Brett Gurewitz.

Once appealing predominately to punks and skateboarders, The Offspring is now getting the attention of major record labels. The quartet has turned down all the offers choosing to stay staunchly independent.

"We told them (major record labels) that we didn't want to do that," he said. "Maybe we won't stay there (Epitaph) for 10 years. We may outgrow them or they might outgrow us. We started the record with Epitaph and we plan on finishing it with Epitaph."

Other than record deals, The Offspring turned down a spot opening for the Stone Temple Pilots during their summer tour of arenas.

"We didn't want to jump into arenas just because something's on the radio. We're doing what we're capable of doing alone on tour," Holland explained.

Touring with the Stone Temple Pilots and signing with a major record label means "overexposure" to The Offspring. They would rather stay relatively unknown.

"For us, it's not about having a hit, being on the radio, or being 'successful.' We're a punk rock band. For us it's about putting out music we like playing."

The Offspring and special guest Big Drill Car play an all-ages show at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 3. Tickets are $7.50 in advance. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

For nearly 3 1/2 hours, Pink Floyd coasted through songs mostly from "The Wall," "Dark Side of the Moon" and their recent album "The Division Bell." The crowd remained tame until the middle of the second set when they played the anti-education anthem "Another Brick in the Wall Part II" as selected lyrics lit up across the front of the stage.

The show, in turn, was anything but tame. Flailing his arms around, percussionist Gary Wallis hopped back and forth between his instruments. Unlike the Rolling Stones show at the Silverdome four years ago, the immense stage didn't swallow Pink Floyd. The band was backed by a retractable round movie screen with elaborate film clips accompanying some songs. Two large inflatable pigs fell from the top of the stage at the end of the first set.

In one of the showier moments, a plane flew across the Silverdome and crashed into the seats during "Breathe in the Air."

The show was flamboyant but not overdone. It's not that Pink Floyd had anything to prove, but the whole package showed that the band is a voice of many generations.

'Forrest Gump' falls short of a classic

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
STAFF WRITER

"Forrest Gump," about a man with a low IQ who reaches amazing heights, is an epic treatment of an old Frank Capra aesthetic: Even the under-average Joe can make it in America, if he follows the basic Boy Scout principles of truth and stick-to-itiveness.

The sentiment almost works. Depending on your tolerance for sap, this most manipulative movie of the year may actually have you grabbing for a Kleenex box. It plays at the Main and Maple theaters among others.

Tom Hanks, fresh from winning an Academy Award for "Philadelphia," plays the title character, the kind of part that usually catches Oscar's eye. He's the Alabama-based simpleton, IQ 75, who starts his life with a spinal disorder and a very caring mother (Sally Field). She'll do anything, including sleep with the school superintendent, for her boy to get the same chances as others.

Because of the heavy metal braces on his legs, Forrest is taunted by the other boys. During one of his attempts to escape from them, the braces shatter and he runs and runs and runs, and doesn't stop. The denizens of the local barber shop call him "a running fool."

MOVIES

His athletic prowess lands him a football scholarship; his ability to follow orders and perform menial tasks makes him the ideal soldier in Vietnam. The movie spans the decades from the 1950s through the '80s, so Forrest is seen meeting (through special effects and archival footage) Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon along with John Lennon and George Wallace. The gimmick was handled much better in Woody Allen's "Zelig."

All the while Forrest keeps pining away for Jenny, the childhood sweetheart who becomes a folk singer, go-go dancer, hippy, political activist, disco queen and waitress. Between the two of them, Forrest and Jenny follow every conceivable path the Baby Boom generation might have taken. With the help of pop music snippets (it seems like well over 100 tunes are used in the film), the movie plays like an MTV documentary about the past three decades.

Let's put it this way: if the filmmakers could have figured a way to get Forrest out to Woodstock, they would have.

In a rather ghoulish take on nostalgia, director Robert Zemeckis focuses on assassinations to strike the proper chord of "where were you when?" Strangely, while the movie tries to remain politically correct, it never even mentions Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

This isn't all that's missing. Although the movie runs well over two hours, Forrest is still nothing more than a goofy Everyman symbol by film's end. Of course, "Forrest Gump" is a comedy, though true laughs are few from the usually funny Zemeckis, who launched the "Back to the Future" movies and "Who Framed Roger Rabbit?" among others.

There are clever flights of whimsy, like the blink-and-you'll-miss-it flashback to the ancestors of Lt. Dan (Gary Sinise), Forrest's Vietnam commander, who has the dubious distinction of having relatives who died in each American-involved war. Each soldier falls back dead, identified by his uniform.

The interpolation of Forrest with now-deceased historical figures, though clever from a technical standpoint, loses any charm when words are clumsily inserted into their mouths. When Forrest and John Lennon appear together on the Dick Cavett show, there's some silly dialogue that mirrors the words of "Imagine." The bit with Lyndon Johnson is even more embarrassing.

"Forrest Gump" does make some grand use of the wide screen, from the harrowing scenes in Vietnam to dreamy dusk-and-dawn shots of the rambling white-painted Gump home on the banks of an Alabama river. Strangely enough, an 8,000-acre plantation in South Carolina served both settings.

There's also fine acting here, not only from Hanks, but from Sally Field, who ages convincingly even when Forrest doesn't. Robin Wright's Jenny undergoes her own amazing transformation, including some unattractive turns as a prostitute.

With its epic scope and universal message about "making the best of what the good Lord gave you," "Forrest Gump" struggled hard to be recognized as a movie classic. But how clever can a movie be when, more than once, audience members vocally anticipate the next line of dialogue?

Judge declares candidacy for state Supreme Court

Washtenaw County Circuit Court Judge Donald Shelton has announced his candidacy for the Michigan Supreme Court.

Shelton, 50, is currently serving his fifth year on the Washtenaw Circuit Court bench. He is perhaps best known for his ruling a few years ago that General Motors had a legal obligation to keep its Willow Run plant open and provide jobs in exchange for the tax breaks it received from the township.

In a press release, Shelton said the Supreme Court is out of touch with ordinary people. "We need justices who have the courage to stand up to large corporations and powerful special interest groups in favor of the rights of the people."

As a visiting judge on the Michigan Court of Appeals, Shelton was the only dissenter in the Dr. Jack Keyorkian case in which he concluded that terminally ill people have a constitutional right to physician-assisted suicide.

Shelton is a former Eastern Michigan University regent, former Saline mayor and has served on the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

He received his bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University and his law degree from the University of Michigan.

Hospital, Epilepsy Center combine for new treatment

The Epilepsy Center of Michigan and Henry Ford Health System have launched a new epilepsy treatment program to provide high quality, comprehensive care for people with epilepsy.

Under the program, medical issues will be handled by Henry Ford Health System and its team of neurologists and other health care people.

The Epilepsy Center will provide nursing assistance and handle psychological and social concerns with its team of psychologists and social workers.

Patients can receive treatment at two locations: Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit and the Epilepsy Center in Southfield.

"Both groups have an interest in developing a full-service epilepsy program for patients and their families," said Henry Ford neurologist Gregory Barkley in a press release. "This is definitely a strengthening of programs already in place at both institutions."

"Together, we can better help people with epilepsy and their families increase their quality of life," said Epilepsy Center director Arlene Gorelick in a press release. "This program also will allow the center to expand its services in the areas of family support, employment and advocacy."

The epilepsy program at Henry Ford Hospital, the largest in the state, is one of approximately 150 centers worldwide to offer surgery as an alternative treatment for patients. Among its highlights are:

• The surgical program has been able to eliminate seizures in 80 percent of patients who have received surgical treatment. More than 30 patients had surgery for epilepsy at Henry Ford Hospital in the past year.

• A team of six neurologists, with two specializing in pediatric epilepsy.

• Ten ongoing research studies to evaluate new drugs as well as research the basic mechanisms of epilepsy.

• A dedicated inpatient Epilepsy Monitoring Unit that allows physicians to evaluate detailed computer-tracked and videotaped epileptic seizures in an attempt to pinpoint specific areas of the brain responsible for seizures.

• Research studies utilizing new diagnostic techniques in Magnetic Resonance Imaging and newly developed Magnetoencephalography. MEG noninvasively tracks very weak magnetic fields that are generated by electric currents inside the brain and aids in the determination of the site for epilepsy surgery.

Epilepsy affects more than 90,000 Michigan residents. It is a common neurological disorder marked by sudden, brief changes in brain function that result in seizures of various types.

Most people with epilepsy are otherwise normal and healthy. With regular use of medication, many can live completely free of seizures.

In nearly three quarters of epilepsy cases, there is no known cause. It can strike anyone.

Of cases with a specific cause, the most frequent are the result of head trauma, brain tumor, stroke, infection and maternal injury.

The Epilepsy Center of Michigan, headquartered in Southfield, was established in 1948. It is the only statewide nonprofit organization dedicated only to epilepsy, providing medical, counseling, informational and advocacy services for people with epilepsy and their families.

CHEF LARRY JONES

Salads are refreshing on sultry summer eves

During the summer, this cook's fancy turns to salads. While hearty warm suppers are a must in the dead of winter, in July they're too much trouble. Who wants to sweat over a hot stove?

Salads are perfect. They're refreshing and quick to prepare, and with the right combination of ingredients, they're a healthy crowd-pleasing meal-in-a-dish.

For great tasting salads, choose greens that are brightly colored, crisp looking and unblemished. Store greens in a closed plastic bag in the crisper drawer of your refrigerator for up to three days unwashed. Greens will keep better unwashed, but should you wish to wash them ahead of time, roll them in paper towels to absorb moisture.

If you're in a hurry, and who isn't? here are some time-savers that work for us.

In our refrigerator there's a dish of cut vegetables including carrots, broccoli, celery and radishes. The dish is filled with water to keep the veggies crisp and cold. You can see them as soon as you open the door. The veggies are salad ready and make healthy snacks.

Good salad extenders include these items that are in just about everybody's pantry — canned water chestnuts, pineapple tidbits, olives, pickles, baby corn and tuna fish.

Lively leftovers

Every family has leftovers, and when you're considering tossing up a salad, try to take advantage of all the leftovers in your refrigerator. Cooked potatoes, a leftover grilled chicken breast, some steamed green beans and corn on the cob make for a cool addition when tossed with some bottled salad dressing spiked with a tablespoon of good mustard.

Leftover pasta, rice and beans taste better the second time around when they're tossed with Italian dressing, a fistful of fresh herbs, and chopped or steamed vegetables.

If you need something a little heartier on a rainy day, combine leftover pasta, rice, beans and vegetables with a dash of salad dressing and microwave the mixture on high for 2 to 3 minutes or until just heated through.

Grocery stores and fruit and vegetable markets are making it easier than ever for the over-heated cook to prepare cool summer salads.

You'll find salad bars that offer fixings by the pound, and packaged salads, including Caesar, shredded coleslaw, baby carrots, chopped broccoli, and even cubed, ready-to-eat fruit.

These convenience items cost more, but they're great time-savers and cheaper than eating out.

Fresh fruit and vegetable salads are always appreciated on muggy summer nights. They're easily packed into picnic baskets for nights when you want to escape the heat and dine alfresco in a cool, shady park.

Ripening fruits

Peaches, nectarines, avocados, tomatoes and mangoes are terrific in salads. Don't fret if the peaches you brought home from the store are rock hard.

Put under-ripe fruit in in a closed brown paper bag at room temperature.

Avocados, mangoes, nectarines, peaches, papayas, pears and tomatoes all give off ethylene (a natural gas) which builds up in the closed bag, and helps promote ripening.

Plastic bags are not recommended for ripening fruit mainly because they retain moisture and this encourages rotting.

If you're looking for a new idea try a fresh mango. The juicy, somewhat stringy orange flesh has a sweet, melon-like flavor with nuances of tropical tastes and aromas.

A ripe mango will be soft and fragrant and benefits from an additional day or two ripening in a brown paper bag.

When the mango is ripe, cut it in half lengthwise as close as possible to the large flat pit. Pull the fruit away from the pit, as with an avocado, and slice or cube it.

Try tossing some mango into your next fruit, chicken or turkey salad. It's a luscious addition.

Fresh herbs and spices will also make your summer salad memorable. Sesame seeds and a splash of sesame oil will do wonders with leftover roast beef.

Cool dessert: Julie Faust puts finishing touches on a no-bake strawberry pie for a neighborhood picnic.

Play around with NO BAKE desserts

It's too hot to bake cookies, but there are other cool ways to introduce your kids to cooking this summer. Desserts are easy and fun.

BY GERRI RINSCHLER
SPECIAL WRITER

Well it's official! Summer vacation is half over. Many kids are back from camp, they've been out of school since June, and as they say, "there's nothing to do." Now is a great time to introduce them to the kitchen.

Sixth grader Julie Faust of Troy doesn't need coaxing, she's been cooking and baking since kindergarten. "Desserts are fun to make and eat," said Faust. Over the summer she's tested a few no-bake desserts for a neighborhood picnic. To keep her endeavors hassle free, she chose to work with ready-made graham cracker pie crusts.

After reading a number of recipes in her mother's cookbooks, Faust selected three no-bake pie recipes to test — chocolate-peanut butter ice cream, citrus fruit pie and strawberry. She took a vote at the picnic, and the pie made with strawberries, gelatin and whipping cream was the favorite.

Marilyn Faust, Julie's mom, believes that making desserts with kids is a good way to introduce them to the kitchen. "Most of the recipes are failure-proof, and when they're done they have a reward that's appealing."

Substitute turkey to cut fat in stew

LAURA LETOBAR

If you need a quick meal that is easy, low in fat, and great tasting, just follow this recipe.

Dorothy Cause of Bloomfield Hills serves this stew in bowls or over rice. She shops at Kroger and Felco Family Food Center. Both stores, she believes, provide the freshest produce along with fast and friendly service.

When you're preparing any dish that calls for ground beef, I always suggest substituting Turkey Store Brand 100 percent ground turkey breast. The difference in fat quantity between ground beef and ground turkey is unbelievable. Regular ground beef has 120 grams of fat per pound! While 100 percent ground turkey breast has only 6.3 grams of fat per pound.

If you have a die-hard beef eater in your family there is still hope for drastically reducing the fat in their diet. Healthy Choice brand lean ground beef can be found in the meat or freezer section of your grocery store. This product is a wonderful alternative to ground beef. It is very lean ground beef that has only 16 grams of fat per pound. Use and season this beef the same way you would regular beef. It is exceptional in casseroles, stews and sauces.

Labels can be deceiving! When you're using ground turkey be sure it is 100 percent ground turkey breast meat. If the label only says "lean ground turkey" this is about 43 grams of fat per pound. Ground beef that is "85 percent lean" has a whopping 64 grams of fat per pound. Also, the word "lean" can be associated with a wide range of fat percentages. Eighty-five percent lean ground beef has 64 grams of fat per pound while, 73 percent

KEELY WYGONIK

It's near the end of the raspberry season. Fall berries will be ready for picking the first week of September.

I've received quite a few calls from readers inquiring about peaches. I'm sad to report the news is not good. Farmers throughout Macomb and Oakland counties told me that this year's crop was devastated by frost.

Westview Orchards south of Romeo lost their peach crop, but they will have apples, pears and other vegetables in August. It was the same story at Southview Orchards in Romeo: no peaches.

Peaches will be available in small quantities at Blake's Big Apple Orchard in Armada and Ashton Orchards in Ortonville beginning in August. I'll keep you posted.

Creamy pasta's easy

Everyone is talking about low-fat cooking. But, oh, yuck, the texture, the taste! Delicious recipes can be low in fat with some tricks in cooking with low-fat products. The makers of Pet Evaporated Skimmed Milk, have developed just the tips needed to enjoy familiar, favorite foods while reducing the fat.

☐ Use evaporated skimmed milk for low-calorie and low-fat cooking.

☐ Do not dilute evaporated skimmed milk when using in recipes. Use it straight from the can.

☐ Recipes that work well include creamed soups, white pasta sauces, breakfast drinks, ice milks, ice creams, gravies, salad dressings, candies, puddings and pie fillings.

☐ Add to coffee, scrambled eggs and pancakes for a richer flavor without adding fat.

☐ An unused portion can be transferred to a covered container and stored in the refrigerator for 5 to 7 days. It also can be frozen and used later.

A new recipe booklet from the Home Economists at Pet Incorporated has been created to mark the new name for Pet Evaporated Skimmed Milk, first introduced 25 years ago as "Pet 99" and most recently known as Pet Light Evaporated Skimmed Milk. The booklet, "Quick & Creamy Dairy Goodness," which includes main dishes, side dishes and desserts, is available free to consumers.

To send for Pet's "Quick & Creamy Dairy Goodness" recipes, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and mail to: Quick & Creamy Dairy Goodness Recipes, Pet Incorporated, P.O. Box 66718, St. Louis, MO 63166-6718.

This quick and creamy pasta can be prepared in less than 20 minutes.

8 ounces (3 cups) dry rotini pasta, prepared according to package directions

Tips for healthy barbecuing

Nothing epitomizes summer more for Americans than firing up the grill for a backyard barbecue. Unfortunately, the traditional steaks, hamburgers and hot dogs that people grill are not the healthiest choices due to high fat and calorie contents.

To make barbecuing a healthier alternative, registered dietitian Fay Fitzgerald, coordinator of Henry Ford Hospital's Heart Smart program, offers these grilling guidelines.

"Grilling can be a very healthy and tasty way to cook, if you choose the right foods and preparation methods," said Fitzgerald. "You need to be careful because the way you grill can increase health risks such as cancer."

☐ Choose lean cuts of meat, which are lower in fat and calories. Marinating the meat before cooking will make it more tender.

☐ Reduce the amount of fat dripping onto the hot coals by trimming all fat and removing skin. The burning fat and resulting smoke produce potentially harmful substances.

☐ Minimize the meat's exposure to smoke and charring flames. You can do this by choosing thin cuts that cook quickly or by pre-cooking meat in the oven or microwave.

☐ Use foil to protect the food during most of the cooking time.

☐ Clean the grill rack of charred meat and fats after each use.

We reserve the right to limit quantities.

your HEALTH

by Sandra John

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION

Health enthusiasts may be interested in the fact that the first vitamin was not isolated in a scientific laboratory until 1911. The vitamin involved was thiamin, a B vitamin. Prior to that time, people simply noticed that some foods possessed qualities that enabled them to prevent disease. Such was the case when it was discovered that eating lima or lemons helped British sailors ward off scurvy while at sea. Today, not only are scientists able to identify 13 vitamins, but they are producing scientific evidence of their specific effects in disease prevention. This leaves consumers with more than a general feeling that vitamin supplementation is doing them good. It imbues them with a sense of control over their own health by preventing life-threatening disease.

When it comes to vitamins, minerals, and supplements, you won't find an assortment any larger, or better priced than our stock at the GOOD FOOD CO. As Michigan's largest discount natural food supermarket, we carry a bounty of organic fruits and vegetables, chicken and beef without hormones, whole grains, cereals and much, much more. For more information, please call us at 901-8100. We are located at 42015 Ford Rd. and we are open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 to 9:00 and Sunday from 10:00 to 6:00. Remember, food can be good for you and also taste great!

Workout: Bryan Morrison works out twice a day at the Botsford Pool in Livonia

On the mend

Morrison determined to beat frightening injury

Bryan Morrison has shown true grit, making a steady recovery from a serious diving mishap a year ago in Europe. His outlook improves by the day.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Bryan Morrison went to a movie in Westland last November, but was turned away at the door.

It had nothing to do with his age, rather a flight of stairs.

With no ramp or elevator for the handicapped, Morrison knew his odds of making it while sitting in a wheelchair were pretty steep.

"I had no way to get in because the show was upstairs," said Morrison, a former all-state swimmer who graduated in 1992 from Livonia Stevenson. "They told me to call before I leave home next time so they can let me know what's playing downstairs."

Morrison has been busy ever since writing his own script on how to recover from a neck injury that not only threatened his life, but had doctors wondering if he'd ever walk again.

Morrison, a member of the Michigan State University swimming team in the 1992-93 school year, broke the fifth and sixth vertebrae in his neck after diving into surf off the coast of France last summer.

For several months the wheelchair was his best transportation. Paralyzed from the neck down immediately following his injury, Morrison has slowly regained movement and is walking with a limp on his left side.

Morrison is still considered a paraplegic because of lack of motion in his left hand. He also has trouble walking, but his progress has been nothing short of amazing.

After spending four months at a world-renowned hospital for spinal cord victims in Denver, Colo., Morrison returned to work on an engineering degree at Michigan State University last semester.

He has been busier than most students this summer, starting his day at 7 a.m. and returning at 7 p.m.

Morrison swims twice a day at the Botsford Pool in Livonia, and in between works four hours as a research analyst in Southfield.

One of Morrison's companions in the Botsford Pool is his cousin, Matt McCowan, who says he wins some of their races. Morrison isn't embarrassed ed about losing to the 9-year-old.

Bright outlook: Morrison, a 1992 Livonia Stevenson graduate and former swimmer at Michigan State University, has a lot going for him despite suffering a serious neck injury a year ago.

"I'm slower than I'd like to be, but at least I'm swimming again," Morrison said.

After his afternoon swim, Morrison heads over to the Livonia YMCA to lift weights. Morrison doesn't need the wheelchair anymore but the thought of using one will never leave his mind.

"You don't realize how much handicapped people are put down until you try to go places in wheelchairs and can't do it," he said. "I plan on walking without a limp. For the most part it's in my hands. It depends how much I want to do it."

Helpless feeling

Morrison was vacationing in France with friend Kamp Purdy of West Bloomfield, an MSU swimmer, when the accident happened around 2 a.m. June 17, 1993.

Morrison said he doesn't remember anything three to four hours before the accident and anything a week after the accident.

His mother, Bonnie Morrison, remembers getting the phone call about the bad news, then after the flight overcast, seeing her son lying helplessly on a hospital bed.

Morrison, 6-foot-6 and 205 pounds before the accident, had about as much control of his body as a newborn baby.

"Can you even imagine going to France and seeing the unbelievable trauma he was going through, his body shaking uncontrollably?" his mother said. "His eyes were so red I didn't even know who he was. And today, he's so normal. Every time someone calls and asks about it I have to cry."

Doctors took a bone from Morrison's hip and fused it in surgery with his fifth and sixth vertebrae, which were shattered.

Morrison didn't suffer any lasting head injuries and he remained in the hospital 31 days before being transported home on an airplane.

The Morrison family had to pay for eight seats to fit Bryan in a horizontal position on the flight home.

Morrison spent a month at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor before being taken to Denver, Colo., for continued rehabilitation at Craig Hospital.

Morrison's weight dipped to about 160 pounds, but he's back up to 185 pounds with his ambitious regimen.

His Christmas present was being with the MSU swim team on the Christmas Training trip to Coral Springs, Fla. He'd always try to be in the stands cheering on his former teammates last season.

"Just his recovery in general surprised us," said Alec Mull, co-captain from Lansing Eastern and Morrison's former roommate. "He was so close to dying and now he's up, walking around. He was a hard worker but bad things always seem to happen to good people. He's one of those people that will go out of his way for you."

On the job

When he returned from MSU this spring, Morrison was hired at Chrysler Service Contracts, where his mother works.

"My boss is so happy with him," Bonnie said. "The first day on the job he was able to accomplish some research that three others hired before him were unable to do."

Livonia advances in Koufax playoffs

Livonia's Sandy Koufax entry (13- to 14-year-olds) advanced in the Little Caesars Amateur Baseball Federation double-elimination tournament with a 5-4 first-round win Thursday over Redford at Orchard Lake St. Mary's.

Casey Rogowski singled home Jay Laura from second base with the game-winning run to give Livonia, now 30-3 overall, the one-run victory.

Livonia, managed by Bill Rabe, advances to the second round where it will face the Birmingham-Riverview winner, 6:30 tonight at Orchard Lake.

Roy Rabe scored on Rogowski's sacrifice fly and Vince Marsico scampered home on a passed ball to give Livonia a 2-0 second-inning advantage against Redford.

Steve Kesteloot, the Livonia starter, held Redford scoreless through the first four innings before Redford struck for one run in the top of the fifth, followed by three in the sixth thanks to four consecutive singles.

Trailing 4-2, Livonia rallied for three runs,

BASEBALL

Justin Kerr reached base on a selder's choice, cranking Derek Fox, who singled to start the inning.

Matt Gabrielli, who pitched the final two innings of scoreless relief to pick up the victory, doubled home Kerr to make it 4-3. Laura's line-drive single tied it at 4-4. Laura then stole second to set up Rogowski's game-winning RBI (his second of the game).

"There comes a point in a game, that if the players want it, they have to generate more motivation from within," Rabe said. "Our guys reached back for a little more."

On July 15-17, Livonia also captured the 16-team Brighton Invitational.

Livonia downed Brighton I, 11-1, as Marsico terminated the game with a towering homer. Gabrielli was the winning pitcher.

Sporting a team earned-run average of less than one per game, Livonia won four straight en route to the final as Ryan Wilmering beat South Lyon II (20-2); Marsico defeated Burton (11-1); Rabe topped the South Farmington Giants (11-0); and Kesteloot blanked Rochester Rad (4-0).

Rounding out the Livonia Koufax roster: Brett Dubay, Mark Mink, Andy Morche, Rob Szybielski, Brad Tracy and Brent Wojtylak.

Assistant coaches include Tim Kerr and Dick Tracy.

Bronco Regional hero

State champions from Michigan, Kentucky and Indiana will join the host Westland Youth Athletic Association team in a Bronco Tournament (11- to 12-year-olds), Friday through Sunday at Central City Park.

Action begins with a doubleheader at 6 p.m., followed by two games Saturday starting at 11 a.m. The finals are set for 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Sunday (if necessary).

The winner advances to the Zono Tournament the next weekend.

Hines Park gets free ride

By BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

This wasn't the way Dave Carroll envisioned winning the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League's regular-season championship.

Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury won by forfeit when Wendy's of Ann Arbor, dressing only six players, couldn't come up with a full lineup Friday at Ford Field.

"It's garbage the way it turned out," said Hines Park manager Carroll, who also learned that Wendy's would be forfeiting Sunday's season-ending double-header, too. "Try to tell those guys from Westland (the second place team) that they're happy. But at least those other teams — Westland, Delwal and Caesars — are still playing for something."

"I'd rather play, and get beat going into the playoffs, than not know how good we are." For the second year in a row, Carroll's club (20-8 overall for 40 points) will be the No. 1 seed entering the first round of the playoffs, which begin July 29 at Ford Field.

Westland (16-11), Delwal (14-14) and Caesars (14-13) were also jockeying for the final three places in the four-team tournament, which will send a representative to the All-American Amateur Baseball Association (ages 20-and-under) regional Aug. 5 in Altoona, Pa.

Garden City Collegiate (14-10-1) is also vying for a playoff berth pending an appeal about a roster rules infraction. GC manager Fred Holton, who was temporarily suspended, will plead his case before LCBL directors Gary Gray and Lyle Trudell Wednesday afternoon at Livonia's Department of

COLLEGIATE

Parks and Recreation.

"Even if the coach makes a mistake, the kids shouldn't have to suffer," Carroll said of GC's plight. "The kids are the ones who pay the price and they really didn't really have anything to do with it. I'd like to see Garden City given a chance because they play hard."

As for action on the diamond, Hines Park clinched a share of the title by outslugging Walter's Appliance, 10-7, Wednesday at Ford Field.

Winning pitcher Brian Paluk, a Redford Catholic Central High product now at Saginaw Valley State, survived a five-run second-inning to raise his collegiate record to 5-0.

Paluk, a 6-foot-5 right-hander, scattered seven hits and one walk over seven innings. He fanned seven in going the distance.

"Craig Benedict (Friday's scheduled starter vs. Wendy's) has been our best pitcher since the Fourth of July weekend," Carroll said. "He's had the best control and he's one of the guys who's worked the hardest."

"And I know Brian has struggled to get his pitches where he wants, but he's worked extremely hard, too. I expect us to be solid there when the playoffs start."

Hines Park, despite three fielding errors, got contributions from several people on the offensive end.

Charlie Winstel (Plymouth Salem/Oakland University) broke open a close game in the sixth with a two-run double.

Ed Gundry (Salem/U-D Mercy), Brian Burns, Heath Fowler, Benedict (Canton/Madonna University) and Aaron Rumberger (ex-Redford CC) each added two hits. Burns and Fowler each knocked in a run.

Ed Valdez, the Walter's starter, took the loss. Brad Jones belted a two-run homer for Walter's. Craig Peterson (Madonna) and Danny Taylor each contributed two hits.

It was Hines Park's fifth straight win after losing four straight.

"When we were losing, our pitchers were not making the right pitches in certain situations and we weren't moving the runners along when we had people on base," Carroll said. "Lately we've made good plays in the field and hitting. I think we're a good team. When the games are on the line I think we'll get good pitching. And we've got some clutch players."

At least Carroll could talk about his team.

Meanwhile, Dr. Brian Lang, manager of last place Wendy's, left the diamond Friday disgusted over his team's lack of loyalty. On Wednesday, Wendy's suited up only nine players in a 9-5 loss to Garden City.

"I'll tell Gary Gray we're finished for the year, even if I have to pay the fine," Lang told his six troopers. "And we won't have a banquet either. Why should I spend $600 when guys don't even show up? I'm thinking about not coming back with this program next year, too."

No, it wasn't the way Lang envisioned the season would end either.

Gators gain split with Canton Cobras

The Livonia Gators gave the Canton Cobras their first loss in an Incredible Girls Fast-Pitch League doubleheader played Thursday at Plymouth Canton.

The Cobras won the first game 7-2 before the Gators came back to win the nightcap 6-1.

The crossover doubleheader outcome gave the Gators a 10-4 overall record. The Cobras are 13-1.

Alicia December suffered the loss in the first game, allowing nine hits with one strikeout and two walks over six innings.

Jessie Jenkins earned the victory in the second game, allowing only one hit which came with two outs in the seventh inning. She struck out six and walked five.

Jenny Clulow was 3-for-4 with two runs scored and Stephanie Nelson also scored twice.

HORNETS 21-12, STINGERS 6-8: The Farmington Hills Hornets won both games of a doubleheader Thursday against the Garden City Stingers at East Middle School.

In the first game, a 21-6 victory by the Hornets, Angela Hudson suffered the loss for the Stingers.

FAST-PITCH

Hudson walked 10 batters, contributing to the Hornets' run production.

The Stingers are 6-8 overall. Becky Day and Stephanie Smith had two hits each for the Stingers. Smith had a double and three RBI and Hannah Ault of Livonia was 1-2 with a run scored.

Kelly Shanks walked three times and scored two runs. Mindie Chapman suffered the loss in the second game despite allowing only three walks. Shanks again had three walks and Smith was 1-1 with a steal of home.

ASTROS 14-7, FANTASTICS 3-3: The Astros broke a 3-3 tie in the top of the fifth inning of Thursday's second game at Livonia Franklin and swept a doubleheader against the Farmington Fantastic.

Jami Grigal had two hits, including a triple with two outs in the fifth. Grigal scored the eventual winning run on an overthrow at third base.

Jocelyn Fendelet and Kelly Kirk had two hits and an RBI each. Julie Buie, who was the winning pitcher in Game 1, contributed an RBI.

Chrissy Harkless threw a five-hitter with five strikeouts and eight walks in the nightcap, which lasted only five innings because of the time limit.

Buie tossed a two-hitter with six strikeouts and seven walks in the first game victory, which lasted five innings because of the mercy rule. She had a no-hitter until the fifth inning. Buie also drove in four runs at the plate. Three of her RBI came on a bases-loaded triple. Fendelet was 2-2 with four RBI, and Lori Patalocco was 2-2 with two RBI.
