From the Dean

Thank you for everything you've done to support the school — whether through volunteering your expertise, advising students, or making a financial contribution. You will find recorded in the pages of this book a few stories of how the support of alumni and friends like you has been translated into impactful endeavors. There are many, many more such stories. Indeed, everything we do at the school is made possible by your generosity and commitment.

From its founding, our school has had a mission that is both distinct and distinctive — to educate leaders for business and society. It is that entwining of business and society through everything we do that has always made us stand out.

We are in the midst of a fundraising campaign, which we call Driving Purpose. The tangible support we raise through this campaign, in both financial terms and in contributions of time and expertise, will have a determinative effect on the reach and impact of our cherished mission in coming years. We are focusing our efforts on three areas that we see as crucial to the continuance of that mission, which are illustrated in the following pages:

Advancing Knowledge

The most enduring thing a great university can provide to the world is the excellence of its scholarship. The work of our faculty drives bold ideas across a broad range of topics and shapes new areas of inquiry. To continue and expand this vital contribution, we must equip our faculty with the resources and tools they need to conduct their best research.

Developing Leaders

To stay true to our mission and purpose, we must also make it possible for the most able, diverse, and passionate students — individuals whose goals align with our values — to attend and fully partake in SOM’s unique learning experience.

Concurrently, we must constantly seek out new educational initiatives that only our special school can ably execute: endeavors that reflect management and society’s ever-changing complexities and that equip and inspire our students to be effective, broadminded leaders across all fields and pursuits.

Amplifying Impact

Inherent in the name “Driving Purpose” is our whole community’s commitment to making a positive difference through actions great and small. Your collective wisdom and experience is a boon to our school community and to the many broader communities you touch. Throughout everything we do at the school, we seek to facilitate and strengthen your efforts to live out our shared values.

During the coming year and throughout our Driving Purpose campaign, I look forward to conversations with alumni and friends about these three areas of need and all that we are doing to ensure the efficacy and vibrancy of our mission.

We are also starting to look ahead to the 50th anniversary of the arrival of the first students at SOM. There is no question that the school, with the support of friends like you, has reached a place of prominence, influence, and impact in the last half century. This milestone will serve as an opportunity for us to think together about how we can continue the school's development and do even more to shape the future of business and society.

Best Regards,

ADVANCING KNOWLEDGE

With your support, groundbreaking faculty research is shaping a better world.

New insights emerge when we bring together the great thinkers on our faculty and provide them the resources to pursue intensive research. Philanthropic support makes it possible for Yale SOM to build the infrastructure that launches new lines of inquiry and sparks inspiration.

Put to use, that knowledge fuels innovation and progress. Our faculty contribute to that process through teaching, mentoring, and collaboration across industries, governments, and other organizations — with the emphasis on both pragmatic questions and ethical priorities that is our hallmark.

Investing in Society

A $20 million gift enabled the school to establish the Swensen Asset Management Institute, which will sponsor new programs and support ongoing faculty research. The initiative is being led by Tobias Moskowitz, the Dean Takahashi '80 BA, '83 MPPM Professor of Finance.

Tobias Moskowitz on the Swensen Asset Management Institute:

“What we envision for this institute is a place where we can foster good research in investment management, apply that to our curriculum here to teach the students, and support all the great work faculty do here at Yale SOM...

“In asset management, ultimately, we serve our clients, and clients can be donors, if you're running an endowment, or they can be labor unions where you invest for people's retirement, or they can be corporations or cultural institutions. But being responsible to those constituents is always paramount...

“There's also a responsibility to society that we believe in firmly here at Yale SOM, which is to understand how markets allocate resources to their best uses and the uses that benefit society...

“Financing worthwhile ventures and investments is critical to allocating resources to the right places. So understanding how financial markets work is something that we want our students to understand and appreciate.”

“SOM is in a unique position to host this asset management program because of the finance faculty that we’ve attracted over the years and built up.”

Initiatives in Action

Two other initiatives announced in the last year and funded by generous donations hit the ground running.

The Yale Program on Stakeholder Innovation and Management

When new funding meets the entrepreneurial energy of SOM faculty, students, and staff, the reaction can be powerful – and rapid.

The Yale Program on Stakeholder Innovation and Management was created in November 2022 with funding from a group of generous donors. By the spring semester, cases created by Y-SIM leaders Ravi Dhar, the George Rogers Clark Professor of Management and Marketing, and Jon Iwata, former IBM senior vice president and chief brand officer, were being used in the capstone course of the MBA integrated curriculum, called the Executive. The cases examined contemporary leadership challenges, such as leading at the intersection of multiple stakeholders that oftentimes have conflicting agendas, how to determine what societal issues and opportunities to address, and how to create value for stakeholders while also maximizing long-term shareholder value.

The Meng Impact Investment Fund

The school’s announcement in January 2023 that it was launching a new student-led investment fund, called the Meng Impact Investment Fund, marked the culmination of an effort by generations of students. The launch was made possible by a generous gift from Leon Meng ’97, which provided the capital for investments aimed at improving business and society. Going from a concept to a functioning organization is no easy task, but by the end of the school year, the student leaders of the Meng Fund had put in place an operating structure, developed their investment philosophy, and started researching investment opportunities. By the time you read this, they will have made initial investments in early-stage businesses with high potential for both impact and profit.

“In 2016, I served a term as the chief economist at the Federal Communications Commission, and since then, many of my projects have come out of issues I encountered there. I’m looking at firm strategy questions, but from a regulator’s perspective. Oftentimes people have an adverse reaction to the word regulation because it sounds like Big Brother government. To me, regulation is just the process for identifying a problem with a market. Sometimes, that can be addressed by policy, but in my view it should attempt to do nothing more than necessary to make the market function better.”

“Over the course of my career, the key question I keep coming back to is, ‘What does it mean to be generous?’ When people do something generous like donating to a charity, do they think, ‘How will my giving benefit the most people?’ That would be the optimal, rational way. But for most of us that’s not what we do. I believe it’s valuable to understand how our patterns of behavior systematically differ from effectiveness maximization and why.”

Remembering a Legendary Teacher

Victor Vroom – a pivotal figure in the history of Yale SOM, a pioneering scholar of leadership and human motivation, and a beloved colleague and teacher – died in July 2023.

Known by generations of SOM students as a generous and devoted teacher, Vroom was the author of studies of situational leadership that changed the way the subject is understood and taught.

DEVELOPING LEADERS

Gifts to scholarship funds make an immediate impact on SOM students.

At the heart of a Yale SOM education is the drive to unleash an individual's strongest sense of purpose, equip them with the tools to turn ideas into action, and connect them with networks and knowledge that raise the limit on what is possible for them to accomplish.

Scholarship funds are often critical in drawing the most talented and capable students to SOM. Making it possible for anyone to attend SOM, regardless of their financial resources, also ensures that our community brings together students from a variety of backgrounds. In short, scholarships bring our mission to life.

The Fruit of Friendship

Charley Ellis:

“Bob and I both had strong feelings about opening the door for gifted young people to get an education and go out and make great contributions.”

Bob Lawrence and Charley Ellis shared a lot in common. They both graduated from Yale, for starters. They both worked in the investment industry. And as Ellis tells it, they shared a perspective on their profession: they both prioritized serving their clients above self-advancement. In Ellis’s view, Lawrence, who passed away in 2019, was “a wonderful example of a professional’s professional.”

They were both also longtime supporters of Yale; in fact, it was at a Sterling Fellows dinner in 2013 that they discovered one more point of strong agreement.

As Ellis recalls, they had known each other for years, both through professional connections and through their work for Yale. Lawrence had chaired the library committee and was a member of the Yale University Council, while Ellis had chaired the university’s investment committee as a trustee, among other activities.

But at that dinner, Lawrence and Ellis found another commonality as they learned more about Yale SOM’s need for increased scholarship funding. Other competitive business schools have larger scholarship budgets, and such funding can make a decisive difference in whether a talented student elects to attend SOM. Scholarships also help students graduate with less debt and make career choices based on their desire to have impact rather than the need to repay loans.

“Money should not stand in the way of someone being able to do something terrific as an individual and for their community,” said Ellis. “In America and around the world, we’re in need of talented leaders... Bob and I both had strong feelings about opening the door for gifted young people to get an education and go out and make great contributions.”

The Robert A. Lawrence ’47 BA and Charles D. Ellis ’59 BA Scholarship was born. The joint scholarship was a “way of expressing friendship that also helps the school and advances deserving people,” said Ellis. Over the last nine years, the scholarship has helped 18 students pursue management education at Yale. The recipients now work in finance, social impact consulting, and renewable energy, among other fields. They have used their skills to help investors acquire soccer teams in Brazil and to develop sustainable plant-based foods.

“I look back at my years at Yale SOM as a transformative time in my life,” said Giovanni Cruz ’20, one of those recipients. “I’m deeply grateful to the Lawrence & Ellis scholarship for making it possible for me to have this experience.”

Bob Lawrence died at the age of 93, mourned by a loving family, a large network of friends, and many others who recalled his kindness, integrity, and commitment to philanthropy. “He felt indebted to Yale and was always so proud of his connection with Yale,” said Patsy Lawrence, his wife of more than 70 years. “There is no doubt that the Sterling Fellows dinner was always a special occasion for us.

And our engagement with Yale in all different ways was a highlight in our life.”

The Lawrence & Ellis Scholarship lives on, a testament to Bob Lawrence’s friendship with Charley Ellis and their commitment to their community. Indeed, the endowed fund will help generations of SOM students pursue a similarly impactful life.

“It’s inspiring when you meet the students,” said Ellis. “I think anybody who contributes a scholarship will find that there’s nothing so exciting as being able to open the door to opportunity for someone talented.”

Leadership Trajectory

Recipients of the Robert A. Lawrence ’47 BA and Charles D. Ellis ’59 BA Scholarship describe how attending SOM has helped them launch meaningful careers while building rich lives.

Giovanni Cruz '20

“Yale SOM has had a tremendous impact on my life — from the incredible network of friends that I continue to rely on for advice and support to the opportunity to join the field of social impact consulting, which has allowed me to work with social sector leaders aiming to solve some of the world’s most pressing issues.”

2020: Joined the Bridgespan Group as a consultant

2021: Got a puppy (a labradoodle named Bailey)

2022: Promoted to manager at the Bridgespan Group

Charlotte Parker '13 YC, '23

“Studying at SOM allowed me the opportunity to explore a long-time interest in sustainability. I credit A.J. Wasserstein’s Patterns in Entrepreneurship class with encouraging me to look for smaller companies where I could have an impact immediately after graduation.”

2023: Moved to New York to start as director of community engagement at Dimension Renewable Energy

Lily Engbith '17 YC, '24

“I have sought niche opportunities to learn more about the world of private capital. My in-semester internship has allowed me to participate in the creation of unique public-private partnerships between state agencies and local tech startups.”

2023: Interned at CT Innovations

Danilo Caixeiro '19

“Matix Capital, a company advising investors looking to acquire soccer clubs in Brazil, is now the number one buy-side sports M&A advisor in Brazil, bringing in over $200 million in direct foreign investment in 2022 alone. Most of our initial connections in the soccer industry came when we organized the first Yale Soccer Conference in 2019, so I can say that Yale was the launching pad for our venture.”

2019: Formed Matix Capital with Yale SOM classmate Thairo Arruda

2021: Closed first major deal

2022: Advised investor in the largest Brazilian football club acquisition to date

2022: Joined Eagle Football as EVP of Strategic Planning

Charles Posner '18

“When I started my new role in strategy, I had a great time going back through my SOM coursework to help prepare for some of the projects I would be taking on—everything from Customer to Behavioral Economics to Entrepreneurial Finance. It was a reminder of the tremendous amount I learned in two short years.”

2018: Joined Wayfair as senior manager, category management

2021: Promoted to associate director and launched new team

2021: Had a child, Nathan

2023: Joined Perfect Day as associate director, strategy and business operations

Kelley McKee '19

“I took two real estate courses from Kevin Gray. The coursework relates directly to what I do now, as I spend much of my time working with real estate private equity managers. On a personal level, I made lifelong friends at SOM, many of whom are here in New York. I've also had the joy of seeing SOM friends while traveling abroad.”

2019: Joined Morgan Stanley

2022: Joined Bank of America as a vice president

2022: Traveled to England, France, and Ireland

INVESTING IN STUDENTS A KEY SCHOOL PRIORITY

A global and diverse group, our students are driven to lead in a variety of roles and industries and to tackle today's biggest challenges. When students are drawn to our mission and approach, we must make it financially possible for them to join our community. This is why increasing scholarship funding is a critical campaign priority.

Last fiscal year, the school spent $10,809,556 on MBA scholarships—roughly one-third of which was funded by the generosity of donors—in order to make an SOM education more accessible. But we still lag behind what our peer business schools can offer. Now is the time to make up for lost ground and invest in the next generation of leaders.

MBA SCHOLARSHIPS

Over the last decade, Yale SOM has increased its support for scholarships, which can often be the deciding factor in a student's choice to attend the school.

AMPLIFYING IMPACT

Yale SOM alumni put our mission into action by making a difference wherever they go.

Yale SOM's mission to educate leaders for business and society begins in the classrooms and courtyards of the Yale campus. But the fulfillment of that mission takes place outside our walls, when the school engages with the world around us and our graduates help solve the problems facing their organizations and communities.

That's why a priority of the Driving Purpose campaign is to more closely tie our community together and grow our impact here in New Haven and around the globe.

A Lifetime of Service

By Rebecca Beyer

Earlier this year, Rich Morales '99 retired from the U.S. Army as a brigadier general. Over three decades in the military, he led troops in combat repeatedly, earned an MBA and a PhD, taught at West Point, and served in the White House. He says that leadership comes with a set of obligations to the people you lead.

As a high school student in El Paso, Texas, Rich Morales '99 received a full scholarship to the University of Texas at Austin, where he planned to major in mechanical engineering. Then he fell behind in his classes as a freshman and lost funding.

Instead of writing him off, however, a military science professor penned him a letter of recommendation for the United States Military Academy, where Morales had been waitlisted the year before, writing that Morales “will make a good Army officer if he can get out of his own way.”

The professor was right. In 1989, Morales graduated with distinction and a degree in aerospace engineering from West Point. He led soldiers as a platoon leader, United Nations peacekeeper in the Balkans, tank company and task force commander in Iraq, and in command of a brigade distributed across seven states. He served two stints in the White House under Presidents George W. Bush and Barack Obama, and was the chair of West Point’s Department of Systems Engineering. In April, after 34 years in the Army, the Purple Heart recipient retired as a brigadier general.

And he isn’t done yet. Next, Morales will start two new positions as leader in residence at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy and professor of the practice of innovation management and design at Brown University’s School of Engineering.

“That might not sound like retirement,” he says, “but it’s a real page turn.” And yet, he adds, there is a familiar focus on “teaching and learning while trying to make a difference.”

Morales may be starting a new chapter, but the story of his life has consistently been centered around a few themes, including family, leadership, and impact—on students, fellow soldiers, and at the highest levels of government.

That his story started in part with a substantial setback is a lesson Morales says he regularly shares. Losing his scholarship as an undergraduate student “was my first, big outside-of-the-nest failure,” he says. “It was a great lesson for me, and one that no one else could teach.”

West Point was a second chance, and Morales made the most of it. He loved the academy and the challenge of serving in the Army. Not long after he graduated, he was sent to Iraq, where he participated in the first ground contact of the Gulf War. A decade later, during the Iraq War, he spent more than three years in the country, at one point commanding more than 1,000 soldiers who were responsible for one-third of Baghdad. He says he learned a lot about leadership as a young officer. Being a leader “is not about the rank you wear on your collar,” he says. “You’re going to be given power, but you have to earn it through your competence.”

The Army first exposed him to the importance of embracing everyone in order to build a team. “I’ve met a lot of good people who didn’t see the world the way I did,” he says. The important thing is that “most wanted to make the unit better.” Good leaders, he adds, create a culture in which people of different backgrounds can speak their minds and know that what they are hearing from others is “their ground truth.”

In 1997, Morales started the MBA program at Yale SOM. He embraced the chance to learn in a new environment, he says, taking classes at Yale Law School and enjoying the curriculum at SOM, especially economics courses with the late Professor Sharon Oster and operations management courses with Professor Emeritus Arthur J. Swersey. He also loved the community he found on campus. He remains in touch with many of his classmates, including Laszlo Bock '99, who led People Operations at Google before founding Humu and Gretel.ai.

“I developed these strong relationships – this strong, almost Army-like connectivity with people that are super authentic,” he says. “When I was in Iraq, on a tough day I could pick up the phone and call classmates like Laszlo, Scot Bemis, or Chris Granger.”

When he became a professor at West Point, Morales – who has also earned a PhD from Cambridge University and master’s degrees from the U.S. Naval War College and National Defense University – borrowed plenty of ideas from his SOM instructors, he says. He invited cadets to his home for breakfast, the way Professor Emeritus Douglas W. Rae did; he started his classes with stories in the style of Swersey. At the academy,

Rich Morales:

“I developed these strong relationships—this strong, almost Army-like connectivity with people that are super authentic... When I was in Iraq, on a tough day I could pick up the phone and call classmates like Laszlo Bock, Scot Bemis, or Chris Granger.”

in addition to his teaching and his mentorship of cadets, Morales directed a multi-million-dollar research effort focused on improving performance across public- and private-sector partners.

In 2001, Morales was selected as one of 12 White House Fellows in the Executive Office of the President. He worked with the Office of Management and Budget and as an aide to the head of NASA and, after the fellowship ended, on a team that helped create the Department of Homeland Security. In 2013, he returned to the White House, this time as executive director of Joining Forces, a national initiative that supports employment, wellness, and education for servicemembers, veterans, and their families.

“Outside of leading in combat, Joining Forces was probably the hardest I’ve ever worked in my life,” remembers Morales. That role was a culmination of his focus as a commander on the balance between the mission and the well-being of his troops and their families. “It was so personal to me.”

In each of his positions, Morales says, he has tried to do what he has felt is right, even when it is difficult. “When you’re a commander – or a manager – you can choose to do whatever the last person did and just try not to get fired,” he explains. Or you can try to make things better.

Throughout, he has relied on the love and support of his family – which he calls his “center of gravity” – including his wife, Christy, and his son, Matthew, as well as “life-changing” friendships forged at places like Yale SOM.

“If everything froze, at any point – if I was only a lieutenant, and my career was cut short by a decision or circumstance, but I was doing what I thought was the right thing – that’s fine,” he says. “My wife still loves me.”

Moments of Meaning

We asked some of the most active SOM alumni volunteers and donors to tell us about the impactful interactions they've had while working with the school.

Pam Farr '78

"I've had the privilege of watching SOM begin, evolve, grow, adapt to new generations, and become one of the leading management schools in the country, all while holding tight to its original mission of educating leaders for business and society. One moment that stands out for me is when I had the privilege of being president of SOMAA as the school relocated to Evans Hall, a 21st-century home for SOM, and working with the dean to help redefine the role of SOM alumni leadership with the formation of the Dean's Alumni Advisory Council."

Roles: Former President, Alumni Advisory Board; Board of Advisors; Chapter Leader; Co-chair, Reunion Gift Committee; Reunion Planning Committee; Student Mentor

Sam Wong '89

"One fun part of my volunteering is interacting with so many different Yalies from not only SOM but the entire Yale community. In Hong Kong, we have also created a lunch club where we randomly assign two people to meet each other for lunch. It has really been fun making new friends in the same way that we did at Yale over dining hall meals. The many tiny interactions that I get from meeting so many different and interesting Yalies are so impactful to me."

Roles: Admissions Volunteer; Country Captain; Hong Kong Chapter Leader; Greater China Board of Advisors; President, Yale Club of Hong Kong; Reunion Gift Committee

Linda Schupack '83 YC, '92

"I was a co-chair of my 30th reunion gift committee. The entire experience illustrated the idea that giving is participation, participation allows for connection, and that connection results in impact—both financial and on a very human level. From the initial committee calls that reconnected people who had not seen each other in many years to the individual calls that allowed me to catch up on people's lives and talk about our shared life stages and through the very generous contributions our classmates made to SOM, for the funding of scholarships — it was a wonderful reflection of the impact of past, present, and future."

Roles: YCCI Advisory Board; Student Club Volunteer; Admissions Volunteer; Reunion Gift Committee; Reunion Planning Committee

Ayotunde Uko '17

“My EMBA class had the distinct honor of enrolling 42% women within its ranks, a phenomenal achievement led by the exceptional admissions team, which left an indelible impact on me. During my two years in the program, I was determined to pay it forward. To achieve this goal, I helped recruit exceptional individuals from less represented backgrounds into the EMBA and Women’s Leadership Program at Yale SOM. I have seen the outcomes of this effort years later, and they remain outstanding. This experience, amongst many others at Yale SOM, further solidified my commitment towards leadership in business and society and has influenced my thinking regarding the roles that I have chosen to take on since graduation.”

Roles: Reunion Gift Committee; Reunion Planning Committee; EMBA Program Volunteer

Becky Vitas Schamis '00

“I recently had a wonderfully typical conversation with a rising second-year scholarship recipient who is interning in the office of the governor of Connecticut. Even though her professional background was in the private sector, she chose to spend her summer internship learning about the inner workings of public office and the role of government. She is a true product of the SOM community, network, and spirit, and it was rewarding to hear about her fulfillment on many levels. My interactions with alums, professors, and students always confirm for me that SOM truly puts into practice their mission of educating leaders for business and society and I am proud to be part of that community.”

Roles: Alumni Fund Chair; Reunion Gift Committee; Reunion Planning Committee; Board of Advisors; Class Agent; Admissions Volunteer; Co-chair, Driving Purpose Campaign; For Humanity Campaign Committee

Preeti Adhikary '21

“I was a part of the MAM '21 cohort that survived the COVID years of hybrid and remote learning. Students from those couple of years missed out on a big chunk of in-person interaction, co-learning, and bonding. When I started volunteering with Yale SOM’s NYC Chapter, I was pleasantly surprised with the turnout at events — not just in terms of volume but also vigor. Our happy hours were some of the first in-person interaction our alums from various generations had in years and the joy we got to experience and share was truly priceless!”

Roles: New York City Chapter Leader; Class Secretary; Reunion Planning Committee; Social Media Ambassador

INVESTING IN YALE SOM

Our generous donors, volunteers, and supporters are acknowledged in a digital version of this publication. To view a listing of individuals, corporations, and foundations who supported the school from the beginning of the campaign on July 1, 2018, through June 30, 2023, please visit som.yale.edu/impact2023.

Please email any feedback or corrections to yalesomalumni@yale.edu.

The momentum for Driving Purpose—
The Yale SOM Campaign is incredible, and I am grateful for the myriad ways you are helping us achieve, sustain, and advance the school's mission to educate leaders for business & society.

Your generosity, service, and volunteer engagement impact every aspect of the school. You help to increase access for outstanding students and support our faculty's groundbreaking research—which produces important insights that are directly applied in our classrooms. You encourage our students' entrepreneurial initiatives and broader community-building activities locally and around the world. You share your wisdom and expertise with us. And just as importantly, you continue to inspire our students, and all of us—both by the example of your achievements and leadership and by your commitment to SOM's values and mission.

This year, the school launched key initiatives that build on the strengths of our distinctive research and teaching. As we approach Yale SOM's 50th anniversary in 2026, our driving purpose is to continue to increase investments in areas of the school that embody and advance its founding mission. Through these efforts we will continue to find new ways to synthesize all this vital work, with the mission as our lodestar, to make a difference within and beyond the walls of Evans Hall.

Gifts have a transformative impact on the school, our faculty, and our students—both immediately and over time. I know that Dean Charles is immensely appreciative of your generosity and of the contributions you have made to the school's future. The resources raised so far, and those we will raise through the remainder of the Driving Purpose campaign, will ensure that Yale SOM remains a pioneer in management education. The strength and the vibrancy of our school depends on your involvement, and I ask that you continue to keep giving back, staying connected, and contributing to SOM's present and future success.

As you read through this report, I hope you take great pride in knowing the amazing effect that you are having on the Yale campus and beyond. The Yale SOM community has a spirit and dedication that is truly unparalleled.

Warmly and appreciatively,

Joel A. Getz

DRIVING PURPOSE

The Yale SOM Campaign

Deepen our school's impact and create extraordinary momentum for the next half century.

Driving Purpose – The Yale SOM Campaign positions the school for the next 50 years and beyond with its dual objectives of raising at least $325 million by June 30, 2026, and strengthening and expanding our network of alumni and friends. Through the next few years of the campaign, we will continue to assemble the resources needed to advance the school's mission and build a stronger community of leaders who care deeply about people and the planet – leaders determined to tackle society's greatest challenges and create lasting solutions.

The priorities for our campaign are to:

Develop a new generation of leaders for all sectors

With your support, we will increase scholarships, expand curriculum resources and experiential opportunities, ensure all voices are represented in our classrooms and offerings, and advance our mission for the next half century.

Advance bold, new ideas and cutting-edge research

With your investment, we will continue to attract and retain outstanding faculty, develop resources to enhance our academic offerings, and increase research opportunities for faculty and students.

Amplify our impact on campus, in the community, and worldwide

With your engagement, we will bring Yale SOM's mission-based approach to all sectors of business and society and increase engagement with our off-campus community to strengthen the school's impact around the world.

Tony Lynn '14:

“Earning a scholarship from Yale was a deciding factor in choosing SOM over other top MBA programs. Prior to Yale, I worked in the public sector doing meaningful but not the most lucrative work. By offering a generous scholarship, SOM showed how much it valued my pre-MBA background and perspective.”

Sam Oh '99:

“As a donor, you have an opportunity to help fund and propel an institution that really has a mission to enhance and make society better through the training of business leaders. And that’s exciting to me.”

- Participation on SOM Connect and other alumni platforms

Galina Markova '01, Diego Garaycochea '07, and Marco Severi '07, Co-leaders, United Kingdom Regional Alumni Chapter:

“Volunteering for SOM’s UK chapter is our way of giving back to the school. Whilst we are all members of the broad Yale community in the UK, the sense of belonging to a smaller fraternity is stronger: it inspires trust, confidence, and loyalty. We enjoy bringing brilliant SOMers together to share experiences and ideas, create synergies between academia and practice, and learn from one another. The vibe is automatically present, the conversation is flowing, and it’s only a matter of plunging into a chat to feel connected to fellow alumni you have never met before. This is why we dedicate time to SOM events: it enriches the community and enriches us.”

Alumni Fund

We are grateful to the thousands of Yale SOM alumni who give generously to the Alumni Fund. Your support helps the school invest in innovative academic programs and influential research.

Here are a few ways that each of the Alumni Fund giving opportunities supports our mission to educate leaders for business and society.

Dean's Priorities

A key priority for Dean Kerwin Charles is to recruit top thought leaders and exceptional teachers to Yale SOM to bolster the existing strengths of our academic disciplines. This year, nine new faculty, with research and teaching encompassing economics, finance, marketing, operations management, and organizational behavior, were recruited to the school, and five faculty members were promoted.

Loan Forgiveness

This signature SOM program repays need-based loans for recent alumni working in the public and nonprofit sectors. Your contributions help our graduates pursue impactful careers — and also benefit the nonprofit and government agencies who are able to hire talented Yale alumni.

Diversity, Equity, & Inclusion

This year, the school's Council on Anti-Racism and Equity (CARE) launched the Donald Ogilvie '78 Colloquium, which is designed to highlight stories not always told in business, bring a diversity of perspectives to the school, and foster representation both in and out of the classroom. The speaker series is named for Donald Ogilvie 'YC 68, '78, a graduate of Yale SOM's first class, who called on Yale to lead on issues of race and equity by "furthering world-class exchanges of ideas and ideals."

Scholarships for MBA, Master of Advanced Management (MAM), and Master of Management Studies (MMS) students

This year, SOM increased overall scholarship awards by 10.5%, a milestone that was made possible in part by Alumni Fund support designated for this area.

"I am both very honored and grateful to be awarded an Alumni Fund Scholarship. Due in no small part to this generosity, I was able to confidently make the decision to attend SOM. It has been a phenomenal privilege and an absolute joy to be here so far." — CELESTE WATKINS '24 MBA, 2022–23 RENNY MERRITT '84 MPPM MEMORIAL ALUMNI FUND SCHOLAR

Entrepreneurship Program

This year, the Program on Entrepreneurship worked with SOM faculty to reconceive the Innovator course, part of the MBA core curriculum, with a greater emphasis on entrepreneurship. In this course, all MBA students study idea generation, idea evaluation and development, creative projects, and fostering and sustaining innovation in organizations.

Faculty Research

Research assistance is critical to the cutting-edge scholarship carried out by Yale SOM's faculty. This year the school piloted and expanded a pre-doctoral program to collaborate with faculty on all stages of the research process, including conceptual development, data collection, data analysis, and writing.

MBA for Executives Program

The MBA for Executives program announced in June that starting with the Class of 2026, it would add an option for students to pursue general management, while maintaining its commitment to the three existing areas of focus: healthcare, asset management, and sustainability.

Curriculum & Case Development

Yale SOM's dedicated case development team allows the school to create materials to support curricular innovations and respond to faculty ideas. For example, after hearing about an operations turnaround that brought dramatic improvements to the State of Connecticut's SNAP program, Professor Edieal Pinker worked with the case team to develop a new public sector case that is now used in the Operations Engine course—part of the MBA core curriculum—and the elective Social Entrepreneurship Lab.

Alumni Fund by the Numbers

Yale SOM alumni gave $5 million to the Yale SOM Alumni Fund in the 2022–23 fiscal year, which ended on June 30. Generous giving to the fund, which directly supports Yale SOM's strategic priorities, allowed the school to adapt to challenges, continue to design and implement curricular innovations, and expand scholarship support for students while also balancing its annual budget.

FINANCIAL OVERVIEW

2022–2023

Yale School of Management Sources & Use of Funds

Revenue Sources

Allocation of Contributions Received

Allocation of Current Year Donated Funds

In 2022–2023, alumni, friends, corporations, and foundations donated more than $61 million in outright gifts and pledge payments to Yale SOM. This critical funding was directed in three important ways: to Yale SOM’s endowment – ensuring funding for the future of the school; to provide funding for the school’s core operations this fiscal year; and to provide current-use funding for specific activities and initiatives at SOM.

As a standalone school, the Yale School of Management is responsible for its own budget. While the school has a healthy endowment of its own, we do not receive allocations from the general university endowment and rely on annual gifts from our alumni and friends to meet our financial obligations.

This year, philanthropy accounted for nearly half of the school’s annual budget—supporting classroom innovation, professorships, scholarships, faculty research, and student programs. Thanks to your support, the school has had a balanced budget for the past 15 years.

Use of Funds

Yale SOM Endowment Market Value: $1.27 billion

June 2023

3.1% of Yale University Endowment

Endowment spending ensures Yale SOM’s long-term excellence and mission focus. Most endowment spending is designated for professorships, program support, and scholarships, with a small amount available for unrestricted spending.

REUNION GIVING

Fundraising is an important part of the reunion tradition. Class reunion gift campaigns are a peer-to-peer fundraising effort, led by volunteers who work to inspire classmates to make special commitments in celebration of their reunions. Some alumni choose to support the campaign by making larger-than-usual gifts or multi-year pledges to the Alumni Fund. Others make significant capital commitments in addition to their annual support of the Alumni Fund. All of these gifts count toward the reunion gift campaigns as well as to Driving Purpose — The SOM Campaign.

The success of the reunion gift campaigns this year was thanks in large part to our tireless volunteers, who led by example, connected with their classmates, and encouraged them to invest in Yale SOM's future and its distinctive mission.

DRIVING PURPOSE— THE YALE SOM CAMPAIGN HONOR ROLL

Driving Purpose—The Yale SOM Campaign aims to provide the resources needed to extend and strengthen our school's mission, and to build a stronger community committed to leadership for business & society. We are grateful for the steadfast support of our alumni and friends, whose generosity enables the school to develop innovative educational programs, advance cutting-edge faculty research, and further engage our robust community.

This campaign honor roll acknowledges the total gifts and pledges from individuals, couples, corporations, or foundations to Yale SOM from the beginning of the campaign on July 1, 2018, through June 30, 2023. Thank you for driving Yale SOM's impact on campus, in the community, and around the globe.

ALUMNI FUND HONOR ROLL

This honor roll recognizes all new gifts and pledge payments made to the Yale SOM Alumni Fund between July 1, 2022, and June 30, 2023. As a financially self-sufficient Yale professional school, Yale SOM relies on the Alumni Fund to provide crucial current-use resources each year for strategic priorities and new initiatives, and to address urgent needs of the school.

ALUMNI VOLUNTEERS

Alumni volunteers support the Yale School of Management in many ways, including speaking to students on campus, organizing regional events, interviewing potential degree candidates, mentoring students, serving on various committees, organizing reunions, and fundraising. This year we engaged many new volunteers; in fact, 42% of this year's alumni volunteers did not volunteer last year.

We are very grateful to the following Yale SOM alumni, who contributed their time, energy, and expertise to the school through these and other activities between July 1, 2022, and June 30, 2023.
