DANA-FIONA ARMOUR

Dana-Fiona Armour graduated from the École National des Beaux-Arts in Paris in 2019. At the age of bio-editing and the Object-Oriented Ontology movement - a movement that can be summed up as a school of thought which rejects the privilege of human existence over the existence of non-human objects - she imagines a hybridization between the human and the object. By wishing to put the human and the object on the same level, she creates hybrids where the organic mixes with the rigid forms of minimalism and conceptual art. It could also be characterized by a fusion of medicine, science and art - she has collaborated with researchers and doctors for some of her projects.

Armour is currently a resident of Poush Collective, Clichy Paris. She has her first solo-exhibition at Andréhn-Schiptjenko Paris in September 2021.
