

Smileys under consideration for Unicode 13.0

From: Jeremy Burge and the Emoji Subcommittee (ESC)

To: Unicode Technical Committee (UTC)

Date: 26/03/2019

Version: 1.0

Introduction

The Emoji Subcommittee (ESC) is tasked with managing incoming emoji proposals and preparing these for submission to the Unicode Technical Committee (UTC). In addition, the ESC makes recommendations on proposals forwarded to the UTC Document Register.

This document combines a number of sources to present a combined list of smileys being considered for addition in Unicode 13.0. Sources are linked within this document and include individual smiley proposals, review notes of smileys available on other social platforms, as well as a number of entries which are under consideration but do not have an individual proposal document at this stage.

Table 1: Smileys Considered for Encoding (currently available on other platforms)

Document 18-258 from Kushim Jiang compares smileys available on QQ or WeChat platforms which do not have Unicode code points.

The emoji subcommittee has reviewed this document and has compiled the following smileys which may be suitable for encoding. This does not yet form a recommendation.
