

Continental
The Future in Motion

Original will always be original. VDO will become Continental.

Continental, a global technology company and one of the world's leading automotive suppliers, is continually moving forward. VDO original spare parts are currently being consolidated under the Continental brand.

Starting in the fall of 2020, VDO original spare parts will be supplied in new Continental packaging. It goes without saying that they will be the same high-quality products. It's what's inside that counts.

The packaging will be changed in a gradual manner, which means that mixed deliveries may occur. For a certain period, the products may come both in the new Continental packaging and in the familiar VDO packaging. In any case you will always receive the same original products.

Starting in September you'll find all of the products in the TecDoc online catalog at Continental/VDO.

Further information:

www.continental-aftermarket.com/markenttransfer