What's Your Favorite Magic Trick? Meeting minutes 11 Feb 20

In a short Business meeting, New President Jake Austin outline future meeting agendas. Magic performances started with Tom Paine's Zodiac Mirror where a volunteer secretly picked one of the twelve Zodiac signs. Tom not only determined the sign that was picked, but also predicted the sign's associated card. It was a beautiful step into the arcane.

Jake shared his review of the book Inspirations by Dr. Larry Haas which was a magic book sans tricks that dealt with philosophy of magical performances.

Jeff 'the Mediocre' Montel had three volunteers perform the Little Bunny's Card Trick where volunteers took cards, exchanged them, and mixed them upside down in their deck. They did this twice before the narrator read the Little Bunnies Book which correctly predicted the number of face up cards, their color, and their suit. A short fun read.

Dick Bowman did his ESP card routine where a volunteer picked the Queen of Spades from the face up deck. When the card was turned over it had written on Upcoming Magic Lectures Shows.

13 March 2020

The magic club in Castle Rock has hired Tricky Ricky Henson to do a magic lecture on 13 March 2020 from 6 till 9 p.m.; At the back "I knew you would choose the Queen of Spades." Backs were all standard Bikes. Tom followed this trick with a similar routine where the picked card was the only one with an "X" written on the face.

Jordan Myers, our best finger flicker, performed an apparently simple, but befuddling routine. He selected all the suits of four different denominations and mixed them. Then he laid them out, face down, in an "H" pattern, with two cards at each point of the "H."
He then asked a Dave Wintermute to intuit if the cards matched or not. Dave was right every time, but had no idea how he forced me to be so right.

Cosmo Solano did the 'Quirk' trick where a volunteer thinks of a card and then keeps dividing the card deck in half until he has a single card. Amazingly, it is the chosen card.
Cosmo also did the "Forbidden Trick" which I am not allowed to describe (coming soon to a market near you). You had to be there to believe it. - Dr Dave Wintermute the IHOP (International House of Pancakes) reserved room on 575 Genoa Way, Castle Rock 80109 (South of the Outlet Mall).

Come join us for a Dinner, Lecture, and a chance to buy some new magic. Ricky will have $5 "Grab Bags" containing about $35 worth of magic and will have several tables of magical products. Tricky Ricky specializes in kid and family friendly entertainment. Is this the type of thing you do? Come learn some new techniques.

Cost is either $20 for the lecture and a free club membership or $20 for a club membership with a free lecture. Please contact Dave Wintermute for more information: wintermutedavid@gmail.com

An note from the new PPP Vice Pres!

Why attend a magic club meeting? This is a topic that has been explored for the last century. Is it sharing magic tricks? Is it being able to perform a magic trick one is working on? Is it to support the local magicians or even support the national organization, The Society of American Magicians? Is it to learn and hear about the history of magic? Is it to maintain current knowledge about the community of magic or even the newest and most exciting magic trick on the market? I think for everyone who attends a meeting it can be any of these and more.

Why do I attend? I realized a long time ago that attending a meeting is about developing relationships with people who share the same interest. When I walk into a meeting I know I will be accepted for who I am and where I am when it comes to the magic arena. Whether one is a professional, or a hobbyist, or a historian, I have found a unique environment in which I am safe to share my belief on an art that has given me so much over the year.

Our Colorado Springs club has these features plus many more. Our meeting place is one of class and warmth (Cosmo's Magic Theater). We are fortunate in having two Past Presidents of Society of American Magicians (Mark Weidhaas and Dick Bowman) who not only are active in our club but true staples of our organization. Our Dean (Bill Wysong) is a wealth of history as well as the one who keeps us centered. A new president (Jake Austin) who is enthusiastic and shows leadership skills that are exciting and insightful. With guidance from our past president (Jeremy Chisum) the club is in great hands. But the most important ingredient to our club is YOU the member. Without you we would be lost. The innovative thoughts, the enthusiasm, the knowledge that members bring, and most importantly the independent and global desire of our craft is displayed at each meeting. For those who have not attended recently, please consider coming to a meeting. I think you will be inspired as I have been. Have a magical day....
